Richard L. MacLennan
President, Garrett College

The opening of the Career Training and Technology Center (CTTC) in Accident this fall marked a significant action towards meeting our commitment to the community and to increasing the number of degrees and certificates earned by Garrett College students. Strong community-wide collaboration between our County Commissioners, Garrett County Economic Development, the Community Action Committee, and other regional agencies enabled the College to open this state-of-the-art facility to expand offerings in workforce preparation and professional development. Programs already underway in the CTTC include Welding, Labview (Robotics), Certified Nursing Assistant, Adult Basic Education, and a number of customized training courses. Planning and design for the second phase of the CTTC project will begin in January 2011. The facilities proposal includes classrooms that accommodate courses in the areas of alternative energy, technology and automation, electrical, plumbing, HVAC, carpentry, and masonry. The courses will be implemented on a cyclical basis based on workforce demand and interest.

In our Southern Outreach Center, located in the old Oakland Armory, recently completed renovations have improved and nearly doubled existing educational space. With its completion, our ability to identify and meet the needs of residents in the southern end of the County is substantially enhanced.

Looking forward into a New Year, construction that began in July on Phase I of the Community Aquatic and Recreation Center on the McHenry Campus is on track for opening in September 2011. Planning is underway to identify specific programming to be offered to the public. The College is committed to making this facility accessible to all Garrett County residents.

The beginning of the New Year also marks the completion of my first six months as President of Garrett College. Together, the faculty, staff, students, administrators, and I have had many conversations about the College, its direction, and its connection to the larger community. I've also had the opportunity to hear from many Garrett County residents who have been connected in meaningful ways with the College over its 39-year history. These interactions have reinforced my initial impressions and reason for coming to Garrett County—Garrett College is an exceptional institution and critically important to the community it serves. To say that public support for Garrett College and the role it plays is strong would be an understatement, and we are honored to hold the trust and confidence placed in us.

As a learning organization, we also recognize the need to continually assess community needs, our programs and services, and opportunities for development. So beginning this month, the College is launching a large-scale planning and visioning process to help set its direction for the next five to ten years. Key to this activity will be a series of "town hall" meetings to be held in March and April, where we will be seeking public input into our planning activities and direction. The Garrett College community is committed to being the college that Garrett County needs it to be---broad public input will help us get there.

May we together enjoy a happy and rewarding New Year!

Sincerely,
Richard L. MacLennan
President
Garrett College

Intersession/Spring 2011 Payment Information

To assist our students and their families in meeting their financial obligations, we offer a deferred payment plan as an alternative to traditional payment arrangements. It is important that students understand their payment obligations. We encourage students to contact the Business Office at 301-387-3061 if they have questions.

1. Full financial aid—If you are receiving enough financial aid to cover your entire balance, there is no charge to defer your account balance.
2. Partial financial aid—a) If you bring a statement of your financial aid awards to the Business Office, complete the appropriate paperwork, and pay any balance not covered by financial aid by January 25, 2011, there is no charge to defer the portion of your bill covered by financial aid. b) If you bring a statement of your financial aid awards to the Business Office and would like to defer any remaining balance, you may enroll in a payment plan at www.highereducationservices.org/. There is a $35 application fee.
3. Regular deferred payment plan—Further information is available at the Business Office. You may enroll at www.highereducationservices.org/.

If you are covered by an outside party such as Western Maryland Consortium, AmeriCorps, Division of Rehabilitation Services, your employer, etc., you must have the appropriate paperwork on file by January 25, 2011, to avoid interest and/or late fees. Payment plan dates are December 1, January 1, February 1, and March 1.

Delinquent Accounts

We will charge delinquent accounts a $25 late fee. In addition, we will refer delinquent accounts to our collection agency which is currently the State of Maryland's Central Collection Unit. Once an account is referred to CCU, a collection fee of 17% will be added to the account, the debt will be reported to consumer reporting agencies, and Garrett College can no longer settle the account. If you have a delinquent account, you will not be allowed to register for the upcoming semester. In addition, no grades or transcripts will be released until the account is paid in full. If you pay with a personal or business check, grades and/or transcripts will be held for 30 days after receipt of payment due to the possibility of insufficient funds or stop payments. Accounts paid with either cash or credit cards can have information released by the next business day.

Educational Opportunities

Whether you are 16 or 60, planning to complete a degree or pursue a new interest, seeking a new career, or planning to upgrade your job skills, you will find educational opportunities and services at Garrett College.

Credit for Prior Learning: Did you know that the learning you acquired on the job may be worth college credit? If you have had significant experience that has resulted in college level learning, you may have this learning evaluated through Garrett's process of nontraditional credit. Options include challenge tests, performance evaluations, and portfolio assessment. Applications are available in the Records and Registration Office and in the Office of the Dean of Academic Affairs. (Fees may apply.)

West Virginia Reciprocity: West Virginia residents of certain West Virginia counties who enroll in programs qualifying for West Virginia Reciprocity pay the same tuition as residents of Garrett County. For a complete listing of these programs and a listing of eligible counties, contact the Admissions Office at 301-387-3044.

Statewide Designated Programs: All residents of Maryland who enroll in a qualified statewide designated program (Adventure Sports, Juvenile Justice, or Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology) are eligible for the in-county tuition rate. Please note that statewide designation for the Adventure Sports program is limited to the AAS degree only.

Persons 60 Years Old or Retired and Disabled: Tuition may be waived for any Maryland resident who is 60 years old or older or who is disabled/retired (by reason of disability). Not all disabled persons are eligible--only those with a permanent disability who are currently receiving social security disability benefits or those eligible as defined by the Railroad Retirement Act. ONLY upon verification that a person is receiving such benefits will tuition be waived.

Veterans' Assistance: Garrett College participates in GI Bill Education/Training Benefits and other military assistance programs. Interested veterans should contact Veterans Affairs in the Office of Financial Aid at 301-387-3057 for more information or online at www.gibill.va.gov.

We will help you develop clear career goals and obtain the skills necessary to conduct a successful job search. Our free services include résumé and cover letter writing, self-assessment screening, local and national job bulletin board, Career Resource Library, and internship/volunteer opportunities. For more information, contact the Career Services office in Room LC-688 of the Learning Center or call 301-387-3046.

Registration Information

Noncredit registration will be taken on a first-come, first-served basis. Your social security number and birthdate are requested on our registration form for use as student identification numbers to help us avoid duplicating records and mailings. It is for internal use only and remains confidential. Your birthdate is required by the Maryland Higher Education Commission. "The College reserves the right to cancel any course that, in the judgment of the staff, does not have sufficient enrollment. The decision is usually made one week before the first scheduled class meeting, and all registrants will be notified promptly. A full refund is processed automatically. To help prevent cancellations, please register at least two weeks before a course is scheduled to begin." Provisions included are not to be regarded as an irrevocable contract between the student and the College. Payment may be made by mail or in person at our office. We accept VISA, MasterCard, and Discover. Please call us at 301-387-3069.

Financial Information

Course costs listed include tuition, fees, and out-of-county/out-of-state differentials (where applicable). Costs listed for Maryland Senior Citizens (persons 60 years of age or older) include a tuition waiver (where applicable) and fees. All students are responsible for any materials or texts that may be required for all class sessions.

Refund Policy

Completion of a registration form (in person, by phone, or by FAX) and tuition and/or fee payment serves as confirmation of registration and results in the student being obligated for the cost of the course. If, for any reason, a student cannot attend the class for which he/she is registered, it is his/her responsibility to withdraw from the course. In order to withdraw from a noncredit course the student must complete a 'withdrawal' form. Refunds will be made in full if you withdraw from a course prior to its first sessionssion. If you withdraw prior to the second class meeting, you are entitled to a 75% refund. There will be no refund after the second class sessionssion. Any requests for exceptions to this policy must be made in writing and should be submitted to the Dean of Continuing Education & Workforce Development.

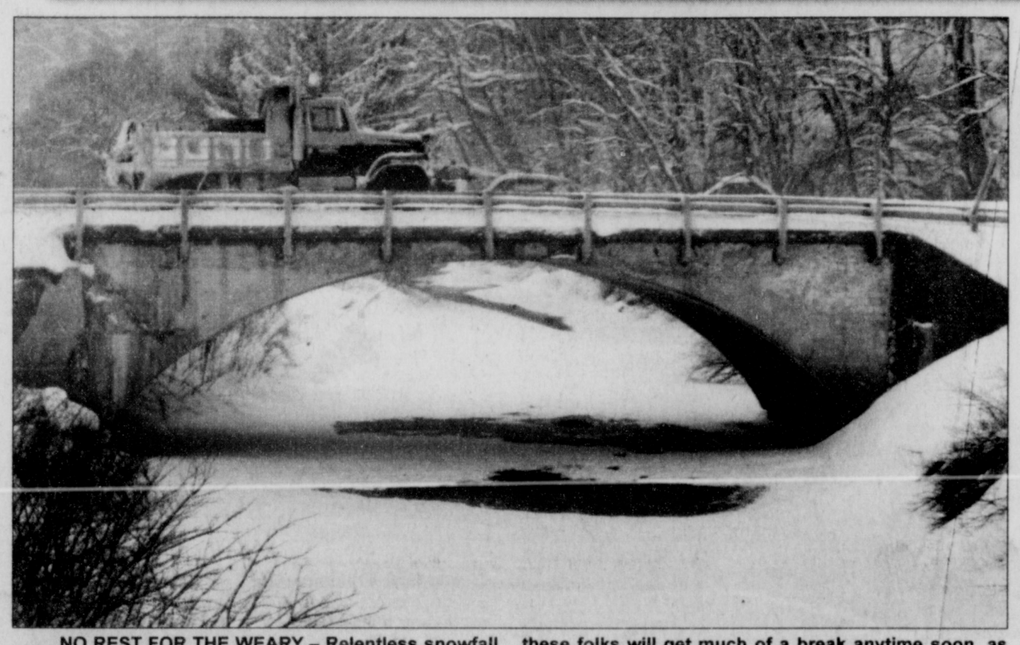
BLIND BUSINESSOWNER FINDING SUCCESS – As all business people do, Robin Fife, at right, makes regular visits to the bank to conduct necessary transactions. Setting her apart somewhat is the fact that she is without sight. But blindness has not hindered her from achieving her dream of owning a business. See feature story.



NO REST FOR THE WEARY – Relentless snowfall and high winds of the past several days in Garrett County have kept town and county roads crews out 24 and 7, working constantly to keep the paths open for safe travel. This driver is pictured as he crosses the frozen Little Yough in Oakland. The forecast does not indicate that these folks will get much of a break anytime soon, as snow is predicted every day for at least the next week. All drivers are of course urged to drive with great caution in this weather, and also to give space and patience to the snowplow drivers, who are, after all, out there making the place safer for everyone. "Buy American" Bill Introduced By Delegate Beitzel

Del. Wendell R. Beitzel (R-Dist. 1A) introduced his first bill for consideration by the Maryland General Assembly yesterday, the first day of the 2011 session.

House Bill 12, dubbed by Beitzel as the "Buy American" bill, would require state agencies to purchase American-made uniforms, as well as safety equipment and protective accessories. The measure, which was introduced late into the 2010 legislative session, will once again be assigned to the House Health and Government Operations Committee.

"This is a jobs bill, plain and simple," said Beitzel. "We as Maryland's legislators need to do anything and everything we can to foster jobs."

There are at least 20 states that have some form of "Buy American" purchasing preferences. Beitzel's introduction of the bill stemmed from a request from Fechheimer Manufacturing, located in Grantsville. Fechheimer employs 150 workers who make uniforms for state employees in states around the country that have Buy American requirements.

According to Beitzel, the primary reason Fechheimer is manufacturing uniforms and other items in Grantsville is because other states

Determined Oaklander Joins Ranks Of Md.'s Blind Business Owners

by Peggy Santamaria

Before charting a course for the New Year that stretches ahead, people often reflect on the year that has just ended and review accomplishments, losses, lessons learned, and moments treasured.

Robin Fife may look back on 2010 as a time of incalculable loss and joyful gain. Both led her to triumph over challenge. During the previous year, she achieved a lifetime dream of operating her own business but also faced the death of her mother, following a long illness. These events are magnified by the fact that Robin Fife is blind.

Following her education at the Maryland School for the Blind, Fife returned home to her mother's house in Oakland and began a career in the sheltered workshop at Appalachian Crossroads, where she was employed as a mailroom clerk. With the assistance of aides, she tended to the tasks of affixing labels to envelopes using a guide and weighing each piece of mail on an audio scale.

"I always enjoyed my work in the mail room, but I wanted to do something more," Fife said. Her bubbly personality and sense of independence afforded her the confidence to research other job opportunities. Assisted by Appalachian Crossroads, Fife interviewed with several employers, but did not succeed in finding a position that matched her strengths in the workplace.

Scott Hollingsworth, director of Day Programs at Appalachian Crossroads, was aware of Fife's desire to expand her career.

"Robin has a lot of initiative. She wanted to create her own future," Hollings-worth said. "So she set

Ordinance To Ban Gas Drilling In MLP Introduced By Mayor, Council

The Mayor and Town Council of Mountain Lake Park introduced at its January meeting held last Thursday an ordinance that will make it illegal for the drilling of natural gas within the town limits.

Ordinance No. 2011-01, titled Mountain Lake Park's Community Protection from Natural Gas Extraction Ordinance, "establishes a Bill of Rights for Mountain Lake Park residents and removes legal powers from gas extraction corporations within the town."

At the heart of the ordinance is the following statement of law: "It shall be unlawful for any corporation to engage in the extraction of natural gas within the Town of Mountain Lake Park, with the exception of gas wells installed and operating at the time of enactment of this ordinance."

The bill also recognizes the right of the people to "a form of governance where they live which recognizes that all power is inherent in the people, that all free governments are founded on the people's authority and consent, and that corporate entities and their directors and managers shall not enjoy special privileges or powers under the law which make community majorities subordinate to them."

When asked why this measure is being taken, Mayor Leo Martin said, "Our primary duty is to protect the health and welfare of the town, and especially to protect our water."

Among the complaints and fears about the drilling for natural gas in the Marcellus shale is the potential contamination of water supplies by the highly toxic chemicals used in the drill-

House Sustains Major Damage In Sunday Fire

A two-story, wood-frame single-family house near Red House sustained major damage Sunday morning from a fire that was determined by fire investigators to be accidental and electrical in nature.

Volunteers from the Oakland, Gorman, Deer Park, Deep Creek, Bayard, and Aurora fire departments were summoned to the residence of Jonathan and Keri Lucas, 4150 Garrett Highway, south of Oakland, at 10:50 a.m. after a passing motorist saw smoke coming from the structure and called 911.

Local Residents Tell Senator, Delegate Their Opinions On Natural Gas Drilling

About 100 local residents attended Sen. George Edwards and Del. Wendell Beitzel's annual prelegislative meeting Saturday morning at Garrett College, despite snowy weather conditions.

"This is one of the best turnouts that we've had for this kind of session," Beitzel noted.

Edwards started holding prelegislative meetings several years ago to give constituents a chance to voice their concerns prior to the start of the General Assembly. This year's legislative session began on Wednesday in Annapolis.

Arguably, the main reason for Saturday's large turnout was Marcellus shale drilling. A total of 27 people spoke at the three-hour long meeting, with 23 of them addressing that issue.

Edwards cautioned before the meeting started that it was not to be a debate or hearing. Nonetheless, impassioned statements were made by many individuals, leading to some intense exchanges between those who favor moving forward as soon as possible with drilling and those who want to slow the permitting process down until the issue can be examined further.

Four of the 23 speakers who talked about drilling seemed confident that it could be done safely. The other 19 speakers, however, voiced concerns about possible air pollution, depletion/pollution of water supplies, and properties neighboring natural gas wells being damaged. They also questioned the state's ability to regulate the drilling industry and who would compensate property owners for damages.

Allegheny Highlands Conservancy representative Kevin Dodge of Bittinger acknowledged that drilling presented a financial opportunity for landowners.

"But we are concerned about the potential impacts of exploitation of the Marcellus gas shale, particularly to water, in terms of withdrawal for the amount of water that needs to be done for fracking and the potential contamination of surface and ground water," Dodge said. "These impacts go beyond an individual's property and can affect many other people throughout a watershed or an aquifer."

Until all concerns are addressed, he said, there should not be any natural gas extraction.

"We think we need to go slow and take the time to

GC Board of Education Prepares For Imminent Budget Dilemma

While speaking in Cambridge last week on the pending shift in education funding from the state to local level, Gov. Martin O'Malley stated, "The only thing I can guarantee you about this budget is that no one will be happy."

This quote began a presentation given by Larry McKenzie, director of finance for the Garrett County Board of Education, during the new business session of Tuesday night's BOE meeting.

The discussion centered around the state of Maryland's new wealth assessment formula that will be used by state legislators to determine the amount of state aid provided to each county.

The exact impact this new assessment will have on Garrett County is yet unknown, as McKenzie's presentation provided only tentative information. The estimated budget shortfall for the 2012 fiscal year, however, was projected to be well over $3 million.

"This is the most critical budget of my career," Superintendent Wendell Teets stated during the presentation. He continued by discussing the importance of an education system in relation to economic growth and was uncertain what would be left of Garrett County schools if the budget deficit were corrected solely by cuts in program funding.

"We will do all we can to operate efficiently, but it is critical to address the lack in local funding," Teets concluded.

The discussion closed

Commissioners Slate Public Mtg. For Next Thurs.

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will hold its next public meeting on Thursday, Jan. 20, beginning at 4 p.m. in the St. Peter the Apostle Catholic Church parish hall, located at the corner of Oak and Fourth streets in Oakland.

The event will start with a natural gas extraction presentation by the Maryland Department of the Environment and the Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development.

Members of the local Marcellus Shale Advisory Committee will also be in attendance for this session.

"Interested persons are encouraged to attend to utilize this time to address questions to state and county officials, and public commentary will be welcome," said county administrator Monty Pagenhardt.

AREA PLAYERS OF THE YEAR – Two Garrett County high school soccer players received major post-season honors and will be recognized at the annual Dapper Dan Banquet in Cumberland later this month. Northern High School's Kaitlynn Fratz, pictured in action at left, was named the area's Offensive Player of the Year, while Southern's Claire Wilkinson, right, was voted the area's Defensive Player of the Year. See sports pages for details of their accomplishments on the pitch during the 2010 season. Photos by John McEwen.

OOPS! The wintry weather evidently impeded the vision of the driver of this Kessel Mulch tractor-trailer rig early Monday morning, causing him to inadvertently cut a corner a bit too closely near the B&O Railroad crossing in Mtn. Lake Park. The entire rig overturned down the bank, and heavy equipment had to be brought to the scene to set it back on its wheels. The trailer, which was loaded with bulk charcoal, was virtually undamaged in the mishap and was subsequently hooked to another truck, as the one pulling it originally sustained significant damage. The driver was not injured. Photo courtesy of Geoff Day.

MSP Seeking Info On Burglaries In Friendsville Area

Maryland State Police are seeking information on three burglaries that have recently occurred in the Friendsville area. It is unknown if these incidents are related.

Police responded to the 500 block of Buffalo Run Road on Jan. 5 for a report of a stolen Polaris Sportsman 400 ATV, blue in color. Unknown suspect(s) allegedly pried open a shed and took the vehicle, which is worth approximately $2,700.

MSP troopers were called to the Liberty Gas Station in Friendsville this past Monday for a reported break-in. Suspect(s) forced entry into the business sometime between Jan. 9 and 10 and stole several packs of various cigarettes and two metal cash drawers. The suspect(s) might have been driving a white pickup truck. Tfc. Huber is heading the investigation.

A third burglary was reported to the McHenry Barrack involving the Friendsville Laundromat. Sometimes between 10 p.m. on Jan. 9 and 7 a.m. on Jan. 10, unknown suspect(s) entered the building through a window and tried to access the change machine inside. Tfc. DeLauter is in charge of the investigation.

Anyone with information regarding any of these incidents is asked to contact the MSP McHenry Barrack at 301-387-1101. Callers may remain anonymous.

Three Injured In Recent Motor Vehicle Accidents

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to two vehicle accidents with injuries this past weekend. The following incidents are unrelated.

Deputies responded to George Washington Highway near Mason School Road on Saturday evening. Investigation determined that Charles Wray, Springfield, Va., had been traveling east on George Washington Highway, when he crossed the centerline and collided with a vehicle driven by Charles Stoner, Oakland. Two juvenile passengers were transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad. Wray was cited for failure to drive right of center.

In a separate incident, deputies responded to Garrett Highway near Weber Road on Monday afternoon. Investigation revealed that Amanda Elizabeth Schmidt had been traveling south on Garrett Highway, when she struck a vehicle driven by Eric Scott Sweitzer from behind. Schmidt was taken by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH for treatment of her injuries. She was cited for failure to reduce speed to avoid a collision.

Two Arrested By Deputies For Traffic Violations

Two men were arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies following traffic incidents last week. The following incidents are unrelated.

Kyle David Troutman, 19, Westernport, was stopped by deputies at approximately 2:30 a.m. after he was witnessed driving around a railroad crossing gate in Deer Park. Investigation revealed that his license was suspended. He is charged with driving on a suspended license, failure to yield at a railroad crossing, reckless driving, and negligent driving. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

In a separate incident, deputies responded to a single-vehicle accident on Eighth Street and Memorial Drive, Oakland. Shawn Lee Cardiff, 29, Mtn. Lake Park, was identified as the drive of the vehicle and was reportedly intoxicated. He is charged with driving under the influence, driving while impaired, and DUI per se. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail and later released.

have the Buy American requirements.

"With Maryland's unemployment rate hovering around 8%, we must keep Maryland's jobs in Maryland," Beitzel said.

The membership of the House Health and Government Operations Committee amended last year's measure during the 2010 legislative session to include that committee's membership as co-sponsors to the bill. This process is known as a "spónsor" amendment. The bill was then stalled in the Senate on the last day of the 2010 session.

"The action taken by the members of the House Health and Government Operations Committee is a great sign for passage this year," commented Beitzel.

The legislation also provides an exemption to the bill's requirements if the quality, quantity or cost of the American made product provides a hardship on the department participating in the procurement process.

about finding an opportunity to control her own schedule, to set her own goals, and to do something that would allow her to measure her success based on her individual effort."

When former Appalachian Crossroads trainee Roger Uber moved to Virginia, the business he started, Sunshine Vending Service, became available for acquisition.

"The vending machine business seemed like a good fit for Robin," said Hollingsworth. "She would need assistance from a job coach, someone to be her 'eyes,' but with that, she thought she could be successful."

Fife said she was excited about the possibility of becoming the new owner of a business, and was anxious to move ahead.

To help her achieve her goal, Hollingsworth, along with Appalachian Crossroads program coordinator Debbie Goralski, met with Debbie Williamson, the western Maryland supervisor of the Office of Blindness and Vision Services of the state's Division of Rehabilitation Services (DORS). The three sketched out a plan.

"DORS collaborates with another program called Reaching Independence through Self Employment (RISE) to promote entrepreneurship by people with disabilities," Hollingsworth explained. The hope was to win the approval of this organization.

A business plan outlining the cost of purchasing vending machines from Roger Uber, the cost of supplies, licensing, tax assistance, and insurance, plus and a two-year projection of income and expenditures was drafted by Hollingsworth. The plan was then reviewed by RISE and recommended to DORS for funding. Robin Fife was on her way to achieving her career goals.

Once the funding was secured, Fife went to the bank, opened a business account, and began to set the business up. The first customer, Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, had a snack machine in place that belonged to Uber.

"The people there wanted something different. They wanted a combination snack and soda machine. So first I purchased the snack machine that belonged to Roger, removed that, and then purchased a new combination machine and had that delivered to the customer's location," Fife explained.

With the machine in place, Fife was in business. Her job coach from Appalachian Crossroads, Walter Rupp, assists her each week, driving her to the SGRS and helping her check inventory. They then purchase needed inventory, return and stock the machines, empty the money and head to the bank to make a deposit.

Rupp said he has great respect for Fife.

"Robin is fantastic. We have coded some of the vending slots so she knows what product goes where. She is earnest, careful and really loves her work," he said.

Fife is delighted with this new challenge in her life.

"It is great to have my own business," she said, "I want the customers to be happy, and the happier they are, the better sales are. I look forward to vending day each week. I feel blessed that I have this opportunity."

Hollingsworth said very few blind people in Maryland have started their own business with the RISE program.

"Fewer than eight people statewide have been involved, and Robin is the first for Garrett and Allegany counties," he said.

Williamson said she is proud to have assisted Fife in setting up her business. "I have known Robin for several years," she said. "I know that she is an independent and strong-willed person. It is wonderful to hear her speak as a business owner."

Fife said she hopes to expand her business in the coming months. She is also adapting to the changes in life following the loss of her mother.

"Faith in God has kept me strong while making the transition to living completely alone," she said.

Whatever new challenges come her way in 2011, Robin Fife will undoubtedly meet them head-on with her trademark determination and indomitable spirit.

Anyone interested in having a vending machine installed at a business location may contact Robin Fife by calling Debbie Goralski at Appalachian Crossroads: 301-334-8449, ext. 203.

To learn more about the services provided by Appalachian Crossroads, persons may visit the web site at www.appalachiancrossroads.com.

Wind Being Killed By Gas...

Most will recall the wind industry project of billionaire T. Boone Pickens, who placed a $2 billion order for turbines in his home state of Texas and then began touting the Pickens Plan. He called the U.S. "the Saudi Arabia of wind," and quickly gained followers, including then Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid and former Vice President Al Gore.

However, just last month Pickens abandoned his plan and is now hoping that Canada will purchase his wind turbines. What happened? Well, Pickens said when he launched his plan in 2008 that in order for wind energy to be competitive, the cost of natural gas must be at least $9 per million BTUs (British thermal units). However, the price of natural gas is now around $4 per million BTUs, so despite federal subsidies into wind energy production that amount to $6.44 per million BTUs, wind energy is not economical.

Nonetheless, the lame duck Congress recently voted to extend the wind subsidies, even though the property tax breaks for wind projects in Texas cost nearly $1.6 million per job that was created.

Somewhat ironic for those of us in Garrett County, the reason natural gas prices have remained so low is because of the drilling industry's newfound ability to harvest methane from shale beds, and because of this new technology experts believe there will be a glut of natural gas for over 10 years, meaning the price is going to remain low. That, of course, is bad news for those in the wind energy business, and it's already having a significant effect beyond Mr. Pickens' dilemma. Through the first three quarters of 2010, only 1,600 megawatts of new wind capacity were installed in the U.S., which is a decline of 72% when compared to the same period in 2009, and the smallest number since 2006. Some predict that the number of new wind installations will fall again this year by as much as 50%.

Yet our governor, Martin O'Malley, announced just yesterday that he is planning to introduce legislation that would require power companies in the state to buy electricity from turbines placed in the Atlantic Ocean. The legislation would require utilities to sign contracts to buy significant amounts of power from offshore wind projects. While turbines offshore would be expected to generate more power than those on land, they're also likely to be much more expensive to build. That's pouring even more good money (most likely tax money) after bad money.

If we have to have wind turbines at all, many of us here in Garrett County would greatly prefer having all of them located offshore. But why are we continuing to pursue this form of energy production at all if it is so economically unfeasible?

Could somebody please forward the above information about wind energy to our governor?

To the Editor:

How fortunate we are to have the Wound Care Center in our community!

I had a non-healing surgical wound and since my surgeon was located in Morgantown he suggested I go to the Wound Care Center in Morgantown. I explained I would rather be referred to our local Wound Care Center.

The Oakland facility is located closer to my home, plus on two occasions when I had appointments, I would have canceled had it been scheduled in Morgantown due to the weather conditions.

The facility is located behind the Oakland hospital. The parking is basically outside the front door, the wait time was minimal (if any) and all the staff was very kind, caring, and helpful from the moment I walked in the door.

I had to call one day due to an issue I was having and was advised to come in that day. The doctor even had to perform an unscheduled procedure. I know for sure without Dr. Fridkin's expertise I would still be having difficulty attempting to heal.

Thanks to Dr. Fridkin and her staff, Kendra Thayer, Stephanie Brenneman, Darlene Engel, and Sharon Miller, for their assistance. The Wound Care Center can be reached at 301-533-4270.

Sincerely,
Kim Powell RN

To the Editor:

This letter is being written to let the people of Garrett County know what an excellent service I received from Eric Bowser, owner of Keylock LLC out of McHenry.

I locked myself out of my car with my house keys, purse, and the keys to my boyfriend's truck all locked up inside my car. My car had a dead lock system on it that prevented a locksmith from entering. The best AAA could do for me was to tow it to a dealership, with me having to sign a damage waiver. The spare key to my car was locked in my boyfriend's truck 25 miles away at our home.

We called Eric Bowser on a Sunday. He came and got us. He drove us to our home. He unlocked the truck to get my spare key, and then drove us back to my car. He charged an extremely fair price for this service.

Erie Bowser with Keylock truly went over and above to take care of a customer. It is nice to know that in today's world people like this still exist. I would highly recommend him to all my friends and neighbors for any locksmith need.

Sincerely,
Robin Dickerson
Frostburg

To the Editor:

I received exactly the response I expected to my letter two weeks ago. For some reason there are those among us who wish to turn a blind eye to history, and what it would teach us, even in light of current world events. I would reiterate that the government's role is not to dole out social justice and redistribute wealth which is accumulated by hard-working, enterprising, risk-taking individuals and corporations. It is to create a climate in which all individuals, regardless of background, ethnicity, or even personal morality, or lack thereof, have an equal opportunity to succeed in life.

I realize that the term social justice is very seductive and that we have become deeply entrenched in it. I also recognize that Jesus taught a form of social justice, but not through a legislative process administered by the government. When we give the government that kind of power we will pay the ultimate price. The Christian community and other secular organizations should by all means reach out and help those less fortunate and unable to help themselves. That's what Jesus taught.

But the government administration of social programs gives rise to an entitlement society where millions of people become dependent on government to sustain their way of life, and opens a can of worms that is rife with corruption and where people milk the system for all they can get out of it at the taxpayers' expense.

To willfully ignore what is going on in many European nations right now and not recognize that we are headed in the same direction is the height of foolishness. We do so at our own peril.

I did not advocate that those with so called "alternative lifestyles" should not have equal opportunity to further themselves in life, but rather the church as a separate entity has a responsibility to adhere to the Bible teaching. If we do not want to recognize God's word as an authority in our lives then we will face the consequences.

The term "alternative lifestyle," by the way is merely a fancy term for sin. Jesus was here to redeem us "from" our sins, not to comfort us "in" our sins. He said to the woman caught in adultery that He didn't condemn her, but He also said, "Go and sin no more."

To the Editor:

We western Marylanders should think twice before we "jump into shale"; that is, Marcellus shale drilling for natural gas. Our neighbors in Pennsylvania and West Virginia are already suffering the unintended consequences of this new technology.

Some of the negative impacts come from blatant lack of regulation, as in sucking water out of stream beds without permits, or from poor oversight in constructing pipe casings that then crack and leak into the aquifer. Others have addressed in detail the negative possibilities like water shortages and contamination, air pollution, etc., but I will focus on a few issues that are quite visible from existing industrial sites. (Statistics come from the N.Y. State Department of Environmental Conservation Impact Statement. Also go online to http://www.wcag-wv.org/Default.htm for accounts of accidents listed by the Wetzel County, W.Va., Action Group.)

Truck traffic for one drilling pad of eight wells would average 8,900 truckloads arriving – about 1,112 per well – with materials such as road construction equipment, rigs, generators, fluids, pipes, fracking equipment, tons of clean water and flow-back toxic water, sand, etc.

Yes, all of this activity will generate jobs and money, but also accidents, noise, traffic congestion, spills, exhaust fumes, and destruction of ill-prepared two-lane rural roads and bridges. These negative impacts are being experienced and lawsuits are impending right now in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The bottom line is that none of the experts really know what deep-earth drilling will do short-term or long-term to our earth and our health. We know already it will certainly clog our roads and change the face of our once peaceful rural way of life.

Imagine 500 pads in Garrett County and what that would mean just in terms of truck congestion. We need to ask our legislators to slow down and put a moratorium in place until proper studies are completed. They need to protect us from harm and give us a clear and honest picture of what our county will look like when the drilling industry is in place here.

Will there be enough money to hire inspectors and will we have legal recourse that does not come out of our own pockets if we are harmed? Will we be happy living in the spaces in between drilling pads, many of which have eight well rigs?

Let us weigh what is good about Marcellus shale drilling against what could be so, so bad.

To the Editor:

I'm just a truck driver, so maybe you and some of the smart people who write to you weekly can help me. The more I read and listen to the news, the more confused I get.

So far I've learned windmills – bad, offshore windmills – bad, gas from Marcellus shale – bad, strip mining for coal – bad, deep mining for coal – bad, drilling for oil in the Gulf – bad, drilling for oil in the Atlantic – bad, drilling for oil in Alaska – bad.

Do any of you have any positive ideas? Maybe a nuclear power plant in McHenry? We could use the water in the lake to cool it. I really don't see that happening. Or we could just keep buying oil from people who hate the USA. Anyone been to a gas pump lately? I have literature for horsepowered treadmills, but this is probably bad too since horses produce greenhouse gasses, and I'm sure PETA would come after me.

Yours truly,
Larry Miller

To the Editor:

This past Saturday, I took my four grandchildren to a delightful program at the library. I'm so happy to be able to report that Landon's Library is a huge success.

The children were greeted with warmth and care, and then shown to the music area where a talented pianist led energetic songs. We visited six different stations set up around the library which focused on enjoying our snowy winter days. An emphasis was also placed on getting exercise during the winter. After the crafts, puzzles, Imagination Station, stories, art, and Play-Doh making, the children were given two hardcover books to keep. They also kept the snowflake painted on their little cheeks – how cute!

Each volunteer, whether an adult or older child or teen, treated my grands with love and respect. They were having a good time, and they passed that enthusiasm to the children. Thank you, thank you to all involved, including the sponsors and the patient, cheerful librarians who were enjoying it as much as the children.

Grateful, and trying to stay warm,
Gail Getty

To the Editor:

Shentel Cable has informed customers that Nexstar Broadcasting is seeking unreasonable fees for its carriage of WHAG-TV on its Oakland cable system. This is simply not true. We believe the modest fees we are seeking from Shentel for Shentel's right to carry WHAG-TV's local programming on the Oakland system are reasonable.

WHAG-TV provides more than 30 hours of news and local programming to its community. Shentel claims that it need not pay us a fair rate because it carries other NBC stations and it places no value on WHAG-TV's local programming. We place value on our local programming and are not willing to discount the rate simply because Shentel carries two other NBC affiliates on the Oakland system; especially when Shentel pays more than $4 per subscriber to carry ESPN on its system, approximately $1 per subscriber for carriage of TNT and Disney Channel, and more than the amount we proposed for WHAG-TV (less than 2 cents per day) for several other less popular channels, none of which provide local programming to the Oakland community.

Shentel also claims that it need not pay a fair rate because the station is "free" television. Shentel ignores that it is taking programming to which it has no rights and selling it to its subscribers for its own profit. Shentel is not providing local television stations to its subscribers on a "free" basis. Shentel charges subscribers a minimum of $20 for the right to receive "free" programming from Shentel.

We are disappointed that Shentel places no value on the large amount of local programming WHAG-TV provides to its community, and regret that we have been unable to reach a fair use fee for the carriage of WHAG-TV on its newly acquired Oakland cable system. However, many other programming providers, such as DISH Network, Comcast, Atlantic Broadband and others agree that WHAG-TV's local programming has value and carry our programming on their systems.

If you support the continued carriage of WHAG-TV on this Shentel cable system, please contact David Ferguson at 540-984-5262 or by e-mail at David.Ferguson@emp.shentel.com .

Sincerely,
Hugh J. Breslin III

To the Editor:

Maryland's 24 public school systems have been recognized once again by Education Week as the best in the nation. Maryland's boards of education, superintendents, teachers, and students are clearly doing outstanding work from prekindergarten through high school graduation. Maryland students are being prepared to enter school ready to learn, given rigorous classroom instruction so that they are reading at grade level, achieving the high standards and goals set by the No Child Left Behind Act for proficiency for all students in reading, math and science, and entering the workforce and higher education ready for the challenges of the 21st century.

This is no accident. Maryland's success was paid for with state and local tax dollars generously provided to ramp up the per pupil increases in funding needed to build an adequate and equitable statewide public school system. The three consecutive years of being ranked number one in the nation is proof that the Thornton Bridge to Excellence Act, passed in 2002, and the commitments of governors and legislators since then to budget the annual increases in state funding to achieve full funding by 2008, is money well spent.

Now is not the time for Maryland to make radical cutbacks in public school funding. Now is not the time to grant a waiver to allow all counties to drop below current funding levels without at least requesting and receiving a waiver from the State Board of Education. Now is not the time to shift teacher retirement costs to local school boards – if any shift is made it must be to county governments that have the taxing authority to respond to such a huge new funding mandate.

Now is the time to hold the line on education funding, at the state and local level, to keep Maryland number one. The Maryland Association of Boards of Education, representing all 24 local boards of education, asks that all Marylanders speak out now in favor of state and local funding for public schools. Call, e-mail, or speak directly to your county commissioners, council members, executives, and delegates and senators to urge their commitment to holding the line on public education funding.

I add a personal note of congratulations and thanks to all Maryland boards of education, teachers, administrators, staff, and students for a job well done.

Thomas A. Carr, President
Maryland Association of Boards of Education

To the Editor:

We did it again! I feel like we just won back-to-back-to-back Super Bowls!

For the third straight year, Education Week's 2011 Quality Counts report has ranked Maryland first in the nation, garnering the nation's only B+ average. This is truly exciting for Maryland's public education system and worthy of celebrating.

Maryland's ranking is based on state education policies and student performance that reflect nearly two decades of work on preK-12 curriculum; state accountability and standards; teacher effectiveness; and work on school readiness, high school reform, and preparation for college and the workplace. Quality Counts uses more than 50 indicators to develop its report.

I am extremely proud of the hard-working staff at the Maryland State Department of Education. We also have extraordinarily dedicated local superintendents and boards, educators, legislators, students, families, and business partners. Thanks to their collective hard work, dedication, and level of support, Maryland continues to reap national rewards.

Our goal is to create great educational opportunities for every child in every ZIP code.

Recognition of our state's track record of success is gratifying to all of us who work to strengthen our schools, but we have no intention of maintaining the status quo.

Maryland has already taken the next step in its school reform plan. Last August, we became one of nine states to be awarded a Race to the Top federal grant. With the additional $250 million from the federal government, we will strengthen standards for students and educators, build a new data warehouse, and construct a foundation for further improvement.

It is without question that we have set high standards for Maryland's public education system. Our promise is that we will continue to evaluate our state policies and raise the bar to ensure that we will keep on climbing. A strong education system leads to an even stronger state economy. Maryland's number-one ranking for the third straight year solidifies that Maryland is definitely the place to live, work, and receive a high-quality education that prepares our students for the 21st century and the workforce.

Sincerely,
Nancy S. Grasmick
State Superintendent

from the house upon arrival of the first units from the Oakland VFD, and it took approximately 45 minutes for the approximately 50 firefighters on the scene to bring the blaze under control.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Jamie Rodeheaver reported that the origin of the fire was on the interior of the first floor and was related to an electrical problem. He estimated the loss to be $80,000 to the house and an additional $20,000 in contents.

Units and personnel from the Terra Alta VFD stood by at the Oakland fire hall. Also on the scene were units and individuals from the Southern Rescue Squad, Maryland State Highway Administration, Garrett County Sheriff's Office, American Red Cross, and Allegheny Power Company. There were no injuries reported.

According to Rodeheaver's report, the family was displaced by the fire and is currently being assisted by the American Red Cross, relatives, and friends.

Maryland General Assembly Opens To $1.6 Billion Deficit

by David Saleh Rauf
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – The Maryland General Assembly kicked off the first day of the 428th legislative session Wednesday amid a looming budget shortfall that could bring cuts in education funding, and a potential showdown over same-sex marriage that could set the stage for a contentious session.

Make no mistake: The regular 90-day session will be dominated by budget talk and cost-cutting measures intended to slash hundreds of millions of dollars in spending.

Lawmakers returned to Annapolis facing a $1.6 billion budget deficit for fiscal 2012 – without the infusion of federal stimulus bucks that helped the state overcome a roughly $2 billion deficit last year.

"Each year there's some sore point in the state of Maryland," said Senate President Thomas V. "Mike" Miller Jr., D-Calvert. "This year it's the budget."

This session, revamping the state's pension system, the merger of two state departments, and raising alcohol and gas taxes could be vehicles to help close the gap in the state's $13 billion operating budget. Funding for education will most likely be slashed, as stimulus money that helped the state stay afloat the past two years has dried up, Miller said.

"We got a lot of challenges ahead of us," said House Minority Leader Anthony J. O'Donnell, a Republican from Lusby. "It's going to be quite a trick to balance the budget."

Democratic Gov. Martin O'Malley already has put in place a voluntary buyout program for state workers in an attempt to save an estimated $40 million.

He also has said he intends to balance the budget without raising taxes or furloughing state employees. O'Malley has furloughed state employees the last three years to trim spending. Ultimately, a series of painful cuts may be unavoidable.

On Wednesday, O'Malley sounded a tone of unity, saying lawmakers need to put aside partisan differences to work through challenges facing the state.

"We often show leadership in areas before the rest of the country. . . . We need to show that as we grapple with the choices ahead," O'Malley said in a roughly 30-second address to the State House during the legislature's opening ceremony.

Local governments also are bracing for major cuts this year. A continuous cycle of funding cuts has taken its toll on municipalities over the last few years, said Michael Bennett, president-elect of the Maryland Municipal League and mayor of Aberdeen.

"We lost the highway-user revenue, 90 percent of that in the budget, and we lost 35 percent of state aid for police protection, which has really put a disproportionate hardship on our municipalities," Bennett said.

In addition to the budget, a hodgepodge of hot-button issues – such as immigration and same-sex marriage – are poised to take center stage this session.

Del. Patrick McDonough, R-Baltimore County, said he plans to file 16 bills to overhaul the state's immigration laws. On the other side of the issue are Sen. Victor Ramirez, D-Prince George's, and Sen. Richard Madaleno Jr., D-Montgomery, who plan to introduce legislation to help some immigrants get in-state tuition.

"We'll be working against that very hard," McDonough said.

The issue that could be the most contentious of the session is same sex-marriage, Miller said. Supporters are hopeful Democratic gains in the Senate could propel the legislation to passage.

As a compromise, supporters of the measure could also introduce a bill to allow civil unions. Either one, Miller said, would be "debated extensively."

"People like myself are opposed to both," he said.

Legislators are also waiting for the governor's cabinet appointments, including a replacement for Secretary of Juvenile Services Donald DeVore, who announced his resignation in November. The agency has been riddled with problems, and some legislators are hoping a new secretary will spark change.

"Someone needs to come in as the secretary and not just apologize for what's going on," said Sen. Robert Zirkin, D-Baltimore County. "They need to blow it up. There's a lot that needs to change in that agency."

O'Malley is required to submit his budget to the legislature later this month. Few details have been released, but some specific cuts are expected, lawmakers said.

Aside from education, Medicaid and the environment could see declines in funding. And the costs of teacher pensions, which Miller called a "billion dollar mandate," are also being discussed.

That would come as part of an expected overhaul of the state's pension system, a move O'Malley has signaled will be a priority this session. Last week, O'Malley opposed the idea of passing the cost of teacher pensions to local governments.

A state commission recently proposed that state employees work years longer before becoming eligible for pensions or retiree health care benefits.

In response, about 75 union members wearing green scarves flooded the capitol Wednesday to voice their discontent with proposed cuts in pensions and health care benefits.

Sue Esty, assistant director of the Maryland chapter of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees, rallied union workers before the session started with chants and slogans.

"We're here to tell lawmakers we're not going to stand for any more cuts to our pensions," she said. "We want them to know we're going to be watching them as the session transpires."

The Associated Press and Capital News Service reporters Kerry Davis and Holly Nunn contributed to this report.

BOE MEMBERS SWORN IN — Sondra Buckel, clerk of the Garrett County Court, gave the oath of office Tuesday afternoon to re-elected Garrett County Board of Education members Donald Forrester, Rodney Durst, and Tom Carr, as well as newly appointed board member Cynthia Downton. Downton assumes the seat previously held by James Raley, who now holds the office of county commissioner. Carr and Forrester will start their second term of office, and Durst will begin his sixth term. Pictured above, Buckel swears in board members, from left to right, Forrester, Durst, Downton, and Carr. ing procedure known as fracking, which is used to free the gas that is contained within the shale and thus make it harvestable.

The Bill of Rights section of the ordinance asserts legal protections for the right to water; the rights of natural communities; the right to local self-government; and the right of the people to enforce and protect these rights through their municipal government.

A public hearing on the ordinance is scheduled for February 3, and a vote on passage is scheduled for March 3.

According to Mayor Martin, the bill was modeled after the ordinance adopted on November 16 of last year by the City of Pittsburgh, and drafted by the Community Environmental Legal Defense Fund, which is based in Chambersburg, Pa..

"If Pittsburgh can do it, we can do it," Martin said, adding that he believes other Maryland municipalities should take a similar stand.

A spokesperson for the Community Environmental Legal Defense Fund said that energy corporations have moved, or are planning to move, drilling operations into Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and New York.

"Corporate 'land men' have busily signed up property owners to contracts allowing wells to be erected," the spokesperson said. "The prospect of paved-over green spaces, nights lit like airport runways, around-the-clock sounds of loud machinery, broken and pitted roads from the high-volume truck traffic, the threat of toxic trespass by a cocktail of patented chemicals and escaping methane into the ground water has alarmed neighbors and lease-holders alike, and they've begun to organize in opposition to the proposed drilling."

Fracking has been cited as a threat to surface and ground water throughout the region, and has been blamed for fatal explosions, the contamination of drinking water, local streams, the air, and soil. Collateral damages have included lost property value, ingestion of toxins by livestock, drying up of mortgage loans for prospective home buyers, and threatened loss of organic certification for farmers in the affected communities, the spokesman said.

Ben Price, projects director for the Community Environmental Legal Defense Fund, applauded Mayor Martin for "taking a stand on behalf of community rights."

"The state says Maryland residents don't have the right to decide whether or not they 'get fracked,' and that only the corporate-lobbied members of the legislature have the wisdom to decide how much harm should be legalized through state-issued permits," Price said. "We don't have a gas drilling problem. We have a democracy problem. Its symptoms are the state's refusal to recognize the right to local, community self-government, and the issuance of permits to drilling corporations against the consent of the governed."

While some local organizations are calling for a moratorium on gas drilling in Maryland, proponents say that Maryland already has far more regulations than neighboring Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and is thus well positioned to regulate the industry and essentially guarantee its safety. They add that the extraction of the gas that is plentiful in the Marcellus shale has the potential to result in a significant economic boon to Garrett County and the state.

FOR HORSE-CRAZY GIRLS ONLY: EVERYTHING YOU WANT TO KNOW ABOUT HORSES

by Christina Wilsdon

C. 2010, Feiwel and Friends, $14.99; 150 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Horsing around is the best thing in your life. Your bedroom walls are covered with posters of ponies. You've drawn dobbins all over your notebooks in school. When you say "dam," it's a good thing, and your favorite cuddle-up blanket just happens to have hooves on it.

Nobody could mistake you for anything other than the horsey girl you are. So why not brush up on mucking out, cooling down, and more by reading For Horse-Crazy Girls Only by Christina Wilsdon, illustrated by Alecia Underhill?

Whether you have a horse or you don't, you probably spend a lot of time dreaming about everything equine. That's the best thing about this book: Christina Wilsdon is horse-crazy, too, and she has lots of things to tell you.

Would you believe, for instance, that there are over 58 million horses in the world? Over 9 million of them live in the U.S. and nearly half a million live in Canada. In that population, you'll find dozens of different kinds of horses, including some to ride, some to race, and some that are in-the-house pets!

You undoubtedly already know what horses eat, but did you know that they drink up to eight gallons of water a day – more, if it's hot outside? Most horses love to be groomed, but did you know that yours might groom you back? And while horses can't burp or vomit, they sure can poop – about 50 pounds (23 kg) of it each day – which is why you need to muck out stalls daily.

Though horses are sometimes described as "hot-blooded" or "cold-blooded," that has nothing to do with their insides and everything to do with what they're built for. "Hot-blooded" horses can run up to 40 miles per hour, while "cold-blooded" horses can pull things that weigh much more than they do. And here's something fun: You can tell if a horse is breathing in or out by watching her run... and if she's jumping, you can bet she's holding her breath.

Read this book and you'll learn how humans tamed horses, how to say "horse" in other languages, where horses came from (and how they got to Hawaii), why saddles differ, and why you should never walk behind a horse that wears a red ribbon on his tail.

Got a girl who's champing at the bit for an hour with a horse? This book can't be ridden, but for a horsey girl like yours, it may be the next best thing.

For Horse-Crazy Girls Only is jam-packed with flakes of information that young equestriennes will race to read. Every conceivable subject on horses is covered, however briefly, and author Wilsdon also includes a long list of horse-related careers to which horse-loving girls can aspire. What I liked best is that this book really isn't just Girls Only; horse-crazy moms can enjoy sharing, too.

If your 7-to-14-year-old horse lover can pony up some time, For Horse-Crazy Girls Only is a book she'll truly enjoy. For her, reading it may be a mane event.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Well, winter is certainly back big time. It is cold, and it looks like maybe we have six inches of new snow. So maybe December was the worst month of winter, but I don't believe this is a January thaw. It is not quite a blizzard, but close enough.

That is bad enough; especially since Boo is naturally reluctant to go outside. She is not in terrible shape, but definitely feeling her age, which is close to 20 years old. That's old for a large breed.

A couple of weeks ago she had a real problem getting up on her couch, but she seems to have figured it out. It is too long until spring to suit her or me. But I am grateful that we did not have to dig a grave for her now, when the ground is frozen so hard.

Most economists are saying that the sluggish job growth and drop of unemployment numbers is a sign that the economy is probably turning around, but the pace is glacier slow.

Caitlin was happy to learn that her friend from Vietnam at last got a visa to come to the USA to go to West Virginia University. She plans to live with another Vietnamese friend of Catilin's just down the street from where she is living. Caitlin met her on her trip to Vietnam a few years ago, and she really did not know whether she would ever see her again.

But she already made it to Morgantown. WVU has a special relationship with Vietnam, and a healthy community of students from Vietnam going there. A couple of professors made it their unofficial job to take care of them.

It is hard to express how excited Caitlin is that she will see Thum tomorrow. She is chatting with her on the Internet, and this is the first time that she ever saw any snow. She likes it now, but that will change when she and Caitlin have to walk to class, which is about a 45-minute walk.

One of the major rally points of the campus protest about Vietnam was the use of Agent Orange, which had terrible consequences for American GIs. But I just saw some photographs of children born with serious disabling conditions. It made me cry. We tried our best to stop all those horrible things more quickly.

We did turn the general American population against the war, which definitely led to its end. But, of course, South Vietnam can't afford to provide adequate care for the Agent Orange children. Caitlin seems determined to go back there to the helpless victims of our war against communism, but the people of South Vietnam are still suffering. That should be a lasting lesson to American leaders. They must look at the long-range result on any country we choose to conduct a war against.

It is a real shame that I did not get really lucky in last Wednesday's drawing of the Mega Millions lottery. If I did, I would have won $370,000,000. With that amount of money, I could do so much good. I could have given a few million dollars to those severely disabled children in South Vietnam.

I didn't get lucky, but I will do anything possible to find a way to help those pitiful children. I'm afraid it would take more than several million dollars to even provide minimal help. Those photographs will prey on my mind constantly until I can get in touch with someone who has contact with some billionaires. Since today is Saturday, I cannot call the president or Senator Jay Rockefeller until Monday. But I am sure whichever big chemical company made millions by manufacturing Agent Orange should be made to pay to help the helpless victims of its poison.

I really can't even contribute to what my brother calls "my causes." Like United Spinal, which does important research to help the many completely paralyzed people, including many of our veterans from our two wars, and one personal friend.

I got a phone call from the Native American Tribal Council asking for my help to provide desperately needed heating assistance for their elderly and children who can't afford heat for their home. But I had to say no. I don't have enough money to meet my basic needs, but it costs lots to my mental health knowing that I could not help the helpless. And alas, I don't know any very wealthy people anymore.

But it would be a more just world if people like me would have a bank account. Because I wouldn't use it to buy luxuries for myself. I just wish I would have enough money to help my daughters when they hit hard financial times.

Who knows whether I will continue to get my Social Security disability checks? It doesn't seem to matter that our contributions to Social Security are supposed to be kept in a separate lock box.

Another popular thing today is to support extremely limited spending on anything. That policy was popular in Germany in the 1930s, and led to Hitler's rise. But it is very unwise to cut deeply on public service. And unfortunately, the easier thing to cut is our education spending, and that leads to more basic ignorance about history.

It is strange to think of Ellen Housley as a grandmother. But she is, because last week her daughter Michelle gave birth to a chubby little girl named Renee Gibson. Michelle and her family are living in the Annapolis area. We are all looking forward to seeing her. I am sure she will be unbelievably cute. But I doubt we will see them until summer arrives. Unless you are interested in doing some skiing, Bittinger is not a perfect destination now. But apparently, the roads are somewhat passable.

Unfortunately, that means that Caitlin and Mere will go back to Morgantown on Sunday. I hate to see them go back. Their big sister attended the WVU vs. Georgetown basketball game at the Comcast Arena outside Washington, D.C. Claire and her two other WVU fans were decked out in coonskin caps. I did catch a sight of them in the large crowd. But anyway, the Mountaineers were able to gain a tidy victory over the powerhouse of the Georgetown Hoyas.

It is still snowing pretty hard and the temperature is 11 degrees, just when Caitlin and Mere are leaving for another evening of work at Black Bear. I hope they can make it home tonight.

A female Congresswoman from Arizona was shot at a home district event. This is shocking. They hope she will recover. Is America sinking as low as some unstable nations?

But we can expect more of these sad events, as long as we allow anyone who wants to buy a gun to get one. The gun was able to shoot over 20 shots before reloading. The same kind of gun was used in the tragedy at Virginia Tech.

This must end, or else American democracy will fall apart.

Obviously, this kind of event was not intended by the drafters of the Constitution. It's not just Congresswoman Giffords that was hit by a bullet. A federal judge and a 9-year-old girl are dead, along with some other people.

Giffords' husband is an astronaut and scheduled to be a commander on an upcoming shuttle mission. His twin brother is now in the Space Station.

Can we continue to be an open society and an open government when guns are so readily available to any kind of people? When Congress read the Constitution last week, they read the part pertaining to the right of citizens for peaceful assembly. But can this kind of assembly be called peaceful?

And what does this event mean for the ability to elect representatives to meet and interact with the people they serve? I think it will be very chilling. It's not just for the elected figures, but anyone who wants to attend this kind of town meeting perhaps will think twice because of the number of ordinary citizens who were shot.

The surgeons who performed brain surgery on the congresswoman are optimistic about her survival, but I know that any kind of brain damage can really change the life of the victim. It all depends on what point of the brain and the severity of damage to tell the tale of what kind of effects there will be. My mobility, speech, and even my thinking processes were not that seriously impaired. But what used to be so easy is now sometimes very difficult. Even my vision was affected, which is one of the reasons that I can't drive now, which is life-changing.

Generally, Thomas Jefferson was a fine thinker and writer, except for his piece that said, "The Tree of Liberty must regularly be watered by the blood of patriots." If he were still alive, he would refute that idea. Is the Tree of Liberty healthier after the mass shooting? Undoubtedly, the judge who died was a patriot. But is America better off without him? I don't think so.

We Americans must get away from automatic weapons. They only encourage mass shootings. I once talked to a man in the waiting room at the Mental Health Division of the Garrett County Health Department. I could tell he was probably the type who loved guns. I asked him about whether he had automatic guns, and he admitted he did. I asked what for? And he said target shooting.

You can do that with any normal gun. Why would anyone need a gun that shoots multiple rounds of bullets within minutes just for target shooting? It is clearly unnecessary. Practice for what? Hunting wildlife? They are only useful for killing many people fast. And the fact that anyone can buy guns at gun shows or on the Internet doesn't make any sense. Especially without any screening.

It is very sad that Congresswoman Giffords desired to have a baby soon. But who knows whether she can do that.

I went through some of the same changes that she is going through two days after a serious brain trauma. She is no longer in a full-blown drug-induced coma, but she is still very heavily sedated. I think that during my brain surgery, they also removed a piece of my skull to reduce the build-up of brain pressure. Anyway, on the right side of my head, there is a sunken part. She is close to being "out of the woods," meaning she probably will survive, but they don't know what the long-term effect will be on her quality of life.

It was exactly one year ago on Jan. 10 when the Haiti earthquake struck, killing hundreds of thousands of people and destroying virtually all housing. Survivors were forced to live in a tent city and consume dirty water. God bless the workers who were able to restore a clean water supply to millions of Haitians.

Anyone who is aware of what happened in Tucson must realize the key aspect of the human lives lost, especially the empty desk in a third grade classroom. And the pain of friends and family of the many victims of a madman with an extremely deadly weapon. It was only when he tried to reload that brave heroes ended the rampage.

I am very aware that my column in The Republican could possibly put my life at risk. I only want to encourage more thinking in my readers.

I heard that a mental health expert decided that the key to the shooting was a severe mental disability, not so much a political ideology that only gave him an excuse to act out of his paranoid and delusional thinking. He was deeply paranoid, and that meant that there was not much thinking going on, just confusing fear and anger.

Who bears responsibility for identifying troubled individuals? Our leaders, professors, and other educational professionals. That is pretty natural, because many young people have enough trust and respect of the knowledge of their educators. Sometimes we are approached by kids who are not feeling well, and we often recognize trouble and pull the troubled student into our office and confront demons with our best knowledge, although often not adequately. But we are as qualified as anyone in our everyday contact in the lives of young people (or any student of any age).

I personally identify with serious depression, domestic abuse, and problems relating to racist issues, whether perpetrators or victims, and occasionally events involved with substance abuse. A good student got abused by some of her peers because she called 911 when someone possibly overdosed. I assured her she did the right thing, and she should send anyone who gave her a hard time about it to me, and I would straighten them out.

You never know what community college professors will face on any given day, but it is our job to prepare our students for their future life, or deal with the problems they confront in the present. But we get no training for it, nor get adequately paid.

HUSKIES RECEIVE ALL-STATE HONORS – Three members of the Northern High School varsity football team were recently named to the 2010 Small Schools All-State football team. Receiving honorable mention on the offensive team were junior quarterback Patrick Sines and junior receiver Cody Rodeheaver. Sines led the area in passing yards with 1,737 (completing 131 of 215) with 14 touchdowns, and he also rushed for 261 yards and three TDs. The passing yards set an NHS single-season record previously held by his father, Kevin Sines. Rodeheaver also set school records for receptions with 47 and yardage with a total of 649, along with two touchdowns. He was also the area leader in those two categories. Senior Jason Opel received honorable mention as a defensive lineman. He led the Husky defense this past season with 35 solo tackles, including nine sacks, and 56 assisted tackles. He also had two 2 fumble recoveries and a blocked kick. Pictured from left are Coach Phil Carr, Sines, Opel, and Rodeheaver.

Fratz, Wilkinson Named Area's Top Offensive, Defensive Players Of Year

The outstanding efforts of two Garrett County high school female soccer players, one from Northern High School and one from Southern High, have been recognized by area head coaches, who have selected Kaitlynn Fratz of Northern as the area's Offensive Player of the Year and Southern's Claire Wilkinson as the Defensive Player of the Year.

The two will be among a number of area athletes who will receive awards at the 63rd annual Dapper Dan Awards Banquet on Sunday, Jan. 30, at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club in Cumberland.

Fratz, who was also voted the Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference's Offensive Player of the Year and named to the All-Area and All-AMAC teams for the third straight year, averaged an astounding five points per match this past season in leading the Huskies to a 12-3 season and into the playoffs.

In just 15 matches, Fratz recorded 33 goals and eights assists (74 points) which placed her among the top five all-time in the area in career goals, career points, career scoring average, single-season goals, single-season points, and single-season scoring average. Her senior season included eight hat tricks (three goals on one match).

"What makes her award this year more remarkable than people realize is that I pulled Kaitlynn from at least half of our matches in an effort to not run up the score on some of the weaker teams," said NHS head coach John Milbourne.

The Huskies, who placed second in the AMAC this year with a 7-1 mark, lost only to Mountain Ridge in the regular season, a team that had out-scored its opponents by a total margin of 70-14.

Fratz also recorded 33 goals and 75 points in her junior season.

"Kaitlynn is an amazing athlete and a complete team player," Milbourne said. "She gave 100 percent every time she took the field and never quit. She is a team leader and is good at any sport she chooses to play. It has truly been a privilege to be able to coach her at Northern."

Fratz is also the all-time scoring leader in basketball at Northern, currently breaking her own record with every Huskies game. She is coached in basketball by her father Steve Fratz.

She also excels in the classroom, where she is maintaining a perfect 4.0 grade-point average. She is also the vice president of her class.

This is the fourth consecutive year that the area's top offensive player has come from Northern, as Fratz's former teammate (now graduated) Adria Graham received the honor the three previous seasons, sharing it in her sophomore year (2007) with Cassie Donahue of Fort Hill.

Southern's Claire Wilkinson recorded 11 goals this past season, but it was her excellent defensive play that was key to the Rams' winning 10 matches. The four-year starter was also named the AMAC Defensive Player of the Year and was named to the first-team All-Area squad for the third straight season.

Until her senior year, Wilkinson was known for her offensive output on the pitch, as she scored 20 goals and had seven assists in her junior season, which placed her fourth in the area in scoring in 2009. She led the Rams in scoring the past three seasons, as her 11 goals this year was once again a team-high. It was primarily the Rams' outstanding defensive play – paced by Wilkinson – that led to their 10-6 season and a third place in the AMAC. Only Mountain Ridge scored more than one goal against the Rams in AMAC matches.

Ram coach Sara Shaffer described Wilkinson's switch to defense as "an unselfish move."

"Clair is the most talented player we have had come through Southern in a long time, and we are sorry that we will be losing her," Coach Shaffer said. "She has played literally every position on the field for us, but she was just awesome on defense, where she stopped many of the top offensive players in the area.

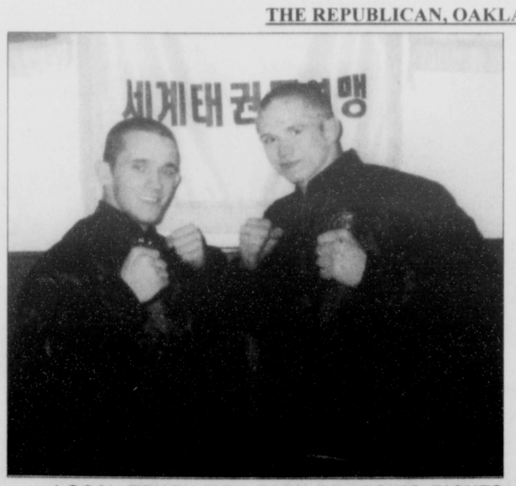
"Claire always gave 100 percent in practice as well as in the matches, and led by example with her outstanding attitude and work ethic," she said.

She was named the team MVP her junior year and the Rams' offensive player of the year her sophomore season.

Like Fratz, Wilkinson is also among the top students academically in her senior class. She is carrying an A+ average, is a member of the 1800 SAT Club, and is senior class president. She intends to continue her academic and athletic career next fall at Duquesne University, where she intends to major in pre-law and also play soccer for the Lady Dukes.

While it has been several years since a Southern Ram has been named the area's Defensive Player of the Year, this is the fifth time that it has occurred. Laura Bonser was selected to receive the honor in 2002, Miriam Sincell was named in 2000 and 2001, and Becky Martin was the honoree for the 1998 season.

For tickets to and/or more information about the Dapper Dan Banquet on Jan. 30, persons may telephone the Original Sports Shoppe at 301-722-5490.



LOCAL TOUGH MEN EARN BRAGGING RIGHTS — Six members of the Oakland Kickboxing-MMA Academy competed in the 12th annual Toughman Contest, held in Short Gap, W.Va., last weekend. Of the male participants, two, light heavyweight Jordan Skipper and middleweight Joshua Armstrong, won their divisions and earned a $1,000 prize. The other four competitors, all of whom placed in the semifinals, were: Carlos Boyard and David Eddington Jr., both heavyweights; Josh Jones, light heavyweight; and Keith Beckman, lightweight. The training these men received at the Oakland Kickboxing-MMA Academy, which is located at the Oakland Community Center (formerly the Oakland Armory), consists of muay thai, Japanese jujitsu, kickboxing, and elements of western style boxing. All of these men call Oakland home and are former members of the Southern High School wrestling team. Armstrong, left, and Skipper are pictured above sporting their Toughman championship jackets.

MEETING RESISTANCE in the lane above left is Southern Ram D.J. Ritchie, as he attempts to get by Northern Huskies Tyler Wilt and Garrett Rayner in front of a packed house last Friday at Southern, with the Rams' "Sixth Man Club" on one side of the gym, and "Husky Nation" on the other. Ritchie would finish with 10 points. The Rams, currently the top-ranked boys' team in the area, led from the early minutes of the contest and went on to record a 66-57 victory in the first meeting of the two intra-county squads this season. Above right, Northern's Matt Gibson is captured high in the air as he goes up over Southern's Wyatt McBee for two of his game-high 26 points in a losing effort. McBee led the Rams in scoring with 18 points. Also identifiable in the photo are Rams (from left) D.J. Ritchie (#20), Calvin Hilliard (#34), who scored 16 points, and Drew Miller (#24). Huskies (from left) are Austin Doerr (#44), Steven Holtschneider (#3), Tyler Wilt (#14), and Garrett Rayner (#1). Below right, Southern senior Joe Kisselovich goes up over Northern's Doerr for two points, and ended up with 15 points and 12 rebounds. McBee, Kisselovich, Hilliard Pace Rams To 66-57 Win Over Huskies

Wyatt McBee, Joe Kisselovich, and Calvin Hilliard spearheaded the Southern High School boys' varsity basketball team to a 66-57 victory in the Rams' first contest of the season against county rival Northern, played Friday on the Rams' floor.

McBee recorded a team-high 18 points, while Kisselovich finished with a double-double, netting 15 points and pulling down a dozen rebounds to neutralize a 26-point effort by Husky Matt Gibson. Hilliard contributed 16 points.

The win was the Rams' fifth against no defeats in the Appalachian Mountain Athletic League and their sixth over all in eight starts.

The Rams held a 17-11 lead at the end of the first quarter, and stretched their advantage to 33-21 by halftime. The Huskies outscored their hosts in the third stanza, 16-15, giving the Rams a 48-37 lead going into the final quarter.

A 10-for-12 performance at the foul line by the Rams in the fourth period iced the win, as Southern recorded only one more field goal than the Huskies, 23-22.

Gibson, who is one of the top scorers in the area, hit six three-point goals for Northern, and Steven Holtschneider netted 14 points.

Also reaching double figures for the Rams was D.J. Ritchie, who finished with 10 points.

The Southern junior varsity Rams won the first game, topping their Northern counterparts 40-24. Billy Fazenbaker led the Ram offense with nine points.

Both the Rams and Huskies were slated to play earlier this week, but those contests had to be postponed because of weather conditions.

Southern is slated to host Tucker County this Friday, travel to Bishop Walsh next Tuesday, and play at Hampshire next Wednesday.

The Huskies (3-3, 0-3) are slated to play at Bishop Walsh this Friday and host Allegany next Tuesday.

Lakers Avenge OT Loss To Anne Arundel; Stumble In Hagerstown

In their first game after returning from winter break, the Lakers claimed a 68-50 victory in last week's rematch with Anne Arundel, a team that defeated them in overtime on Dec. 18. The Garrett College women's basketball team then stumbled on the road to Hagerstown, 68-40.

As host in the rematch last Thursday, the Garrett College women's team received a big effort from sophomore guard Tanisha Williams, who scored a game-high 21 points, which she complemented with five steals and four assists.

Forward Alice Abiya, also a sophomore, earned a double-double for the Lakers, grabbing 15 rebounds and scoring 12 points. Abiya is the Maryland JUCO Conference's ninth-leading scorer, and averages 18.8 points per game.

"We played well for the first game back, and it was nice to get a win over Anne Arundel after they beat us in overtime right before the break," said Garrett coach Joanna Pennell.

"We are playing with only seven players at the moment, but are playing well and can only get better from this point on."

Though they played a tight first half in last night's action at Hagerstown, the Lakers were unable to keep pace with the Hawks' bench.

Hagerstown led by just 29-25 at halftime, but dominated 39-15 through the second half.

Eleven of Hagerstown's 12-player roster scored, while Garrett received production from four of its players.

The Lakers' leading scorer in the match was Jalesa Johnson, who ended the game one rebound shy of a double-double. Johnson scored 18 points.

Abiya's double-double consisted of 16 points and 14 rebounds.

The Hawks were led by Tashia Caldwell, who hit two three-point shots and totaled 14 points. Turquoia was Hagerstown's other player in double digits with 10 points scored.

The Lakers have a home game against Allegany set for Saturday at 5 p.m.

"Recovered" Lakers Top Anne Arundel, Rally To Defeat Hawks

The holiday layoff for the Garrett College men's basketball team allowed several key members of the squad to recover from various injuries, and their return to the line-up helped the Lakers record two straight Maryland JUCO victories this past week.

Coach Dennis Gibson's squad disposed of visiting Anne Arundel CC last Thursday, 94-80, and then recorded a big 87-84 victory over host Hagerstown last night. The results improved the Lakers' conference record to 4-3 and their overall mark to 10-5.

The three-week layoff was not at all evident in the opening moments of the game against Anne Arundel, except maybe with the Anne Arundel players, as the Lakers scored the first nine points of the contest. They built a comfortable 48-29 lead by intermission and maintained the advantage throughout the second half.

Among the highlights for the Lakers was a 28-for-31 performance at the free throw line, as they finished with a lead of only one in field goals, 31-30.

Rodney Clark and Frank Holloway, who was among those sidelined with injury for much of the first segment of the season, had huge games for the Lakers. Clark poured in 28 points with seven field goals and a 13-for-14 effort at the line, and also had seven assists, while Holloway netted 20 points and grabbed game-high 16 rebounds.

Also reaching double figures for Garrett was Callum Jenkins with 17 points.

Leading the visitors offensively were A.J. Mann with 19 points, Eddie Jenkins with 12, and Breon Clowney and Trey Quinn with 10 points apiece.

"As a team, we played with good intensity, and it was great to get Frank back on the floor," said Coach Gibson. "Obviously, he is a big asset."

Gibson said that the team is still dealing with some injuries, but feels that once everyone is healthy the Lakers will prove to be a force in the Maryland JUCO.

"At least we have the potential of being a decent team," he said, "but we are still a work in progress."

That "progress" was evident last night when the Lakers, after trailing almost the entire game, rallied in the final minutes to get the win over the Hagerstown Hawks.

The Lakers trailed 48-41 at the half and were down by as many as 10 points in the second half. A five-point scoring run by Joe Dubuche knotted the score at 80-80 with about five minutes to play, but the Hawks scored the next six points to go up 86-80 with four minutes left.

A three-point play by Holloway with 53 seconds remaining gave the Lakers a one-point lead, and Callum Jenkins followed with a pair of free throws to put the Lakers up by three.

Hagerstown cut the margin to one, but Jenkins answered with two more free throws to score what would be the final two points of the night, as a long-range shot to tie by the Hawks at the buzzer was no good.

It was a balanced scoring effort for the Lakers, five of whom finished in double figures. Holloway scored 17 points, Jenkins was right behind with 16, Kory Gibson netted 13, Jordan Gipson hit 11, and Rodney Clark contributed 10.

The Lakers finished with a 33-32 lead in field goals and had another strong night at the charity stripe, as they made good on 15 of 18 attempts.

Four Hawks reached double figures in scoring, with Dquan Lynch leading the way with 18 points. Najeef White scored 16, Allister Chisum netted 15, and Dameatric Scott finished with 11.

"This was a great win with a good team effort," said Gibson, "and it was a win on the road over one of the most talented teams in the Maryland JUCO. I can't say enough about the effort of our guys."

Gibson added that, because of the aforementioned injuries, it was the first time in a number of weeks that as many as 10 Lakers were dressed for the game.

The Lakers will host arch rival Allegany College of Maryland this Saturday, with a 7 p.m. tipoff. Coach Gibson will be honored just prior to the game for having reached the 500-win level last January. (See more information on Page C-1).

Garrett is slated to travel to CCBC/Catonsville next Wednesday.

ensure that if we're going to do this, we do it the right way," Dodge said.

He indicated that, given projections about the "tremendous" amount of natural gas that might be under Garrett County, there certainly is time to "get it right" before drilling begins.

He encouraged Edwards and Beitzel to pursue legislation that ensures all concerns about the issue will be adequately addressed.

Youghiogheny River Watershed Association representative Liz McDowell echoed that sentiment.

"Natural gas is a relatively clean source of fossil fuel energy, and it has many benefits over coal and oil," the Grantsville area resident said. "However, there are many problems associated with drilling, including increased air and noise pollution and the introduction of invasive species."

McDowell also noted that the technology required to extract the gas uses "enormous" quantities of water and produces "enormous" quantities of wastewater.

In March 2010, her group sent a letter to the governor, Edwards, Beitzel, the county commissioners, the Department of Natural Resources, and the Maryland Department of the Environment.

"In that letter, we raised questions that still have not been adequately addressed," McDowell said.

Those questions include the following:

•Is Maryland prepared with regulations and staff to monitor drilling activities?

•How will chemically tainted wastewater be treated, and where will it be released?

•Who will pay to monitor potential impacts to private wells near lands being drilled and ensure that drinking water for humans, livestock, and wildlife is not impacted?

•Who will ultimately pay when wells and streams are contaminated?

"We respectfully request that during your upcoming legislative session, you work to ensure that this needed energy does not come at the price of Garrett County's clean water," McDowell told Beitzel and Edwards.

She asked that drilling and its associated infrastructure not be allowed on or beneath state park lands in Garrett County.

"Secondly, we request that you support a state and county moratorium until [such] time that adequate safeguards and regulations are in place to protect Garrett County surface and ground waters for its people and the environment," McDowell said.

"This is not just a local concern," said Nicholas Weber, chair of the Mid-Atlantic Council of Trout Unlimited.

PBS's Frontline To Feature Md.'s Security Efforts

Next week's segment of the PBS program Frontline will focus on the efforts of Maryland Homeland Security since Sept. 11, 2001. The program will be aired on Tuesday, Jan. 18, on PBS at 9 p.m.

The Frontline producers contacted several state officials some months ago to request that they be interviewed for a series that will air in several segments this year. These segments are being devoted to an examination of what security measures some states have implemented since the terrorist attacks in 2001.

The producers reportedly indicated that they had heard Maryland is considered a leader in homeland security, and therefore planned to focus on the state to launch the series, which will likely conclude with a longer segment that will air on or about the 10th anniversary of the September attacks.

State officials interviewed for the program included Gov. Martin O'Malley, Col. Terry Sheridan, superintendent of State Police Services, Rick McFeely, special agent-in-charge of the FBI's Maryland/Delaware division, and Assistant U.S. Attorney Harvey Eisenberg, National Security chief and ATAC (Anti-Terrorism Advisory Council of Maryland) coordinator.

County resident noted that Garrett County is a "very, very special" place – one of the few pristine areas left in the Appalachian Mountains.

"It must be protected," Weber said, adding that drilling should only proceed with safeguards in place.

Sixth-generation farmer Jeff Connor, Avilton, said MDE is not ready for drilling. Sites will need to be monitored continuously during the drilling phase, he said, but the state and nation are broke, so there is no money to hire geologists/hydrologists to stay abreast of "what's coming."

"If I don't have clean water for my livestock, I'll have to truck in 500 to 1,000 gallons of water a day," Connor said. "I can't do that."

Fifth-generation dairy farmer Billy Bishoff, however, said he was an enthusiastic advocate for environmentally responsible Marcellus shale drilling.

"I have no interest in ruining that farm for the 10th generation," he said.

He pointed out that natural gas drilling was not a new industry or new pro-cess.

"I would venture there are hundreds of thousands of horizontal, fracked wells in the United States now," Bishoff said. "There are 500 within the city limits of Ft. Worth, Texas. It can be down in close proximity to people. There is no more danger to well drilling than there is to any other industry that we participate in in Garrett County, from mining to farming to government constructing roads and infrastructure."

Bishoff also noted that the United States was in an "extreme" energy crisis 10 years ago, before technology was available to extract gas from shale. He indicated that much of the nation's financial woes can be directly attributed to its dependency on foreign oil.

Not only will local individuals who have leased their properties benefit from natural gas, but the county and general public will as well, Bishoff pointed out.

"You are getting a direct contribution from every cubic foot of gas sold, and that is in addition to the jobs that it creates," he told the audience about drilling tax revenue. He noted the county would use the money to educate children and to build schools.

Bishoff said he would use his lease revenue to help his parents and put his children through college.

"You say we need a moratorium to slow things down, but I'm afraid if we try to slow it down way too much, [gas] companies aren't even going to consider Garrett County," Willie Lantz told the audience.

Lantz is a local resident, an Extension Service agent, and member of the GC Marcellus Shale Advisory Committee. He indicated that, in essence, there already is a moratorium on drilling. He said, currently, there is one company that applied for a permit over a year ago but has not been issued one by MDE.

"If MDE didn't care about us in Garrett County, didn't care about gas drilling, they would've probably issued that permit more than six months ago," Lantz said. "At that point, we would probably have had drilling already in this county. At this point, we don't have drilling in this county because MDE is still continuing to work through the processes and regulations of this industry."

He indicated each permit will be looked at separately, with MDE examining such issues as where the company will get its water for drilling and how it will dispose of wastewater.

He also noted that the county has more than 580 billions of gallons of water available and only .001 inch would be needed to frack 25 wells.

Lantz did, however, ask Edwards and Beitzel to help open up better communications with MDE so residents can better understand the technical and philosophical aspects of drilling; to establish standards, not just "best management practices" for drilling; and set permit fees high enough to cover supervision costs. Lantz suggested the fee be between $20,000 to $40,000 per well.

"There is no reason why there shouldn't be an inspector on these sites 24 hours a day when they're drilling," Lantz said. "It's only 30 days."

Beitzel said all the comments made at Saturday's meeting would be taken into consideration.

He also indicated that he might benefit from drilling on his property.

"But I, in my farm and my property, care for that more than anybody," the delegate said. "And I want to pass that on to my children."

He noted that he has taken measures to help preserve his farm and, in his professional career, has been involved in numerous local environmental health issues, including initiating the first air pollution control standards in Garrett County.

"So, I've devoted a lot of my life to protecting the environment and protecting the quality of things in Garrett County, and I would be the last person to condone a practice that would be detrimental to those things we love and enjoy and hold dear here in Garrett County," Beitzel said.

Edwards said it kind of rubs him the wrong way when people imply he does not care what goes on here.

"I do care what goes on in this county," the senator said. "I've worked hard over the years to try to help people and to move this county forward. One of the biggest reasons is to keep our young people here so they can stay here if they want to and make a decent living."

He noted that local wages and employment figures have improved over the years, but they still have a "ways to go."

"We all have to work together to make this thing work," Edwards said. "That includes the old-time people of Garrett County, the new-time people of Garrett County, and everybody to understand where we're at and what's here because there are things here that you can't find anywhere else in Maryland. There are things that need totally protected, and there are things that need to be utilized, but they need to be utilized in an environmentally sound manner."

He stressed, however, there was no guarantee that something would not happen with drilling.

"But you can't totally guarantee anything," Edwards said, citing the recent problems Toyota has had with its new cars.

The senator said he and Beitzel have to "look at the whole pie."

"We get hit by everybody, and we try to evaluate everybody's comments," Edwards said. "But we're never going to totally agree."

He encouraged people to contact him and express their views about drilling and other issues.

"We need to discuss it," the senator said. "Democracy a lot of times is compromise, as long as you don't compromise your principles. You compromise your principles, you might as well hang it up."

Edwards noted that he and Beitzel both have told MDE officials to take their time granting the very first drilling permit to make "dag gone sure" they get it as "good" as they can. The senator also indicated that MDE has looked at drilling issues in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and New York and is making changes to Maryland regulations.

"Everyone wants it done right," Edwards said about drilling.

Maryland Public Schools Ranked #1 In Country For Third Consecutive Year

The Maryland public school system finds itself in a familiar place: ranking first in nation for the third straight year, according to an independent national report released Tuesday.

Education Week, the nation's leading education newspaper, looked at data in six critical categories over the past three years, and once again placed Maryland's state education system at the very top of national rankings.

Maryland's grade of B+ placed at the top of the list in Education Week's annual Quality Counts tally. New York and Massachusetts again followed Maryland, with B grades. Most states received grades in the C ranges or below, according to the report.

"Even during these difficult economic times, we've worked with students, teachers, and parents to continually improve and reform our public education system," said Governor Martin O'Malley. "For Maryland to be a winner in this new economy, we must move forward by creating and saving jobs through innovation, and that includes protecting our nation's best public school system. We must also be willing to continue making tough choices so that we can protect our shared priorities; priorities that will allow us to make this new economy ours."

State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick said that Maryland's goal is to provide outstanding educational opportunities for every child in every neighborhood.

"Recognition of our state's track record of success is gratifying to all of us who work to strengthen our schools, and Quality Counts provides us with some important measurement tools, Dr. Grasmick added. "However, we have no intention of raising a victory flag as yet."

Maryland has already taken the next step in its school reform plan, according to Grasmick. Last year, Maryland became one of a handful of states to be awarded a portion of the federal government's $4.3 billion Race to the Top funding. With the funds, the state is strengthening standards for students and educators, building a new data warehouse, and constructing a foundation for further educational improvement, Grasmick said.

Maryland's 2011 ranking in Quality Counts is based

United Way Looks To Increase After-School Programs

The United Way of Garrett County is seeking proposals for after-school and summer programs that will provide safe environments and mentoring opportunities for area children.

With this directive, the United Way seeks partnerships with other local groups and organizations in order to serve the community by providing children in need with a positive environment at the end of the school day and during the summer months.

Currently, the United Way is funding two such proposals. One of these provides comprehensive programming to at-risk students in grades 3 to 5.

The partnering agencies in this effort are Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families, as well as Garrett County Community Action, Garrett County Health Department, University of Maryland— Garrett County Extension Service, and the local Girl and Boy Scouts.

The other proposal receiving funding provides a summer school program to individuals with severe emotional disturbances and behavioral disorders. This endeavor is a United Way funded collaboration that includes Maryland Salem Children's Trust and Garrett Partnership for Children and Families.

Agencies that receive funding from the United Way are required to work with at least one other agency.

"Throughout the many meetings, one topic always surfaced—the need for program collaboration," states Frank Shap, chair of the Community Response Committee for Garrett County.

"The United Way cannot solve these problems alone, but we can serve as a catalyst in the process, advocate for common needs, and partner with others who may be in the best position to make a great impact on the community."

Application details for this request-for-proposal process are available from the United Way of Garrett County office at 301-722-2700 (toll free at 877-597-2700), or by e-mail at cuw@allconet.org.

There will be a mandatory pre-proposal conference on Wednesday, Jan. 19, at 1:30 in the community room of the Allegany County Health Department. Final proposals will be due by Feb. 11.

on state education policies and student performance that reflect nearly two decades of work on a pre-K-12 curriculum; state accountability and standards; teacher effectiveness; and work on school readiness, high school reform, and preparation for college and the workplace. Quality Counts uses more than 50 indicators to develop its report.

Individual grades reported by Education Week show Maryland's consistent strength throughout the report card.

•Chance for Success – Maryland received a B+ grade. This category includes such factors as parental education, family income, student performance, and graduation rates.

•K-12 Achievement – Maryland received a B-grade. This category includes National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) scores and an analysis of achievement gaps. This grade ranked third in the nation.

•Transitions and Alignment – Maryland tied for first in the nation with an A grade. This category includes early childhood education, college readiness policies, and workforce policies.

•School Finance – Maryland received a B+ grade. This category is based on school funding and equity in finance.

•Standards, Assessments, and Accountability (2010 data) – Maryland received a B+ grade. Maryland has a long history of high standards and detailed statewide accountability programs.

•The Teaching Profession (2010 data) – Maryland ranked fifth in the nation with a B grade. Maryland continues to improve the quality of its education workforce, according to Grasmick.

"This week's announcement by Education Week continues Maryland's long history of success in the annual review," stated a state board spokesperson. "Maryland has consistently worked to strengthen policies and improve student achievement. The state placed third in 2008, the first year the publication issued a comprehensive ranking, before gaining the top spot for the first time in the 2009 Quality Counts report. Maryland's lead on the rest of the nation grew with the 2010 report, and its success is confirmed again this year."

"Maryland's number-one ranking is a true team effort, and I'd like to thank the staff of the Maryland State Department of Education, members of the Maryland State Board of Education, and local system superintendents, administrators, and teachers for continuing their focus on student achievement," Dr. Grasmick said. "Education is a bipartisan cause in our state, and we've had unflinching support from the governor, the Maryland General Assembly, educators, parents, and the public at large."

Also critical to Maryland's success, Grasmick said, has been the efforts of the business community.

"Business leaders I talk to really understand the need for strong schools and prepared graduates," she said. "Our state must remain competitive both domestically and internationally, and a strong pre-K-12 education system is critical to that effort."

Most of the state-level data gathered by Education Week come from a policy survey of the states conducted in the summer and fall of 2010. In addition, the publication draws on data from such organizations as the U.S. Department of Education, U.S. Bureau of the Census, and the American Federation of Teachers.

For more information, persons are invited to go online to the Education Week web site, www.edweek.org.

Local Business Owner Completes Course In Tenn.

Steven King, co-owner of ServPro®, Grantsville, recently completed the Applied Structural Drying (ASD) course held in Gallatin, Tenn.

The course covers the drying of water-damaged structures and their contents, using both classroom and hands-on training to teach appropriate decision making within a restorative drying environment.

Students experience hands-on use of instruments, extraction systems, drying equipment, and cleaning products in a 1,200 square foot building that is flooded with over 1,000 gallons of water.

"The course is premised on the science of drying. When you know the science behind what you are doing, a property can be dried quickly and efficiently, returning the property owner's life back to normal as soon as possible," King stated.

There's nothing like a bitter cold morning to test the car battery; it might be in need of a charge. Life can be like that, too, everything runs smoothly until a crisis. Will your spirit be fully charged and ready to handle it? "Great is our Lord and mighty in power; his understanding has no limit," says Psalm 147:5. Life's disasters won't find us unprepared when we draw on God for power. Visit your house of worship each week to strengthen your spirit; keep the spark ignited with daily prayer and meditation.

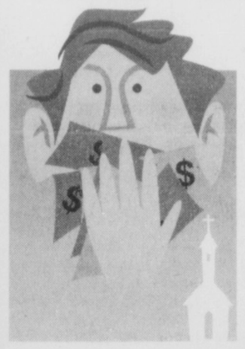
Put Your Money Where Your Mouth Is



There are many ways to "put your money where your mouth is." Two that might be combined are to establish a curse jar where we have to pay money every time we utter a curse or swear word and to give the proceeds from the curse jar to charities which do work that we believe in. If our speech is littered with expletives and needs some cleaning up, the curse jar might just work for us. We should be sure the fine for cursing is enough to hurt; loose pocket change might not be enough of a punishment to extinguish the bad behavior whereas dollar bills might. At the end of every month, we can give the money in the jar to our favorite charity. Once we have our swearing under control, consider keeping the jar around but changing it from a curse jar to a gossip jar, a lying jar, or an unkind word jar. The goal is to clean up our speech, and once we've mastered our tongue, which is unlikely, we can move on to our thoughts. Are we honest enough to put a dollar in the jar every time we curse inwardly?

Let no evil talk come out of your mouths, but only such as is good for edifying, as fits the occasion, that it may impart grace to those who hear.

The Beatles live on ... on home video, too

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: Several years ago, there was a miniseries about the Beatles. I'm wondering if it might be shown again or if it's on DVD. –Darleine Dyer, Grand Junction, Colo.

A: You likely mean "The Beatles Anthology," which ABC originally presented in 1995 as the first step of a huge multimedia event. Several records and a book also were tied in over subsequent years, and the documentary got a DVD release – with added material – in 2003. Copies still can be found by shopping the Internet.

The Beatles

Q: I've been wondering if TV Land or Comedy Central is going to show the old "Rowan & Martin's Laugh-In" shows. Any chance? –Bill Simpson, Palm Coast, Fla.

A: As we always like to say, sure, there's a chance ... just as there's a chance that it might rain tomorrow. However, there is no concrete proof of it, at least not at this time. In the meantime, PBS is planning a special that probably will interest you; a "Laugh-In" reunion is set to air in the spring, with many of the surviving cast members expected to return.

Q: "Cold Case" is one of my favorite shows. When will new episodes resume? –Dennis Morrissey, Oklahoma City

A: They won't. CBS canceled the police drama last spring, but repeats of the existing episodes continue weekdays on TNT.

Q: What happened to the shows "Haven" and "The Glades"? I enjoyed them both, and now I can't find them. –Lani Bonnot, Tustin, Calif.

A: As has been explained here previously, virtually all cable series have shorter "years" than many broadcast network series, due mainly to the differences in budget. That is why their initial episodes ran out around the time the fall television season kicked in, but both shows were renewed and will get second seasons – "Haven" on Syfy, "The Glades" on A&E Network – most likely beginning this summer.

Q: Has the program "Undercovers" been canceled? I don't see it anymore. –Leonard Duany, Melville, N.Y.

A: Yes, NBC axed the show after giving it a reasonable chance for its ratings to improve. The fact that it came from "name" producer J.J. Abrams ("Lost") may have earned it several more airings than it might have had otherwise.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was American radio and TV writer and commentator Andy Rooney who made the following sage observation: "Computers make it easier to do a lot of things, but most of the things they make it easier to do don't need to be done."

• The iconic 1980s video games Pac-Man and Ms. Pac-Man had 256 levels, though it's been reported that on both of them, the 256th level has bugs that make it unplayable.

• The earliest known examples of drinking straws were created out of gold and lapis lazuli by the ancient Sumerians. It seems they were used by royalty to drink beer, thereby avoiding the yeast residue left over from the fermentation process.

• It takes 450 skilled workers to create a Steinway grand piano — and the piano is made up of about 12,000 individual parts.

• If you are like 83 percent of adult Americans, you received a gift you didn't want during the recent holiday season.

• If you're a heavy coffee drinker, you might want to consider the following: A study conducted in the United Kingdom found that those who reported the highest consumption of caffeine also were more likely to report hallucinations and other extrasensory experiences.

• The Campbell's Soup portraits created by Andy Warhol have become icons of the Pop Art movement, and today they sell at auction for upward of $10 million. They weren't always so well-regarded, however; in 1962, actor Dennis Hopper (a visionary art collector, it seems) purchased one of the first examples for a mere $75.

Thought for the Day: "I have known a vast quantity of nonsense talked about bad men not looking you in the face. Don't trust that conventional idea. Dishonesty will stare honesty out of countenance, any day in the week, if there is anything to be got by it." — Charles Dickens

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Jan. 23, 1775, London merchants petition Parliament for relief from the financial hardship put upon them by the curtailment of trade with the North American colonies. Most critical to the merchants' concerns were the 2 million pounds sterling in outstanding debts owed to them by their North American counterparts.

• On Jan. 18, 1882, A.A. Milne, creator of "Winnie-the-Pooh," is born. Milne wrote his volumes of verse for his son, Christopher Robin: "When We Were Very Young" (1924), "Winnie-the-Pooh" (1926), "Now We Are Six" (1927) and "The House at Pooh Corner" (1928).

• On Jan. 19, 1915, during World War I, Britain suffers its first casualties from an air attack when two German zeppelins drop bombs on Great Yarmouth and King's Lynn on the eastern coast of England. The zeppelin, a motor-driven rigid airship, was developed by German inventor Ferdinand Graf von Zeppelin in 1900.

• On Jan. 17, 1953, a prototype Chevrolet Corvette sports car makes its debut at General Motors' Motorama auto show in New York City. The car featured an all-fiberglass body, a white exterior and red interior, a 150-horsepower engine and a starting price tag of around $3,500. An AM radio and heater were extra.

• On Jan. 20, 1961, 87-year-old Robert Frost recited his poem "The Gift Outright" at the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy. Although Frost had written a new poem for the occasion, titled "Dedication," faint ink in his typewriter made the words difficult to read, so he recited "The Gift Outright" from memory.

STUDENTS SING TO SENIORS – Over 300 students from Broad Ford Elementary School in grades pre-k, kindergarten, one, two, and five recently visited Oakland Nursing and Rehab and Dennett Road Manor nursing homes to sing Christmas carols. Over a two-day period, six different groups made their way through the halls to sing to and greet residents. One youngster in particular, Ryan Hatcher (below), had an instant rapport with folks and was well-received. A teacher noted that the experience was "very rewarding" for the students, teachers, and staff as well as the residents.

RSVP Program Installs Zook As New Director

The Allegany County Human Resources Development Commission has announced the appointment of Edward Zook as program director for the Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) in Garrett and Allegany counties.

Zook worked for 31 years as a mental health service provider and a patients rights advocate in both Allegany and Garrett counties. He has a master's degree in counseling psychology from Frostburg State University.

"We are excited to have Ed Zook joining us as director of our RSVP program," says Courtney Thomas, executive director of the Allegany County HRDC.

"Ed's 30-plus years of expertise in dealing with the public and people of all ages made him the ideal candidate for the position. He's the perfect person to jump-start the program."

RSVP, a federal program that is administered by the Corporation for National and Community Service under the umbrella of Senior Corp, has matched local programs with older adults since 1971.

The program is the largest volunteer effort in the nation and provides individuals age 55 and older with the opportunity to share their abilities, interests, and experience with their communities.

Volunteers are eligible to receive accident, personal liability, and automobile insurance, as well as community recognition.

Sponsored locally by the HRDC, RSVP is currently looking for new volunteer stations in both Garrett and Allegany counties.

Individuals who represent a public agency, secular or faith-based private non-profit organization, or proprietary health care organization and wish to accept the responsibility for assignment and supervision of RSVP may contact Zook at 301-783-1755 or at ezook@allconet.org.

500 VICTORIES for any head coach is a milestone that few ever reach, but Garrett College men's basketball coach Dennis Gibson reached that number exactly one year ago today with a 100-88 win over Montgomery College Germantown. He will be honored for this accomplishment in a brief ceremony this Saturday, Jan. 15, at 7 p.m. in the GC gymnasium, just prior to the Lakers' game against Allegany College of Maryland. A reception will follow the game in the college art gallery. "This is truly a once-in-a-lifetime experience, as one will find it harder and harder to not only find a coach who wins 500 games, but one who has done it at the same college," said GC athletic director Shawn Noel. That same day, the men's team will sponsor its annual Snowflake Chase, which will begin at 9 a.m. at Uno Restaurant. The Laker women will also be playing their Allegany counterparts at 5 p.m. that evening. "I hope everyone can come out to honor a man who has given 26 years of his life to helping young men and women, not only on the basketball court, but in learning life skills to become successful adults," said Noel.

College Goal Maryland Event Set For Jan. 27

Local high school students are reminded that Garrett College, in conjunction with the Maryland Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators, will hold a financial aid help session on Thursday, Jan. 27. The program, titled College Goal Maryland, will be held on the McHenry campus in Room 205 from 6 to 8 p.m.

Area college-bound students will receive free advice from financial aid professionals about completing the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), the form required by all colleges to qualify for federal grants and loans, as well as most state and private scholarships.

Participants will also have the opportunity to win one of two $500 scholarships, which may be used at any college.

Students and parents are encouraged to bring proof of their 2010 income and benefits information, such as a completed or estimated IRS federal income tax return, W-2 forms, and proof of untaxed income. This information is needed for completing the FAFSA. For a complete list of forms and financial records to bring to the event, participants should go online to www.collegegoalsundaymd.org.

In the event that the program is canceled because of weather conditions, College Goal Maryland will be rescheduled for the following Thursday, Feb. 3, also from 6 to 8 p.m.

For more information, persons may telephone 1-877-632-4709 or go online to the above web site.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

HALF-LIFE

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. I read that the half-life of CO_2 in the atmosphere is about a century. What is a "half-life"?

A. The term "half-life" originated when radioactivity was first discovered about 1895, and pertained to nuclear physics. Today it is used in many other ways, sometimes colloquially or for exaggeration. Basically, it's a measure of how fast something goes away.

Measurements showed that the number of particles emitted from a radioactive element decreased over time. The number of events depended on the number of atoms present at any time, and from that scientists figured out that an element was "decaying," changing into something else, where the original nucleus vanished.

Mathematically, the number of events (ΔN) is proportional to the number of atoms present (N), to some "decay constant" (k), and to the elapsed time (Δt): $\Delta N = -Nk\Delta t$. Dividing both sides by N gives $\Delta N/N = -k\Delta t$, and therefore N as a function of time decreases exponentially, $N = N_0\exp(-kt)$. N_0 is the number of atoms initially present when the clock started, at $t = 0$. Wait long enough and it's all gone. But "long enough" might be a very long time.

Radioactive nuclei decay at different rates, and the distinguishing question is "how long until half the initial amount is gone?" Naturally enough, that number is called the half-life, and it's a handy way to classify radioactive substances. Its relation to the decay constant k can be found using any hand-held calculator that has the logarithmic (Ln) and exponential (e^x) functions. If half the atoms are gone, then $N/N_0 = ½$, which happens when $t_{1/2} = 0.693/k$. The decay constant and the half-life are interchangeable ways of stating the rate of decay.

Most ordinary atomic nuclei are stable; that is, they don't decay at all; but some isotopes of certain atoms decay radioactively. The element carbon is a good example: ^{12}C and ^{13}C are stable, but ^{11}C decays into boron with a half life of 1,230 seconds, and ^{14}C decays into nitrogen with a half-life of 5,730 years.

If you visit the hospital to have a PET scan, and the element used is carbon, they have to do the test promptly, because the number of ^{11}C atoms will greatly diminish in a few hours: Every 20 minutes, half of what's left goes away, and in 1½ hours, roughly 1% of the original isotope remains.

If you want to determine the age of some ancient vase or prehistoric bones, the carbon-dating method measures how much ^{14}C is left, and figures out from that when the object was formed.

The term "half-life" is useful for nuclear isotopes because the process is a one-way street, and when something has decayed radioactively, it's gone forever. In more recent years, the term "half-life" has been taken over and applied to a wide variety of topics. Generally it refers to the amount of time that something endures. However, the game is changed whenever it's possible to "refill" the system with more of the original substance.

For the carbon that is released into the atmosphere as CO_2, "half-life" refers to the "residence time" of the CO_2 in the atmosphere. The subsequent pathway of carbon in living organisms is much too intricate for a simple analogy to "half-life," but people use the term anyway, even though carbon doesn't go away. Some CO_2 is quickly absorbed into a plant, and it might go into the roots or the trunk and stay locked up for many years; or it could wind up as lumber in a house; or it might go into a leaf that falls later this year and degrades in the soil, releasing the carbon again.

One kind of forest might be 1,000 years old (called "primeval"), while another forest is harvested every 30 years and sent to a paper mill. After that, the carbon in the paper might go into a landfill or be burned in an electric generator, inserting CO_2 once again into the atmosphere. Stating the "residence time" of any amount of CO_2 is a very difficult and precarious estimating game.

The phrase "about a century" is a way of indicating that we don't really know what becomes of CO_2 released into the atmosphere; we can only make ballpark estimates. A squishy consensus has formed around the figure "55 years" for that CO_2 residence time, but it's easy to construct arguments against that. Some estimates are as short as 5 years.

People still use the term "half-life" for all sorts of things, from boyfriends to football careers to auto ownership. I have an M&M dispenser that I deliberately keep in a back closet of my home, and hence my half-life of a bag of M&Ms is about 4 months.

"Economic Bridge" Grant Given To Lutheran Partners

Community Lutheran Partners (CLP), the social ministry for the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA), has been given a $5,000 Lutheran Community Economic Bridge Grant from the Thrivent Financial for Lutherans Foundation. Several local Lutheran churches are members of the W.Va./W.Md. synod.

The funding was awarded to Community Lutheran Partners Inc. based on its mission, financial stability, effectiveness in addressing basic needs such as food, clothing or shelter, use of volunteers, and creativity, according to Don Thomas, pastor at Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church and chairman of the CLP board.

Community Lutheran Partners was one of 76 Lutheran organizations and congregations nationwide selected to receive funding as part of a $1.2 million pilot program. Organizations receiving the grant were also eligible to participate in an additional $10,000 challenge grant in which funds raised by the organization would be matched by the Thrivent Financial for Lutherans Foundation dollar-for-dollar up to $10,000.

"Difficult economic conditions and high unemployment rates have caused many Americans to seek support for basic needs, such as food, clothing and shelter, from local nonprofits," said Kathy Larson, grants program manager for the Thrivent Financial for Lutherans Foundation. "This grant program is designed to help effective organizations maintain their financial stability in the face of increased demand on their resources."

CLP works with Lutheran congregations in West Virginia and western Maryland as they develop community outreach ministries.

"This grant will make it possible for us to expand our STUFF (Sheets, Towels, Utensils for Families) and our disaster relief programs in 2011," said Sherri Schafer, executive director for CLP.

Founded in 1982, the Thrivent Financial for Lutherans Foundation is a private foundation that operates exclusively for charitable, educational, and religious purposes. Grants are provided for projects and missions that reflect Thrivent Financial for Lutherans' charitable interests. The primary charitable interest of the foundation is assisting non-profit organizations and those they serve in achieving economic security and sustainability. To learn more about the foundation and its programs, persons may visit www.thrivent.com/foundations.

Thrivent Financial for Lutherans is a not-for-profit, Fortune 500 financial services membership organization involving approximately 2.6 million members.

Accident Man Found Guilty On CDS Possession Not Marijuana Charge

An Accident man was found guilty on CDS possession not marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia charges in a recent Garrett County District Court hearing, presided over by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert.

Katlin "C.J." Patton, 22, and three others were arrested in August after a search and seizure warrant was executed at a Colony Drive, Accident, residence. Members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office executed the warrant, during which an amount of heroin was recovered from the home.

Patton was allegedly found with three other adults, Brett Wayne Fratz, Lindsey Marie Smith, and Davon Tarrelle Fletcher, sitting around a glass table reportedly packaging heroin for resale. A large quantity of heroin was recovered, including heroin in rolling papers to be sold, several small plastic bags and jars containing heroin, and two capsules containing heroin, as well as two syringes and a burnt spoon with heroin residue on it.

When a search was done on each person, a quantity of marijuana in a jar was recovered from Fletcher, as well as currency in an amount totaling $1,612. In Fratz's bedroom dresser, a sum of $250 was recovered. A blue notebook was also seized, which was discovered to be a ledger of heroin sales and money owed to the suspects.

Patton was sentenced to 90 days with 80 suspended, and ordered to complete two years of supervised probation, to be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation. The other suspects have not yet been tried on these charges.

In other court news, Brandon Shane Baumgardner, 32, Friendsville, was sentenced to 120 days with 107 suspended and 13 recorded as time served for one count of second-degree assault. He was also ordered to complete two years of supervised probation and fined $750 which was suspended. He was not prosecuted on a second count of second-degree assault.

Both stem from domestic disputes in November, during which Baumgardner reportedly struck a live-in girlfriend on the head, while he was intoxicated, on two separate occasions. The victim informed her father of the abuse, who then reportedly called Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Matthew Ryan Tasker, 20, Oakland, was found guilty on a malicious destruction of property greater than $500 charge stemming from an incident last summer. He was sentenced to 120 days suspended and ordered to complete 18 months of supervised probation.

He was not prosecuted on a second count of malicious destruction of property greater than $500. He was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies after he allegedly jumped on the hood of a female victim's car and punched the hood, denting it. On another occasion, he reportedly struck the passenger rear-view mirror, causing further damage to the vehicle.

John Joseph Neri, 40, Friedens, Pa., was found guilty on a disorderly conduct charge stemming from an incident that occurred during the Grantsville Days parade this past June. He was sentenced to 30 days suspended and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He was also fined $500, of which $400 was suspended. Neri was reportedly intoxicated during the parade, causing several disturbances during the course of the event. He was arrested by Maryland State Police.

Aaron Dillsworth, 20, Oakland, was found guilty on a possession of marijuana charge and sentenced to 60 days with 58 suspended. He was also ordered to complete 18 months of supervised probation and fined $500, of which $300 was suspended. He was arrested in June by Garrett County sheriff's deputies after he was discovered to be drinking under age in a public area. During a search of his person, a pill container of marijuana was recovered.

Levi Edward Crosby, 18, Oakland, was given a probation before judgment on unauthorized removal of property and climbing into/on a vehicle with malicious intent charges. He was sentenced to 30 days suspended and ordered to complete 18 months of supervised probation. He was also ordered to pay restitution to Area Wide Protection in the amount of $1,166. He was also fined $500, which was suspended.

Crosby reportedly took a paving roller from a location on Boiling Springs Road and drove it approximately four miles from where it was found. A solar-powered sign board was also damaged by the paver during the incident. Garrett County sheriff's deputies were able to charge Crosby for the September crime when his cellular phone was found on the seat of the paver.

He was not prosecuted on the following charges: unlawful taking of a motor vehicle, two counts of malicious destruction of property valued over $500, disorderly conduct, driving a vehicle without owner's consent with intent to deprive owner of vehicle, failure to notify owner of accident damage, and failure to furnish written identification information on unattended damage.

Brittany Michelle Pleasants, 23, Highland Springs, Va., was given a PBJ on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge and placed on three months of unsupervised probation. She was also fined $157.50. Pleasants was a passenger in a vehicle stopped by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in July.

A search of the vehicle was performed by the canine unit, and a quantity of marijuana, digital scales, three marijuana pipes, and three Adderall pills were recovered from two backpacks and a purse that were in the vehicle. Two other suspects, Josh Tatum and Hannah Tatum, were in the vehicle and charged as well. Pleasants was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of marijuana charge.

Jonathan Patrick Mandel, 33, Terra Alta, W.Va., was given a stet verdict on CDS possession of marijuana charges stemming from a traffic stop by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in June. Mandel was a passenger in the stopped vehicle, and he was found in possession of a bag of marijuana and a pipe.

Stevie Jean Donoghue, 27, McHenry, was given a stet on a CDS possession of marijuana charge stemming from a traffic stop in September by Maryland State Police. Donoghue was also charged with DUI per se, for which she was given a PBJ verdict.

Mark Sanford Duckworth, 53, Oakland, was given a stet on a failure to register as a sex offender charge. Duckworth was notified in September 2009 that he would no longer have to register. When his file was reviewed again this past August, he was ordered to register for life

Thomas Allen Donnelly, 61, Bloomington, was given a stet on a second-degree assault charge stemming from a domestic dispute in July, investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. The conditions of his stet are that he have no violent contact with the victim and that he move to a new residence.

Brandon Mark Proudfoot, 24, Oakland, was not prosecuted on CDS possession not marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia charges. Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to Sheetz, Oakland, to assist with a fraud investigation in September. Proudfoot was reportedly located in the parking lot slumped over in the driver's seat. A search of his vehicle and person resulted in the recovery of a spoon with heroin residue, cotton balls, two syringes, and two needles.

Adam Brent Wertheimer, 25, Bethesda, was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of marijuana charge stemming from a traffic stop and search by Maryland State Police on I-68 in July.

Dennis Dalton, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second-degree assault charge stemming from a dispute with an adult male investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in August.

James Reed Reckart, 24, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second-degree assault charge stemming from a domestic dispute in August investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Did your cable bill go down now that WHAG is no longer provided?

WHAG

Dear Shentel Cable Customer:

Shentel Cable has informed you that Nexstar Broadcasting is seeking unreasonable fees for its carriage of WHAG-TV on its Oakland Maryland cable system. This is simply not true. We believe the modest fees we are seeking from Shentel for Shentel's right to carry WHAG-TV's local programming on the Oakland system are reasonable. However, Shentel has the right to forgo entering into a fair and equitable agreement with Nexstar for the carriage of WHAG-TV on its system, and Shentel made that choice.

WHAG-TV provides more than 30 hours of news and local programming to its community. Shentel claims that it need not pay us a fair rate because it carries other NBC stations and it places no value on WHAG-TV's local programming. Shentel is permitted to make this value judgment; however, we place value on our local programming and are not willing to discount the rate simply because Shentel carries two other NBC affiliates on the Oakland system. Especially when Shentel pays more than $4.00 per subscriber to carry ESPN on its system, approximately $1.00 per subscriber for carriage of TNT and Disney Channel, and more than the amount we proposed for WHAG-TV for several other channels (including the NFL Network, USA and Fox News), none of which provide local programming to the Oakland community.

Shentel also claims that it need not pay a fair rate because the station is "free" television. Shentel is not providing local television stations to its subscribers on a "free" basis. Shentel charges subscribers a minimum of $20 for the right to receive "free" programming from Shentel. We believe it is only fair that Shentel pay a small fee (of less than 2 cents per day) for its carriage of WHAG-TV. Shentel disagrees.

We are disappointed that Shentel places no value on the large amount of local programming WHAG-TV provides to its community and regret that we have been unable to reach a fair use fee for the carriage of WHAG-TV on its newly acquired Oakland, Maryland cable system. However, many other programming providers, such as DISH Network, agree that WHAG-TV's local programming has value and carry our programming on their systems. If you support the continued carriage of WHAG-TV on this Shentel cable system, please contact Mr. David Ferguson at 540-984-5262 or by e-mail to David.Ferguson@emp.shentel.com .

Sincerely,

Hugh J. Breslin, III

MARYLAND DEPARTMENT OF THE ENVIRONMENT
WATER MANAGEMENT ADMINISTRATION
NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION
General Permit for Discharges from the Application of Pesticides

The Department is proposing to issue General Discharge Permit No. 11PE (federal NPDES Permit No. MDG87) for discharges to waters of the State from the application of (1) biological pesticides or (2) chemical pesticides that leave a residue (hereinafter collectively "pesticides"), when the pesticide application is for one of the following pesticide use patterns: mosquito and other flying insect pest control; aquatic weed and algae control; aquatic nuisance animal control; and forest canopy pest control. This general permit is for operators that apply pesticides in or near water. The permit regulates discharges from pesticides applied directly to surface waters to control pests, or applied to control pests that are present in or over, including near, surface waters.

The permit establishes narrative technology-based limitations based on minimizing excess pesticides and implementing integrated pest management practices; establishes narrative water quality based limitations; establishes narrative monitoring requirements, including visual monitoring; and requires development of a pesticide management plan, if operating over a certain threshold. Operators are also required to comply with reporting and record keeping requirements beginning no later than three months after the permit effective date.

The general permit is needed to comply with court-ordered requirements for the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and states to issue national pollutant discharge elimination system (NPDES) permits for both chemical pesticide applications that leave a residue or excess in water and all biological pesticide applications that are made in or over, including near, waters of the United States. EPA has proposed a draft NPDES pesticides general permit to be issued by EPA in states and areas where EPA is the NPDES permitting authority and for use as guidance by Maryland and other states delegated by EPA to issue NPDES permits. Maryland's proposed permit closely follows EPA's proposed pesticide general permit. However, Maryland has made some adjustments to the EPA proposed general permit which allow for transition to the new requirements and provide clarifications for use of the permit in Maryland.

The Department will hold a public hearing concerning the tentative determination on February 8, 2011, at 11:00 a.m. in the Aeris Conference Room at MDE, 1800 Washington Blvd., Baltimore, MD 21230.

Any hearing impaired person may request an interpreter at the hearing by contacting Tyrone Hill, Office of Fair Practices, at 410-537-3964 at least ten working days prior to the scheduled hearing date. TTY users should contact the Maryland Relay Service at 1-800-201-7165.

The draft permit is available on MDE's website at www.mde.state.md.us under the "Notices and Alerts" section. Any questions regarding this tentative determination, including the draft permit and fact sheet, should be directed to Edward Gertler at the Maryland Department of the Environment, Water Management Administration, at egertler@mde.state.md.us, by telephone at 410-537-3323 between the hours from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. Copies of the document may be obtained at a cost of $ 0.36 per page.

Written comments concerning the tentative determination will also be considered in the preparation of a final determination if received by Edward Gertler at the above address, on or before Tuesday, February 15, 2011. 1/6-13(2)

Farming On The Mountaintop

Conferences Set About Area Hay, Pasture Topics

Tri-State Hay and Pasture Conferences will be held on Thursday, Jan. 20, from 8:15 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Salisbury Volunteer Fire Department in Salisbury, Pa.

According to Les Vough, forage crops extension specialist emeritus with the University of Maryland, hay growers, dairy, livestock and horse owners, as well as those who work with the producers, will benefit from attending the conference to learn more about behavior-based feeding programs and some of the latest developments in hay and pasture production and animal feeding.

One of the featured speakers will be Dr. Darrell Emmick, retired state grazing lands management specialist for the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in New York.

Emmick noted that animals can be much like humans when it comes to what they prefer to eat. They prefer familiar feedstuffs in familiar environments, and may be hesitant to eat feeds that they have not experienced before, especially in a different environment.

"In today's world, sustainable livestock production systems must incorporate strategies that generate profit, work in harmony with the environment, and receive social endorsement," Emmick said.

However, he noted that behavioral principles are not common knowledge among scientists, land managers, or farmers. The net result is inefficiency, loss of performance, lower profits, and mismanagement of natural resources and the environment.

According to Emmick, well-managed grazing lands not only enhance the scenic beauty of rural landscapes, but with proper planning and use, they can also significantly reduce production costs for many dairy and livestock producers and concurrently provide significant benefits in mitigating agricultural nonpoint water quality problems.

He explained that understanding and incorporating simple behavioral principles in livestock production systems is a low cost method of livestock management that can increase the efficiency and profitability of dairy and livestock operations. It also works in harmony with the environment and is socially acceptable.

Tim Fritz, forage agronomist and owner/manager of King's AgriSeeds Inc. in Ronks, Pa., will discuss new developments and concepts in grasses at the conference.

According to a spokesperson, grasses are now getting much more attention in feeding programs for livestock and horses, whether utilized as hay, silage, or pasture.

Fritz will discuss new grass species and varieties that are available on the market that have a longer harvest window and retain quality longer because they have more and softer leaves and less stems.

"If you had to choose one forage to feed to a ruminant, high quality grass would be the best choice, as the cow was created to eat grass," said Fritz.

Another scheduled speaker is Ron Ritter, UME weed control extension specialist.

Each of the conferences will also include a trade show, and certified crop advisor and nutrient management certification credits will be offered.

The registration fee for the conference will be $15 per person before Jan. 14 and $20 after the 14th. Lunch will be provided.

Checks should be made payable to Garrett EAC and sent to Hay and Pasture Conference, University of Maryland Extension, 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite A, Mtn. Lake Park, 21550.

For more information or to obtain the complete program agenda and registration materials, persons may contact the extension office at 301-334-6960 or visit the web site at http://garrett.umd.edu/Agnr/TriStateHayfolder/index.cfm.

Farmers' Market Conference Set For Next Month

The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) will host the annual Maryland Farmers' Market Conference on Feb. 16 and 17 to gather farmers' market stakeholders and provide information on state regulations. Sessions will include: food safety, social marketing regulations, and promotional opportunities for the 2011 market season. The two-day event will be held at the new Baltimore County Agricultural Resource Center in Cockeysville. Conference attendees may participate in one or both days.

The first day (Feb. 16) is targeted to market managers and will focus on Maryland health and food regulations, using social marketing, accepting SNAP at market, insurance options, and a presentation of the Sticky Economic Evaluation Device (SEED) market evaluation tool by an expert from New Orleans. Participants will learn how to use this free tool to measure and report on their market's economic impact in their community.

The Feb. 17 sessions are aimed at market farmers and will focus on training for Maryland Farmers' Market Nutrition Program, Fruit and Vegetable checks, and good agricultural practices (GAPs), plus sessions on Maryland health and food regulations, mediation services, and crop insurance opportunities.

According to the MDA, farmers' markets have multiplied because of the increase in demand for fresh, local food, and will continue to expand. Anyone involved with or interested in the operations of farmers' markets is encouraged by MDA to attend the 2011 Farmers' Market Conference.

MDA's Marketing Division supports farmers' market development, fosters links between farmers and consumers through the Maryland's Best branding program, and administers the Farmers' Market Nutrition Programs which provide checks to buy fresh produce for nutritionally at-risk women, infants, children and income-eligible senior citizens while increasing sales for farmers.

The deadline to register for the conference is February 12. Persons may contact Amy Crone at 410-841-5770 for more information or register online at: www.marylandsbest.net.

PRODUCERS REMINDED OF LIVESTOCK INDEMNITY PROGRAM PROVISIONS

The 2008 Farm Bill created several disaster programs under the permanent disaster legislation, one of which is the Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP). LIP compensates producers for livestock death losses in excess of normal mortality because of adverse weather that occurred on or after Jan. 1, 2008, and before Oct. 1, 2011, on a calendar-year basis.

A notice of loss must be filed with the FSA office within 30 days of when the loss is apparent. The completed application for payment and supporting documentation must be filed with the FSA office within 30 days after the end of the calendar year in which the loss occurred.

Eligible damaging adverse weather events include wildfires, blizzard, tornado, lightning, flooding, extreme cold, extreme heat, and disease (must be exacerbated by an eligible adverse weather event). Drought is not considered an eligible adverse weather event except when associated with anthrax.

Eligible livestock include beef and dairy cattle, buffalo, beefalo, equine maintained for commercial use as part of the farming operation, elk, reindeer, deer, sheep, alpacas, emus, swine, goats, llamas, and poultry. All types and weight ranges are eligible. The eligible livestock must have died in the calendar year for which benefits are being requested. All eligible livestock must be maintained for commercial use as part of the farming operation. Eligible livestock owners may apply if they owned the livestock on the day they died.

Proof of inventory and death of livestock must be provided and may include, but not be limited to, any or a combination of the following: (1) rendering truck receipts; (2) written contracts, bank or loan documents; (3) veterinary records; (4) property or other tax records; (5) insurance documents; (6) a measurement service may be requested and paid for by the producer; or (7) producer and production records. Documentation must provide sufficient data that identify the kind/type/weight range of livestock and the number of livestock.

Third-party certification may be accepted only when participant certifies in writing that no other form of proof of death is available, and includes the number and physical location of livestock in inventory at time death occurs. Documentation must also be provided to support the number of livestock in inventory at the time the deaths occurred.

The third party providing the certification must be a reliable source in a position to have knowledge of the dead livestock and shall not be affiliated with the operation, such as a hired hand or a family member.

LIP payments to eligible livestock producers will be based on 75 percent of a fair market value, as determined by the secretary, for each specific livestock category and the individual livestock owners' eligible losses. Calculations will be performed separately by eligible livestock (by type, kind, and weight range). LIP will pay up to $100,000 annually, including any benefits received from SURE, LFP, and ELAP.

Persons or legal entities that have an average adjusted gross non-farm income that exceeds $500,000 are not eligible for LIP.

The normal mortality rate is the percentage of livestock that can be expected to die normally in a livestock operation during the calendar year as a result of disease, injury, or other causes that can routinely occur using good livestock handling practices. The normal mortality rates have been established by the West Virginia State FSA Committee and are available at the FSA office.

Producers interested in the Livestock Indemnity Program are encouraged to visit the Preston County FSA Office, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone 304-329-1923. The FSA web site is also available at www.fsa.usda.gov/

CROP YEAR WOOL, MOHAIR, AND UNSHORN PELTS REQUESTS BEGAN JANUARY 1, 2011

The Preston County Farm Service Agency reminds producers that Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs) are payments made to producers who, although eligible to obtain a Marketing Assistance Loan (MAL), agree to forgo the loan in return for a payment of an eligible commodity. Each crop year, there are producers who fail to submit an LDP application before beneficial interest is lost in the commodity. To be eligible for MAL or LDP, eligible producers must have beneficial interest in the applicable commodity. A producer is considered to have beneficial interest in a commodity if both the following remain with the producer: title and control of the commodity.

Lamb slaughter companies, order buyers representing lamb slaughter companies, and processors are ineligible to for LDPs on unshorn pelts produced from unshorn lambs purchased from eligible producers.

Producers must also comply with wetland conservation and highly erodible land conservation provisions on all land they operate or have an interest in. The pelts must also have been produced by an eligible producer from live unshorn lambs of domestic origin in the U.S.

Producers must complete Page 1 of the CCC-633 EZ form to indicate their intentions to receive an LDP before the loss of beneficial interest and to file an LDP request for payment at any time during the MAL/LDP availability period (before or after losing beneficial interest). By completing and agreeing to the terms and conditions before producers lose beneficial interest, they may be eligible to receive an LDP based on the earlier of (1) the date beneficial interest is lost in the commodity, according to acceptable production evidence, or (2) the date of request for payment.

The CCC-633 EZ will allow producers to request an LDP for each eligible commodity produced on the farm for the applicable crop year. The CCC-633 EZ need only be filed in one county office for all counties in which producers have an interest in an eligible commodity.

By submitting Page 2 of the CCC-633 EZ to the FSA office, on or before the final availability date for each commodity, the producer is completing the request for an LDP on those commodities. Once Page 2 of the CCC-633 EZ is submitted to FSA by the producer, those commodities are no longer eligible for a Marketing Assistance Loan.

The following are the loan rates for 2010 through 2012 crop years: graded wool, $1.15 per pound; ungraded wool, $.40 per pound; and mohair, $4.20 per pound.

Sheep producers are also reminded that they have until Jan. 31, 2011, to apply for Loan Deficiency Payments on wool and unshorn pelts produced during the 2010 crop year.

Producers wishing to file Form CCC-633 EZ or receive further information on the Loan Deficiency Payment procedures may visit the Farm Service Agency located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephone 304-329-1923, fax 304-329-3056, or e-mail Eric.Mccartney@wv.usda.gov.

GARRETT COUNTY, IN BLACK AND WHITE – This was the scene last Thursday on the mountaintop, taken along Mason School Road south of Oakland. The temperatures did climb over the past week, though, all the way up to a balmy 50 degrees on Tuesday. There has been no significant snowfall over the past several days, either – a welcome break to residents already tiring of harsh weather. This scene may very well be rehashed tomorrow, though, as another storm is predicted to arrive late this afternoon and continue through Friday, bringing about 8 inches (at least that's what they say) of blowing snow. Saturday's high is to be 15. So batten down the hatches – here we go again. Photo by Lisa Rook.

Stabbing Victim Recuperating At Ruby Memorial

A McHenry man is said to be improving at Ruby Memorial Hospital after he was stabbed in the chest with a steak knife early Sunday morning. Maryland State Police investigated the 3:17 a.m. incident that occurred at a Close Road residence.

Investigation revealed that a domestic dispute had occurred between Travis B. Litt, 29, and Santanna L. Dolly, 24, at the time of the stabbing. There were reportedly no witnesses to the stabbing, but other occupants were in the dwelling at the time of the incident. Alcohol is believed to be a factor.

Litt was first transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and then to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, where he remains a patient. He was listed in serious but stable condition as of Tuesday, according to Det. Steve Vincent.

IT'S GREEK TO ME! – Our Town Theatre is now taking reservations for its next stage show, titled It's Greek to Me! Actors will present a collection of scenes and monologues from ancient Greek plays. Tentatively scheduled (weather permitting) for Jan. 28 and 29, both at 8 p.m., and Jan. 30 at 2 p.m., the main purpose of the show, according to Jane Avery, director, is to expose local audiences and actors to some of the most famous literature in the world. State's Judy Center Attendees Get Academic "Jump Start" On Peers

Children participating in early learning programs offered through Maryland's Judy Centers, one of which is located in Garrett County, have an academic jump start on their peers, according to the results of a new report.

Young children who enter kindergarten after taking advantage of the Judy Center offerings score higher in kindergarten readiness in all seven domains gauged by the Maryland Model for School Readiness Assessment Program, according to the new report.

"An Analysis of Influence of Judy Center Services," released Friday, is based on research conducted during the 2008 and 2009 school year by the Maryland State Department of Education. The study looked into the effect of the Judith P. Hoyer Early Child Care and Education Enhancement Program – the Judy Centers – on children starting kindergarten.

"Classroom education is only a piece of the puzzle when it comes to ensuring that all children succeed," stated Maryland congressman Steny Hoyer. "This report from MDSE proves that Maryland's Judy Centers – which partner with the community to provide children and their families with a full range of services – have been a success in giving children the tools they need to come to school prepared to learn and excel. We believe we can build on this idea to help more children throughout the country reach their full potential. In the coming weeks, I will

Residents Reminded To Renew Subscription For Rescue Squads

The leadership of the Southern and Northern Garrett County rescue squads have issued a reminder to all residents that it is time to renew the $25 membership fee to the organizations. Residents who pay the annual fee can then be transported by the squad free of charge anytime throughout the year. Those who do not pay the fee will be responsible for payment.

All Garrett Countians should have received notice late last year to renew this payment. Persons are to fill out a subscription card and provide the $25 fee to be covered for the year.

According to the letter sent by the Southern squad, the non-profit organization has been in operation since 1973, and was for many years completely free. However, because of a drop in membership and time constraints for members, some are now being compensated for their work. Budget constraints and the downturn in

Grantsville Man Is Charged With Malicious Burning

Deputy state fire marshals have charged a 37-year-old Grantsville man with second-degree malicious burning and other charges in connection with the overnight 11:50 p.m. fire at 103 Main Street in Grantsville.

An investigation by the Office of the State Fire Marshal revealed that Clinton Loy Durst had a verbal altercation with his mother, resulting in his being thrown out of her second floor apartment. Investigators determined that Durst ignited papers in the common-use stairwell for the two second-story apartments located over an automotive repair shop and parts supply store. The ignition of the papers created mild smoke and damage to the carpet located in the stairwell.

Approximately 12 firefighters responded to the scene and found the fire had self-extinguished. No injuries were reported during the incident.

Durst was apprehended at the scene and charged with second-degree malicious burning, reckless endangerment, and disorderly conduct.

Investigators also discovered that Durst had a bench warrant for failure to appear in court for an unrelated case. He was transported to the Garrett County jail center and was being held on $10,000 bail for the recent incident and $2,000 bond resulting from the bench warrant.

O'Malley Begins Second Term Starts with Cautious Optimism

by David Saleh Rauf
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS -- The pomp and circumstance are officially over.

Gov. Martin O'Malley, 48, was sworn in Wednesday on the steps of the Capitol in front of a crowd of several hundred, including Maryland's political and business elite. He kicked off his second term with a cautiously optimistic inauguration speech about Maryland recovering from the recession, while also touching on a wide range of accomplishments since taking office in 2007.

O'Malley, a rising star in the Democratic Party coming off a resounding victory over a former Republican governor, begins his second and final term in the midst of a careful balancing act: He'll need to address a series of pressing issues facing Marylanders while keeping an eye toward bigger political aspirations.

The challenges facing the state during his second term are plenty. Over the next four years, O'Malley and his administration will tackle issues ranging from projected budget deficits to implementing health care reform, to name just two.

"As we look ahead, we know these next four years will not be easy," O'Malley said, in his roughly 11 minute inaugural address. "Unemployment and foreclosures remain unacceptably high, wages remain stagnant, and our national recovery has only just begun. We have a long way to go."

Political experts say O'Malley will need to walk a tight rope during his second term. Issues that are likely to come up – including tax increases and same-sex marriage – could complicate future political aspirations, said Todd Eberly, acting director of the Center for the Study of Democracy at St. Mary's College.

"He's got to figure out how much he wants to split hairs over the next four years," Eberly said.

For now, O'Malley's top priority is job creation. Some 220,000 Marylanders are out of work, according to November data from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. O'Malley called the figure "unacceptably high" and said "harnessing the full job-creating potential of Maryland" through its biotech, life-sciences, aerospace and cyber security sectors will be key for the state to succeed in a post-recession economy.

The state's budget shortfalls will also take center stage. Lawmakers are currently facing a $1.6 billion deficit for fiscal 2011, and legislative analysts are forecasting shortfalls of $1.5 billion in fiscal 2012 and more than $2 billion in 2013.

O'Malley has used a heavy dose of federal stimulus funds the last two years to balance the state's budget. That won't work moving forward, as the stimulus money has been tapped dry.

Sen. Allan Kittleman, who stepped down as the GOP minority leader earlier this week, said O'Malley has used federal funds to

Eight Arrested For Fights At Youth Centers

Seven juveniles and one adult were recently charged by Maryland State Police following separate incidents at Meadow Mtn. and Savage Mtn. youth centers.

Troopers responded to Meadow Mtn. Youth Center, near Grantsville, where Otis Thomas Wood III had reportedly assaulted another youth at the facility on Jan. 3. Wood was served with a criminal summons charging him with second-degree assault. He was then released back to the facility.

In a separate incident, troopers from the McHenry Barrack and Cumberland Barrack were called to the Savage Mtn. Youth Center in response to a reported disturbance. It was learned that several groups of youths were involved in a number of assaults involving each other and a cafeteria employee. There were no serious injuries.

Seven juveniles were charged with second-degree assault and disorderly conduct. Those charged were released back to the custody of the Department of Juvenile Services.

Driver Arrested After Leaving Accident Scene

A West Virginia man faces numerous charges stemming from a single-vehicle accident on Rt. 50 early last Saturday morning. Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the 1:30 a.m. incident.

When the deputies arrived, it was discovered that the driver, Sampson O'Dell IV, 26, Mt. Storm, and passenger(s) had fled from the accident scene. Sampson is charged with failure to return to scene of an accident involving bodily injury, failure to return/remain at scene of accident involving vehicle damage, failure to furnish identification, failure to exhibit license to police, failure to report accident to police, failure to provide insurance information, driving without a license, failure to drive right of center, and negligent driving.

Gorman and Aurora firefighters and Southern Rescue Squad also responded to the early morning accident.

TEENAGE ARTISTS "SHOWING THEIR STUFF" – The Garrett County Arts Council opened the door this winter for the area's young artists to submit their artwork for display and judging, and 31 teenagers responded. Their pieces are now on display at the Gallery Shop in Oakland, located along Alder Street. Two samples of the artistry are pictured here. Above is "Shoes," a charcoal drawing by Nick Harkins, who is a senior at Southern High School. Pictured below is "Winter," an acrylic painting by Cara Stough, a senior at Northern High School. HISTORY IN THE MAKING – Now in his senior wrestling season at McDaniel College, Grantsville resident and Northern High School graduate Brock Glotfelty (above right) set a new McDaniel record for individual wrestling victories when he recorded a 12-3 major decision over Rick Danilkowicz (pictured left) of Johns Hopkins in the heavyweight division this week. This was Glotfelty's 21st straight win of this season and the 113th of his collegiate career, which broke the previous McDaniel record of 112 held by Charlie Conaway. With a 113-20 career mark, Glotfelty set the program record in 19 fewer matches than did Conaway, who finished his 1996-2000 tenure with a record of 112-40. With more than a month remaining in the season, Glotfelty also enters the Centennial Conference's top five in career wins. Gettysburg's Jake Dell (1995-98) holds the conference record with 140 victories. Photo courtesy of Del Carpenter. See another photo of Glotfelty on the sports pages.

MAJOR BOOST FOR TROOPS – The Military Family Support Group, which provides services and support to the families of local U.S. military personnel, received a major boost from an Oakland auto dealer recently. Team One annually participates in a corporate program through which a percentage of money from the sale of each car or truck goes back into the community. This year the company selected the local military support group to enable that organization to send care packages for the next year. A check for $3,350 was presented. Pictured from left are Aaron Newcomb and Steve Shaffer of Team One, Cathy and Mel Menker of the support group, and Greg Shockey and Janet Glotfelty, also with Team One. GC Deputies Arrest Three On DUI Charges

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested three people this week on drinking and driving charges. The following incidents are unrelated.

Deputies stopped a 2008 Ford vehicle on Oakland Avenue, Mtn. Lake Park, early Tuesday morning after the driver failed to stop at a stop sign and failed to give the required signal to turn. The driver was identified as Anthony Wayne Ackerman, and further investigation led to his arrest. He was charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, and driving while impaired. He was released on personal recognizance.

A separate stop was conducted on Maryland Highway at approximately 10 p.m. that same evening. Deputies stopped a 1999 Land Rover driven by James A. Finch, 67, Oakland, for traffic violations. He was discovered to be under the influence of alcohol. He was charged with DUI, DWI, and other related traffic charges. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Deputies stopped a 2003 Dodge truck early Wednesday morning along Garrett Highway for crossing the centerline. The driver was identified as Andrew David Betz, Oakland, and he was reportedly under the influence of alcohol at the time of the stop. He was charged with DUI, DUI per se, DWI, and failure to drive right of center.

Pleasant Valley Couple Arrested For Assault

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested a Pleasant Valley Road couple after they reportedly assaulted each other in a domestic dispute. Maryland State Police assisted at the 5:45 p.m. scene on Sunday.

As a result of the investigation, Patricia Ann Collins and Russell Edward Tasker were both charged with second-degree assault. They were transported to the Garrett County Jail to await bond hearings.

Comptroller Now Accepting Returns Filed Electronically

Maryland Comptroller Peter Franchot "flipped the switch" on the state tax filing season, announcing that his office is ready to receive and process Maryland income tax returns electronically as of this past Tuesday. While the IRS requires certain taxpayers to delay their filing, taxpayers can electronically submit state returns now, and then electronically submit their federal return to the IRS when the federal systems are ready.

"I urge all Marylanders to file electronically and sign up for direct deposit," Franchot said. "Those who do will generally receive their refunds within three business days after receiving confirmation of acceptance. Filing electronically is the best way to ensure quick refunds while also saving the state money on processing costs. I-filing is easy, safe, and fast."

If a taxpayer's software provider will not allow "state-only" returns, he or she is encouraged to file a state return electronically using the comptroller's free I-file system found online at www.marylandtaxes.com. The web site also has information on accessing tax forms and a list of tax changes for the 2011 filing season, including this year's filing deadline of April 18 because of the celebration of Emancipation Day on April 15, the traditional deadline.

Taxpayers are also encouraged by Franchot to visit one of his 12 field offices for free tax preparation and assistance on Maryland taxes with a completed federal return and W-2. For more information on electronic filing, taxpayers can also send an e-mail to taxhelp@comp.state.md.us or telephone 1-800-638-2937.

Two Friendsville residents were arrested by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy last Friday after they were discovered to be smoking marijuana inside the home.

The deputy was at the Maple Street home to serve a civil process, when he detected an odor of marijuana coming from their apartment. Jennifer Lynn Hoover, 21, and Jimmie Dale Friend II, 22, were both found to be in possession of numerous items of drug paraphernalia, as well as suspected marijuana.

Each was charged with CDS possession of marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia. They were taken into custody to await bond hearings.

The subscription membership plan was started on Jan. 1, 2007. The program has allowed the rescue squads to bill all patients to cover the costs associated with emergency care, but to do it without creating a financial burden for citizens.

Persons who pay the $25 are eligible for free care from either Southern or Northern Rescue Squads, as the fee is reciprocal between these two organizations. However, persons are advised that it does not cover costs from other ambulance services.

For more information, residents may contact the rescue squad that serves their part of the county.

Ralph Burnett, Cindy's Fund has provided over $60,000 to the health department. And, with continuing budget cuts, health department needs are likely to increase. Without Cindy's Fund assistance, people needing to be screened for cancer through the health department would need to be put on a waiting list until additional funds were received. In the case of cancer, this could be deadly.

Initially started to serve only the uninsured of Garrett County, monies raised from Cindy's Fund now assist basically anyone in need. Two-income households can be living a comfortable financial life, until one gets struck by cancer. Often, the cancer victim is forced to leave his/her job to deal with the side effects of cancer, leaving only one household income. And, in one-income households, families are left without any income. Situations change quickly when illness strikes.

Over the last several years, Cindy's Fund has expanded its services. We now provide gas cards for cancer patients, food vouchers for caregivers, nutritional supplements, hotel stays, COBRA payments, some medications, etc. We even paid several thousand dollars for a prosthetic eye. We take every need into consideration.

We assist people no matter where they are receiving treatments – Pittsburgh, Morgantown, Baltimore, wherever. There are cancer patients who do not show up for their treatments because they can't afford the gas to get to the hospital. Cancer is an expensive disease, and brings with it lots of needs that are not covered by insurance.

Cindy's Fund serves only people in Garrett County. There are no overhead or administrative costs. Funds go directly from our pocket to the cancer patient.

If you or someone you know needs assistance with cancer expenses, or if you have any questions about our organization, please call Sharon Rounds at the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7770, or Tenna Taylor at Western Maryland Health Systems at 240-964-1449. To the Editor:

A recent editorial in the Washington Post is another discussion about changing tax policy relating to the mortgage interest deduction (MID). Although the writer asserts that the "vast majority" of those itemizing deductions are in "upper brackets" and therefore MID benefits primarily the rich, 65% of families who claim the MID earn less than $100,000 a year. That's solidly middle class in Maryland, where the 2010 average home price was over $290,000.

More disturbing, however, is failing to recognize the devastating effect of significant changes to the MID rules. It hardly takes an economist to realize that loss of the MID would have a profoundly negative effect on home values, as much as 15 per cent, according to industry projections (even higher in Maryland, whose residents rank among the highest users of the MID), as buyers recognize that their carrying costs would increase under the proposal.

And yes, the possibilities are "scary." The housing market has been buffeted for too long not only by difficulties in obtaining financing and excessive foreclosures, but by a wary public uncertain about the future, often because of what they read, even though interest rates have been at historic lows for several years. It is naive to think that proposals to devalue the benefits of homeownership would not have a significant effect on a market just beginning to stabilize.

Homeowners already pay a disproportionate share of federal income taxes. Our national homeownership rate is 69.6 per cent, but homeowners pay 80 to 90 percent of federal income taxes. That would most certainly rise with a reduction in the MID, to as high as 95 per cent if it is eliminated.

Our federal tax code has been the stuff of jokes – and frustration – for decades because of its complexity. It is simplistic, as well as bad public policy, to argue that reducing or eliminating its only significant benefit to middle-class taxpayers will somehow alleviate the problems that have resulted from years of fiscal irresponsibility.

7th Wealthiest??...

Even though there are a number of signs that the nation's economy is improving, there remain some huge challenges, any one of which could stall, if not reverse, the current, relatively positive trend.

Among the most ominous challenges is the financial condition of many of our states and thousands of counties and municipalities throughout the nation. While Maryland is not among the most dire, it is nonetheless about $1.5 billion in deficit. Other states, such as Illinois, California, and New Jersey, are nearly bankrupt. Meanwhile, the federal government has a deficit of many trillion dollars, a sum that most of us cannot even begin to comprehend.

While there are a number of factors that got us into this mess, perhaps the most basic one is, simply, that government has spent far more money than it has, a practice with which most of us can easily identify as individuals and as families. And the only way to get "flush" again is to cut spending, or as in the case of the government, raise taxes. Both actions may be necessary.

Among the absolute greatest challenges facing Garrett County leading into fiscal year 2012 (which will begin July 1 of this year) is the huge reduction in state funding to the Garrett County Board of Education. The formula that the state uses to allocate education funds to the counties is based upon the wealth rating of that county. One would think that here in Garrett County, where nearly half of our children qualify for free and/or reduced priced meals at school, we would surely be among the poorest of Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City. Turns out that Garrett County is currently ranked as the 8th wealthiest county in the state, and is apparently moving up one slot to 7th. The high assessments – and thus high taxes – paid by Deep Creek Lake property owners is the single most significant number that skews things for the county.

And guess what? The erection of wind turbines in Garrett County also reduces the amount of money we will receive from the state. There's a little fact that no one knew a few years ago. So the money "generated" by the wind turbines will essentially be subtracted from our state allotment.

How much does the Garrett County Board of Education stand to lose in education funding? Preliminary numbers indicate that it is going to be, at a minimum, $2 million. It could be as much as $4 million, depending upon what happens with the cost of insurance, salary negotiations, and other factors. We will be publishing more specific numbers within the near future.

Maryland schools are ranked #1 in the country for the third straight year, and Garrett County's system is among the best in the state. This is despite various funding cutbacks that have already been absorbed and endured. We cannot afford to let our system backslide.

Our new commissioners certainly have their work cut out for them, and it is hoped that they have the courage to provide the needed funding to our education system and thus stand up to those who think that they should do otherwise.

To the Editor:

Last week The Republican included several mentions about the funding challenges for the upcoming education budget. I believe this is just the beginning of a extensive decline in state funding, as our nation "pushes back" after years of excessive spending across all budget categories.

Garrett County must continue to develop education programs that prepare our students for their future, develop additional local funding sources, and improve the citizens' general understanding of both the school system's challenges and the effectiveness of its programs. I suggest:

•Develop a coordinated K-12 scope and sequence of topics to be included in school PTSA meetings so citizens are aware of both program and budget challenges. Such programs would not only improve community support for schools, but also develop the capacity of our citizens to better advocate for those programs proven to be more effective with our students. This process should also provide grade-level benchmarks of success which the school and parents should use to gauge college/career readiness.

•Establish an education foundation for Garrett County. Such a fund would be available for local initiatives and would be allocated after input from citizens and the business community. This fund could help offset the effects of declining enrollment, provide needed technology, and support local school projects.

•Anticipate the reassignment of at least a portion of the teachers' retirement cost to the local county by setting aside a percentage of the budget for this cost before the transfer is finalized. With Maryland looking to have localities shoulder at least a portion of this increasing expense, Garrett County must either seek additional funds or reduce the funds for current programs to balance the budget. Getting ahead of the curve on this issue will lessen the impact when this cost is assigned.

•Review the cost effectiveness of programs such as driver's education, which most counties no longer offer during the school day. Such programs which are not required for career or college readiness can be offered privately after school, on weekends, or during the summer. This would permit students to take additional courses and save the system money.

•Consider using snow-closing days for staff development activities in order to reduce the number of days when schools are closed for such training, not withstanding those emergency days when central office is forced to close, as staff should be expected to report to school so that there are fewer early-release days for students.

To the Editor:

I am writing to offer my deepest gratitude to a group of strangers in your community who helped pull my Ford Escape from a snow bank off Mayhew Inn Road on the afternoon of Jan. 15.

As a weekend visitor, I was touched by the spontaneous generosity of all those who stopped by to offer assistance. I counted at least a dozen persons, including one who climbed under my vehicle to attach a rope and another whose truck pulled my car back to the road.

The crowd quickly dispersed after the successful effort, and I was not able to gather names or offer individual thanks to each of them. I hope this letter will suffice in reaching some of these kindhearted folks. Your community is graced by their presence.

Sincerely,

January is National Mentor Month. There are 87 unsung heroes in Garrett County, and I would like to take this opportunity to make the community aware of them.

Garrett Mentors Inc. celebrates and thanks all its volunteer mentors who visit with a child once a week at lunch time, at one of the Garrett County elementary schools. The mentor and "study buddy" are matched with similar interests in mind. These mentors commit to one hour each week to help their study buddies with math, spelling, or a school project. Reading is always a part of the hour spent together. Sometimes they just talk or explore different ways of doing things.

Mentors come from all walks of life; some work full time, while others are retired. All of the mentors love children and teach the value of education. The students referred to the program are those who need a little extra one-on-one help or need a special someone to listen to only them. Principals, teachers, and counselors remark that grades, manners, and school attendance improve when a student has a mentor.

Currently there are over 20 children waiting for a mentor. The mentor chooses the school and age of the child that he or she wants to mentor. These special people "inspire by example," and make a tremendous difference in the life of a child.

To anyone who knows a mentor, stop and thank that person for making a difference.

Very sincerely,
Tricia Cheesman
Program Director
Garrett Mentors Inc.

To the Editor:

It will be a sad day when Dr. Ihor Zakaluzny leaves Garrett County to set up his residence and practice in Arizona.

His exit will leave a big hole in our medical care here in Garrett County. It will also affect the financial condition of Garrett County Memorial Hospital unless the hospital staff immediately searches for and finds a replacement for Dr. Zak.

I wouldn't like to see us Garrett Countians have to go to Cumberland or Morgantown for procedures and operations that can be performed at our hospital.

The reason I am personally saddened by the doctor's departure is because he was part of a team of three doctors who first suspected my cancer, then detected it, and finally selected the correct chemotherapy that has prolonged my life for more than four years (and I hope more).

I'm sure that many others of the area have also had life-prolonging experiences because the procedures and surgeries performed by Dr. Zakaluzny.

I will miss him and I know hundreds of his patients will also miss this wonderful, caring doctor.

I am asking the chief executive officer and his staff to pull out all the stops to find an immediate replacement for this fine doctor.

Dr. Zak, goodbye and may God bless you.

To the Editor:

When my dad was alive, we used to joke that he had moved his hometown of Tunkannock, Pa., here to the Maryland mountains. There are few differences between Oakland and Tunkhannock. Both are county seats, both have large Republican populations, both are close to the same size, both are pretty little towns set in the mountains. Both towns have the underpinnings of kindness, generosity, and openness, which shore up the problems they have had with unstable economies and with a world that is running as smoothly as a car on square wheels.

Tunkhannock sits comfortably in the Endless Mountains in the anthracite coal region. A few months ago, Dorothy called me. Dorothy was my dad's babysitter when he was a toddler; she has lived in Tunkhannock for 105 years.

The phone call was sad. I was thinking of visiting Tunkhannock this coming spring, but Dorothy was calling to tell me not to come because seeing it would break my heart. Dorothy had lived through the years of the tannery opening and closing and the rise and fall of the witch-hazel factory, along with the coal industry and the dying of the business area on Tioga Street which faded into nothing – because of the bypass. She has always kept the attitude that things happen for the best, but during this particular phone call, she broke down and told me that the old homestead that my family had settled back in the 1700s is ruined, the water is dead, the fields are destroyed, and Tunkhannock Creek, which ran through to the Susquehanna, has been pretty much sucked dry.

What is the cause of this devastation? Fracking. You see, Tunkhannock is only 11 miles from Dimock, Pa. I've talked to several people. Tunkhannock is a lot richer than it used to be; 75 percent of Wyoming County is scheduled to be fracked.

Families that have been close-knit neighbors for over 200 years are now enemies. But, hey, there's a new Super Store Walmart going in – in what has become the town center (due to the bypass), and they're building two new hotels to handle all of the workers.

What I've always thought of as my heritage is gone. I do not want to see it. My next trip to Tunkhannock will be my final trip anywhere. Hopefully, when I'm dead, I won't care.

To the Editor:

This is written concerning a moratorium of one year in drilling the Marcellus shale in Garrett County, as suggested in one of your recent editorials.

Even though the Marcellus shale has been under Garrett County for millions of years, an oil and gas lease has a primary term, which is usually a lot shorter than a million years. If a well is not drilled during the primary term (usually 3, 5, or 10 years), the lease could expire and the lessee, or its assigns, would have to extend or purchase a new lease covering the land from the lessor (mineral owner). This could be a very sizable expense, or the lessor could refuse to extend or sign a new lease. It also might be argued that the owner lost control over its lease when the government instituted the one-year moratorium, which though probably not applicable could fall under the "force majeure" clause of the lease.

In all fairness, if the government has the power to institute a one-year moratorium on drilling, then the bonus consideration, usually the amount paid per net mineral acre owned by the lessor for signing the lease, should be returned to the owner, if the primary term of the lease expires during the moratorium. (What a nightmare that would be, trying to get the money back from each lessor or the taxpayer.) Or in the alternative, if the government does have the power to institute the one-year moratorium on drilling, then it should also have the concurrent power to decree that the primary term of every lease in Garrett County be extended for an additional year.

Respectfully,
Eddie Cornelius

To the Editor:

Your editorial about the feasibility of wind power contained lots of valuable information. And, the answer to your question was contained, on the same page, in Karen Tunney's letter.

Gas and oil drilling has become toxic, costly, and dangerous as the easily reached surface supplies are rapidly being tapped out. Windmills don't entail the same scary processes that are dangerous to man and the environment.

Maybe T. Boone Pickens is only concerned with profits, but some of us are focused on the health of people and the planet. Maybe the new political climate in Washington changed his view about where to invest now, with EPA regulations and energy policy of less concern. Maybe Pickens' money concerns shifted him and many other potential investors away from wind technology. I would imagine the moneyed folks and the corporate lobbyists are now against change and prefer the status quo.

None of this makes green technologies less attractive to those interested in our local health, overall environment, and water needs. Is 10 years of cheap gas worth turning our back on investing in the changes and innovations that don't threaten a healthy way of life?

I understand that one of the benefits of capitalism is the educated people it creates. But, the ingenuity and creativity of those people can surely produce better ways to invest their money than in the down, dirty, and dangerous choice that Pickens is making. Profit should not be the only motive. It may be that Pickens will only be helping the Chinese to one day profit from our need for clean energy. Who knows when the next ugly oil or gas disaster will badly affect those profits?

The report on the BP gulf disaster concluded that hurry-up and greed played a role in it and offered that another such incident could not be counted out. So capitalism is a fine system that creates a wealthy, powerful group of educated people – as wealth provides education, and education provides skills and creative knowledge. But, every system needs to be fine tuned as things change, and adjustments often need to be made in order to allow for the creation of a healthy, prosperous society for all.

Good sense has prevailed in the past when the profit motive got out of control. A strong democracy depends on the trust of both the wealthy and the middle class. Wise choices are important.

To the Editor:

We hear it, read it, and see it: A mentally ill individual gets a firearm and goes on a shooting spree. How many more precious lives must be lost until the mental health administrators and law makers "wake up and smell the death?" It is as though they have an allowable fatality rate for these sorts of tragedies.

How much is a human life worth? Is it worth jeopardizing a mentally ill person's "right to privacy?" Everyone should have the right to choose what they will or will not allow to be put in their bodies, if they are in touch with reality! If mentally ill people want the "right to bear arms," let them wear sleeveless shirts! What about all Americans' most precious right – the right to life?

First, we need to take a look at a symptom most of these shooters get as a result of their illness. It is called anosognosia, or unawareness that they even have a psychiatric disorder.

How will a mentally ill individual have sense enough to get treated if he doesn't even realize that he has a serious mental illness?

When drunks get behind the wheel of a motor vehicle, the law says "it is the same as aiming a loaded gun." They too have anosognosia because they don't realize how blind, stupid drunk they are. However, if they are caught and convicted they must report to a drunk driver monitor every week so they don't get anosognosia again, get behind the wheel again, and kill somebody. Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) were behind getting that accomplished. We need to do something about these MADD individuals with guns too!

The majority of states have an outpatient commitment law but don't enforce it. If a seriously mentally ill patient has been problematic and prone to violence, he needs to have his behavior monitored by a mental health professional regularly. But you don't dare bring up the subject of outpatient commitment. They say, "It creates too much paperwork! Everybody has to do their paperwork every time they turn around. Tough! What about the cost?

How much is a human life worth? I suppose not that much, as long as it isn't theirs or their children's! For more information, contact the Treatment Advocacy Center (TAC) at: www.treatmentadvocacycenter.org.

EGLON MOUNTAINEERS

The Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club met on Jan. 10 at the Eglon Memorial Building. Haley Rocha was presiding and opened the meeting with devotions by the recreation committee – Sydney Vandevander Matt Rinker, and Daniel Conrad. Treasurer Danielle Blamble and secretary Trevor Spaid read their reports.

Members Danielle Blamble, Sierra Evans, and Haley Rocha, and adults Angie Spaid, Jackie Blamble, Stacy Rocha, and Elaine Roth visited Cortland Acres Nursing Home on Dec. 30, where they provided entertainment for the residents there with December birthdays.

Discussion of the rules and entry of poster and photography entries was held. The club decided to make donations of money to the Preston County 4-H Foundation, the IFYE Program, and to Friends of Cortland Acres rather than exchange individual Christmas gifts.

Jesse Schalker reported on his recent elk hunting trip in Colorado. He used a photo album to illustrate the action and scenery. He also was the only one to get an elk while on the trip.

When the meeting was adjourned, members played games and enjoyed pizza and other refreshments. The next meeting is set for Feb. 14.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

THE LINEAR NO-THRESHOLD HYPOTHESIS PART 1 OF 2

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. To protect the population, the government sets maximum allowable limits for traces of poisonous chemicals. How do we know what is "safe enough?"

A. This has been a matter of controversy for over a century, and in recent decades some agencies, such as the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), have sometimes issued extremely strict regulations that add considerable cost to various products.

Scientific testing is done on the safety of assorted chemicals. This body of data is continually expanding, as concerns are raised by consumers. Generally, tests for toxicity are run on laboratory animals, and the observed results extrapolated to predict the effects upon human beings. Manufacturers frequently hire university researchers to conduct independent tests, because they don't like getting sued for selling unsafe products.

In order to conduct a test on laboratory rats in a reasonably short period of time, it is customary to give them very large doses of the chemical being tested. Various types of artificial sweeteners were tested by feeding amounts to animals that no human (no matter how zany) could ever possibly consume. (We've all seen cartoons that show bloated lab rats making funny remarks.) Once the effect of large doses on laboratory rats is established, the next step is to apply that knowledge to how human beings will be affected by small doses.

There are difficulties in making that transition accurately, because details of physiology are daunting, and intricate chemical pathways can be debated at great length. The simplest thing to do is presume that the effect will be linear, that is, 1% of the dose will give you a 1% chance of suffering the affliction. The linearity hypothesis reflects the judgment that medical science doesn't know the exact mechanism of toxicity, and it's better to be safe than sorry.

Moreover, for many chemicals it is not known how much is tolerated by the human body before adverse effects begin. Once again, the simplest and safest way to bet is that there is no minimum dose at all which is totally harmless. In the absence of clear evidence to the contrary, therefore, to the linear hypothesis is added the no-threshold hypothesis. In that combination, the LNT hypothesis says that one billionth of the dose that hurts laboratory rats would make your odds of illness one billionth as great.

The LNT hypothesis gives the regulating agency total protection against ever being blamed, but instills an excessive level of fear into the general public.

It is very easy to think up ridiculous cases. For example, even distilled water is fatal to humans – in doses 10 feet deep! Applying the LNT hypothesis, you should never go near water a quarter-inch deep. Obviously, there really is a threshold in that case.

There are so many recognized instances of real-life thresholds that the FDA has the category "generally regarded as safe" (GRAS), and those products go unregulated. Coca-Cola and similar beverages merited that designation a century ago; there are thousands of such consumer products.

Common sense on the part of the public is usually presumed. For example, don't drink gasoline. Beer, wine, and other alcoholic beverages are considered safe, but the toxicity of excess is well-known. Steaks and ribs, candy and ice cream all taste great – in moderate quantities. But the definition of "moderate quantities" varies from person to person: Diabetics must be extra careful about sugar intake; cholesterol-lowering medicines are essential to the health of some people.

The linear no-threshold hypothesis is a customary starting point for devising regulations, but clearly does not apply in all cases. Next week we'll look at cumulative effects – what happens when small doses are repeated again and again over a long period of time.

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

introduce legislation in the House that would apply the successes we have had in Maryland's Judy Centers to expand the idea of full-service education throughout the country, so that children receive supportive wraparound services in addition to high quality education."

State School Superintendent Nancy S. Grasmick said the report confirms what educators have long understood: Investment in early learning pays big dividends throughout a child's schooling.

"The Judy Centers give children a running start on the rest of their educational program," Dr. Grasmick said. "We know that when we give young people a strong foundation for learning, they will thrive and prosper. The foundation provided by our Judy Centers is rock solid."

Maryland launched the Judy Center program a decade ago. The 25 centers, located in 22 local school systems, not only offer early education programs for children, but also support services for children birth through kindergarten and their families who reside in specific Title 1 school districts.

A primary objective of the Judy Centers is to ensure that young children, including those who are disadvantaged by poverty, limited English proficiency, or special education needs, are fully ready for the rigors of kindergarten when they walk through the classroom door. The centers are named in honor of the late Judith P. Hoyer, an early childhood advocate, supervisor of early childhood for the Prince George's County Public Schools, and wife of Rep. Hoyer.

The new study found that:

•Judy Centers serve a significantly larger proportion of kindergartners receiving special services (free and reduced-price meals, special education, and English language learners) than those in Maryland's public school system overall (65 percent to 47 percent).

•Seventy-one percent of children who took advantage of early childhood programs and services at Judy Centers were fully ready for kindergarten in the fall of 2009, compared to 63 percent of kindergartners who did not have prior Judy Center experience.

•By spring of the kindergarten year, children who had prior Judy Center experience continued to outrank their peers who did not.

Maryland's public school system has been ranked as the nation's finest for three straight years, thanks in part to its innovative early childhood development program, according to Grasmick, adding that MSDE is considered a national leader in the evaluation of early childhood learning, establishing an annual evaluation of what entering kindergartners know and are able to do.

For more information about Maryland's Judy Center programs, persons are invited to go online to: http://www.marylandpublicschools.org/MSDE/divisions/child_care/early_learning/Judy. For complete results of the new study, persons are directed to http://portal:19541/sites/DECD/default.aspx.

DARLA S. CUMMINS

Darla Su "Suzi" (Beard) Cummins, 75, Swanton, passed away on Monday, Jan. 17, 2011, at Garrett County Memorial Hospital from cancer of the liver, diagnosed in March 2010.

Born Sept. 26, 1935, in Oklahoma City, Okla., she was a daughter of the late B. Beard and Christina (Sanders) Beard. She was also preceded in death by siblings Bob, Gwynn, Corrine, and J.B.

Darla graduated with a B.A. in religious education from Phillips University in 1957.

While in college, she was a cheerleader, president of the pep club, member of the Zonta Social Service Club, a May Queen candidate, and a representative Phillipian woman candidate. She was a conference champion in women's singles badminton and elected to Silver Scroll and Cardinal Key academic honor societies. She was also elected to the American Association of University Women.

She was a women's retreat lecturer for the Christian Church. As such, she spoke in 21 of 35 of church regions. She was also a workshop leader, book reviewer, and church school educator for 48 years. She was a member of the Salvation Army board, the Woman's Club of Wheeling, and the Auxiliary Group of Ohio Valley Medical Centry.

She was the first lady of Bethany College, Bethany, W.Va., where her husband Duane was president from 1988 to 2002.

She had published Speeding at 55, Parenting with Suzi, My Mother's Hands, Dawning of a New Day, and Teaching Teachers to Teach.

She is survived by her husband of more than 53 years, Dr. D. Duane Cummins, whom she married on Oct. 6, 1957; one son, Stephen Cummins, St. George, Utah; two daughters, Christi Sue Leslie, Great Falls, Va., and Caroline Renee Burnham, Atlanta, Ga.; 14 grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

A memorial service will be held to celebrate her life on Friday, Feb. 25, at Bethany College.

Suzi is especially remembered at Bethany for her loving outreach to students in need. In lieu of flowers, the family requests that contributions be made to the Cummins Scholarship Fund, which was established in her name while she served at Bethany. The address is Bethany College, Bethany, WV 26032.

Quote from husband Duane:

"Our long journey together has come to an end. It began in September 1953, when we met as Phillips freshmen in the first hour of the first class at the opening of school that fall; and ended at 10:45 p.m. on Jan. 17 in the hospital at Oakland. Liver cancer took her life. The journey encompassed 57 years, 53 of those shared in a wonderful marriage."

Suzi possessed rare qualities – abiding thoughtfulness, a deeply compassionate Christian spirit, a generous heart, a sunny personality, playfulness of character, and good humor. She was a source of delight to all who knew her. One of her favorite quotes was: "No matter what, God wants us to be happy. He doesn't want us to be sad. Birds sing after a storm – why shouldn't we?"

Her life was defined by love and powered by love – the highest image of love. When you think of Suzi, you think of love. She had a greater ability to love than any person I have ever known, and she shared that love with unrestrained generosity.

Spiritual joy came to her through loving. All of her correspondence ended with URLVD (you are loved). It is said that to abide in love is to abide in God.

Sarah Grace Guthrie

May 17, 1984 – July 31, 2010

The family of Sarah Grace Guthrie would like to extend our heartfelt and sincere thanks to everyone who helped us during this very sad time for our family. We would like to thank the following people and organizations: the staff of Garrett Memorial Hospital Emergency Room, who did everything possible to save our beloved Sarah. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad for their quick response and efforts to save Sarah; and the David Burdock Funeral Home for guiding us through the process of making arrangements. A very special thank-you to Brother John Friend and the Hiway Assembly of God Church for a wonderful service and for the kindness that they extended to us, the family of Wayne Moyer for all of their support and for being there for us. Also, to the many people for donations of flowers, food and money.

We have been told that Sarah died of natural causes. Not from an overdose. Knowing Sarah was trying to overcome her disease of addiction and was working to make her life better eases our pain somewhat.

Sarah was a wonderful mother, daughter, sister and friend who will always be loved and missed. She loved her son and family and life very much.

We are working on a scholarship at Frostburg State University in her name. If anyone would like to contribute to the fund, the address is:

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Sheila Southerly made me feel very envious, because for one thing she was able to watch a big pileated woodpecker working on a big hemlock near her picture window. Those are among the largest, fanciest birds around. You rarely see them, but they are around. But when you see one, you feel like you've won a nice prize. He dug a pretty big hole in the big trunk.

She also took advantage of the weather, which was somewhat cold, but with no wind. She took a spin on her old cross-country skis. And she hit a few of my favorite places, including the beaver dam on her solo run and another run with Lesa Whittemore recently.

I am certainly sick of winter. It's just never-ending cold, cold, and more cold. But that is pretty normal in mid-January in this neck of the woods.

Yesterday (Monday), although it was a holiday for many people, they still called it "Blue Monday," just because of the time of year. Spring seems so far away, it is unimaginable. Also, it was a little sad to really think about the dreams Martin Luther King had, and how far we have come toward achieving them. We are still a society that's not even close to color blind or past the race issue. Even the progress that was made only made some people angry. If one group gets a little progress, others think that they must have lost something.

Can you blame the one shooting victim who got angry when he heard pro-gun rights comments from a Tea Party supporter? Is this the only important thing in our Constitution? Clearly, just about anyone can easily buy a weapon of mass destruction. What about the basic rights: life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, which of course no one can exercise if they are a victim of a serious gun injury or even death?

It is not only those who suffer from serious mental illness who are guilty of extreme gun violence. It is also people with some extreme political and societal ideas. They share one thing with the victims of paranoid schizophrenia. That is a feeling that some individual or a group pose a serious risk to them. And in any time of serious economic trouble, the rate of crime goes up, especially violent crimes.

I heard too many times in recent days the country music song, "Another Day, Another Dollar." How many Americans can say that is an accurate representation of their life? Who really earns one dollar per day? Maybe the illegal immigrants who worked long and hard in the hot sun to produce the vegetables and fruits that are taken for granted by most regular Americans.

But really, could anyone afford to feed their family on one dollar per day? They certainly could not afford heat for their home. Perhaps it would have been enough when America was born, when most families lived on small farms which produced most of their food supply, but then our woods and forests shrank so much. And it is very rare that households have enough firewood available to keep them warm. Society changed during the 19th century with the industrial revolution and urbanization.

During our founding years, what did democracy symbolize? And what is the idea of what American society should be? I know how much confusion there is about that, judging by some of the discussions in my classroom at Garrett College.

People say communism is a basic political term, not an economic system. Many students believed that it meant exactly the same as dictatorship. Perhaps that was true at one time in the Soviet Union. But that is not true now. They do vote to choose their leaders, even in modern monarchies where the political power is held by the head of royalty. That's how it was throughout human history, where the power to make laws and administrative justice was all in the hands of the ruling king. But in most modern monarchies, the power of the ruling family is primarily social, not political.

The true traditional version of conservatism is monarchy, where there are a few wealthy powerful families. The nobility possesses all the advantages of civilization: decent dwellings, a high quality diet, enough money to buy suitable wardrobes, education based in private tutors and governesses. Where does the money come from to support that kind of system? Thousands of tenant farms, worked by the peasants who dwell on them.

Jan. 15 is the birthday of a great American, Martin Luther King, Jr., whose message must be very puzzling to some: the concept of changing society by peaceful, non-violent resistance.

I suspect that the Tucson shooter was of above-average intelligence, because the grade he got so angry about was a B instead of the A he believed he deserved. I had a similar experience with my favorite theater professor. I was also his favorite student. The only B I got in my last semester was from him. He said, "I will not give an A to you unless you do world-class work." I know he recognized my ability and hoped for some great things from me. But I will always remember what he told me, and whatever I do, I must do the best possible, and in some way make it qualify as world-class work.

So when I was a regular reporter for The Republican, I held my work reporting on county government to the same standards as the kind of reporting I read in the Washington Post. And the same thing goes for this opinion writing as well. I hold myself and my work to the highest possible standard. If I am unsure about some fact, I do the necessary research about history. This week, when I wrote about mental health issues, I checked my facts with the professors I know who are experts in that field.

Among the subjects I am not an expert in at all is automobile mechanics. But when I was driving down to D.C., I heard something hit the road, and my car just kind of died. Somehow, I was able to reach a gas station on the next exit. I told the mechanic that I think my alternator fell off. He just laughed at me, but when he checked, sure enough, my alternator was missing.

The limited knowledge I had about cars told me that it was something involving the electric system. It was definitely not my battery, but it was something much smaller than that. You could call that a lucky guess. I don't think a little knowledge is more dangerous than no knowledge.

I'm not sure whether my knowledge of hockey and soccer would qualify as practically nothing, or just very little. I understand the general idea of both sports, but without any doubt, I do not know enough to enjoy those games, unless it was many years ago when my girls played soccer. It is confusing, even at the highest level.

But I did watch the Winter Hockey Classic held in Pittsburgh. What I like about the Pittsburgh Penguins is the star player, Sidney Crosby. He is pretty much a worthy follower of the wonderful Penguins player Mario Lemieux, who fought long and hard against cancer, and he was dedicated to keeping the Penguins in Pittsburgh. Now he is part of the ownership group.

But it was at least a wintry day in Pittsburgh on New Year's Day when the outdoor hockey game was played.

I admit I was wrong to accept that hopeful long-range forecast that predicted a harsh December, then the rest of the winter will be much better. It was a quite harsh December, that's for sure, and it seemed a little better in early January. Not for long. It has been bitter cold, and there has been a lot of snow. Of course, it was also very windy. It has been generally unfit for man or beast outside.

Since the 1970s or so, the Steelers dominated from the earliest moment in the 15 playoffs I've watched. But this last game did not go as well as usual. That the Ravens were leading 21 to 7 at halftime was unusual, and very unpleasant for any loyal Steelers fan. But it was way too soon to give up.

In the early minutes of the third quarter, the Steelers recovered a fumble and then went on to complete a perfect long pass to Miller in the end zone. So then the score was 21-14, and the crowds really came alive in Pittsburgh. With another big touchdown catch by Hines Ward, the score was tied.

Soon after that, another Steelers offensive tackle was injured and they only had one remaining. They had to settle for a field goal, and they led by three in the last half of the fourth quarter. So it was still anyone's game.

The last two minutes were pure chaos, but then Mendenhall pushed across the goal line. The final score was 34-21. It was a nail-biting game, as always when the Steelers meet the Ravens. But the more experienced Steelers prevailed.

I was proud of the decision of Bill Clinton to locate his Clinton Global Initiative in Harlem, New York City. That showed rare instinct of the power of even a subtle message making a difference, because Harlem was a scary place when I lived in Manhattan.

I was riding on a subway with my boyfriend, who carried a very expensive brand of guitar. We were approached by a young man who suggested that we go south and not into Harlem with that guitar. But the first apartment we shared was in Spanish Harlem. The streets were just below the border of the real Harlem.

I learned from Obama's book The Abundance of Hope that he lived in the same neighborhood when he was living in the Big Apple. Almost exactly across town from the Upper West Side is a top Ivy League university, Columbia. In fact, the Upper West Side is a pretty upscale area. Maybe about a quarter mile away from the Upper East Side is a somewhat dark and scary neighborhood.

Before I moved to New York City, I was in town for the National Horse Show in Madison Square Garden, and visited my boyfriend at his apartment. After midnight, I was in the street trying to find a taxi to ride back downtown. A cab screeched to a halt beside me, and I had a crazy cab driver. When I told him I was visiting my boyfriend, he asked me what apartment he was in, and said, "I would like to give him a piece of my mind for allowing you unaccompanied on this street in the middle of the night!"

Cab drivers in New York City are always interesting. But this one was definitely a defender of womanhood. I don't remember, but my guess is that he was probably Hispanic, because their trademark characteristic is being extremely gallant toward women.

The biggest news story over the last weekend was the unexpected upset of the New England Patriots by the New York Jets. I only bothered with a couple minutes of it. But I guess the Jets are easier opponents for the Steelers than the Patriots. I don't know enough about other teams to have a solid opinion. But I do know this – Let's go, Steelers!

My nephews Darryl and Elliot joined other Towson University students on a spring break trip to Honduras to build an orphanage. I appreciate their impulse to use their break to go and do hard work to help people in deep need.

Several members from St. John's and Emmanuel served a spaghetti dinner to the students and chaperones of the Lutheran Youth Organization (LYO), who came on a skiing trip last Saturday. The LYO spent the weekend at Hickory Environmental Center and participated in a variety of activities while in the area.

The sewing and prayer shawl ministry group continues to meet every Tuesday at 9 a.m. at Emmanuel. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy the fellowship.

THE LEGO CHESS KINGS of Northern Middle School recently came in first place at the recent First LEGO League Qualifier at Northern High School in the teamwork category. Adorable Adoptables

STILL WAITING TO BE ADOPTED at the Garrett County Animal Shelter is this boxer mix (above left) that was given up by an owner who was unable to care for him anymore. "He would need to be in a home without other dogs and, preferably, have a female owner," noted a GC Humane Society spokesperson. Also at the shelter are a medium-size black Lab mix (above right) that was picked up as a stray in Oakland area, a large older black Lab (below left) that was picked up along Rt. 50, and two cats that were given up by their owners and would like to be adopted together so they can have each other's company. One is a female longhaired calico, and the other is a smaller white male with grey spots. "As always there are other dogs and cats available for adoption at the local shelter and at many others in the area," said the spokesperson. "Go to www.Petfinder.com and chose what breed, size, and color of dog or cat (or hamster, snake, goat, etc.) you want, and the site will list the ones closest to your ZIP code. HART was able recently to take some kittens and a few dogs to rescue facilities, which always makes much needed space for new animals coming into the local shelter. The free bedding straw has been restocked and is located outside the shelter, courtesy of the GC Humane Society. Only take a part of a bale, as it will expand into a lot of bedding. Please make sure your outside pets are warm and take them fresh water several times a day." For more information persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday. Photos courtesy of the GC Humane Society.

Looking for something?

It seems that we all are. In this day and age if we have enough money it seems that we can buy just about anything that we might be looking for.

However there is one thing that seems to elude most of us....and that is peace.

So many lives are full of chaos and peace is hard to find.

The Bible tells us that peace must be pursued like a valuable treasure.

Join us this weekend and allow Jesus to bring some peace into your life!

GLAF Board Welcomes Four New Members

The board of directors of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) has announced the addition of four new members. They are David Eyer, Jeannette Rudy Fitzwater, John Rose, and Rob Michael.

Eyer, a retired mining engineer, has served a number of performing arts organizations, including the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre and Westmoreland Symphony Orchestra. Locally, he serves on the board of Music at Penn Alps. Eyer brings a strong background in fundraising for the performing arts, according to a GLAF spokesperson.

Fitzwater, a native of Garrett County, is senior vice president and director of corporate services for First United Bank & Trust. She has more than 25 years of varied banking experience in executive and management roles in human resources, training, strategic planning, marketing, and sales. The spokesperson noted that through her private consulting practice, Fitzwater provides management consulting, customized developmental training, and individualized business coaching for organizations and their key executives, leaders, and managers.

Rose is an accredited asset management specialist and financial advisor with Edward Jones Investments. Since moving to Garrett County in 2005, Rose has been active in the community through the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Oakland Elks Lodge, and the Oakland Rotary.

Michael, owner of State Farm Insurance in Oakland, has been a leader in the community for many years, and is a Heise Award recipient. He has served on the Garrett County Memorial Hospital board and the Garrett College board of trustees.

"GLAF's mission is to provide the highest possible level of not only education to the community, but also quality performances throughout the spring, summer, and fall," the spokesperson said. "The dedication and expertise these new board members bring to the organization will be invaluable to the further success of the organization."

For more information about GLAF and this year's season of performances, persons may go to the web site, located at at www.artsandentertainment.org.

Student Artists' Work Exhibited At Art Gallery

Middle and high school students across Garrett County were recently invited to submit their artwork for a special exhibit now on display at the Gallery Shop in downtown Oakland. Sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council (GCAC), the exhibit was open to any student in the county. The works will be on display until Feb. 11.

"We look forward to this exhibit each year," said Karen Reckner, executive director of GCAC. "We want to foster the creativity of our young people and support the work our art teachers are doing with their students."

Entries were received from students of teachers Cindy Ringler and Melissa Barnes, both at Southern High School; James Paxton of Northern High School, and Frances Kenna of Northern Middle School.

A variety of styles and mediums are part of the show. Students created pieces including watercolor paintings, charcoal drawings, paper mosaics, pencil and ink drawings, and mixed media collage.

The art of 31 students is now on exhibit. Those students are as follows: Sara Ashby, Karen Bonser, Nick Harkins, Sara Harvey, Ian Jobe, Julianne MacLennan, Jaden Polce, Daniel Adams, Kristen Downing, Cody Hoye, David Lewis, Tilla Lynch, Alexis Moreno, Julianna Sharpless, Kayla Bittinger, Rebecca Flinn, and Alicia Roth, all of Southern High School; Charlee Cramer, Becca Engle, Christina Ferrell, Dia Schroyer, Ethan Smith, Corey Spiker, Cara Stough, Madeline Whittemore, Jazmine Miner, Megan Sines, and Alexis Witt, all of Northern High School; and Sarah Holtschneider, Cody Resh, and Joshua Smith, all of Northern Middle School.

The entries will be judged by a panel of professional artists, Reckner said, and prizes will be awarded at both the middle school and high school levels.

Following this special display, Reckner noted, an exhibit of artwork from the county elementary students will be featured in the Gallery Shop's backroom exhibit area.

The exhibits are open for public viewing during normal business hours Monday to Saturday, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Gallery Shop is located at 206 E. Alder Street in Oakland and may be reached by calling 301-334-6580.

Lakers Record Big Win Over Allegany, But Fall To Chesapeake, Catonsville

The Garrett College men's basketball team recorded a big 84-81 Maryland JUCO win over rival Allegany College of Maryland on Saturday in McHenry, but followed that with consecutive losses to host Chesapeake on Monday, 99-96, also in overtime, and to Catonsville last night, 67-59, on the Cardinals' floor.

The results left the Lakers with an overall record of 10-7 and a 4-5 mark in conference games.

Saturday was a big night for Laker coach Dennis Gibson, who was recognized in a pre-game ceremony for having eclipsed the 500-victory mark last season. His team was evidently inspired enough to go out and snap the Trojans' seven-game win streak.

In the final moments of regulation, it appeared that the Lakers would not need the extra period to claim the victory, as they held a 68-65 lead. But it was with just 1.2 seconds remaining that Allegany's Casey Roberts drained a three-pointer to knot the score and force the overtime.

The Lakers jumped out to a five-point lead early in the extra period and did not trail again.

Theo Dubuche led the Laker offensive effort with 20 points, all but two of which were scored from three-point range. Frank Holloway was right behind with 19 points, Rodney Clark scored 18, and Kory Gibson finished with 14.

Derrell Armstrong scored a game-high 22 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead the Trojans (9-6, 6-2 AMAC). He also had three steals and a pair of assists.

Also reaching double figures for Allegany was Roberts with 17 points and Marcel Chesson with 11. Darnell Turner had nine rebounds.

It was the fourth straight win for the Lakers, but their streak was ended by Chesapeake on Monday, despite having a 15-point lead at one point in the second half.

Chesapeake won the game from three-point land, from which they hit 17 goals. D.J. Nicholson, who finished with 37 points, hit nine of the long-range shots. Teammate Jay Jenkins finished with 24 points, and Louis Simpson and Matthew Jackson each scored 13 for the Skipjacks.

After the Lakers went up by as many as 15 points in the second half, Nicholson found the range and hit eight of his nine three-pointers to lead the Skipjack rally and ultimately send the game into overtime.

Chesapeake actually held the lead in the closing moments of regulation, and it was only a layup by GC's Holloway that forced the extra period.

The Skipjacks took the lead in OT via a Simpson three-pointer and led the rest of the way. Nicholson went 6-for-6 from the free throw line in the overtime period.

The Lakers had an opportunity to force a second OT period, but a three-point attempt at the buzzer was no good.

Holloway led the Lakers in both scoring and rebounding with 23 points and 18 boards. Kory Gibson, who hit five three-pointers, netted 22 points, Joe Dubuche scored 17, and Callum Jenkins finished with 15. Jeff Stem provided 10 assists.

The win improved the Skipjacks' overall record to 7-9 and evened their JUCO mark at 5-5.

The Lakers' shooting last night at Catonsville was stone cold almost from the opening tipoff to the final buzzer, as the Cardinal defense forced them to take a lot of long-range shots that simply did not fall. In fact, Garrett managed to connect on just three of 30 three-point attempts. The 59-point total was the lowest of the season for the Lakers.

"Their defense did a good job of packing underneath, forcing us to take a lot of outside shots," said GC coach Dennis Gibson. "Unfortunately, we did not make nearly as many of those shots as we usually do. We had a lot of open jumpers, but they just didn't fall. It was frustrating."

Holloway again led the Lakers in scoring, as he recorded 16 points. Rodney Clark finished with 10 points and five assists, and Theo Dubuche pulled down 11 rebounds and added eight points.

Leading the Cardinals (8-10, 6-5) was George Johnson, who scored 16 points, while Malik Edwards and T.J. Prioleau each chipped in with 10 points.

The Lakers will try to get back into the win column this Saturday when they host Montgomery/Germantown in a 5 p.m. start. They will then entertain St. Mary's College of Maryland's junior varsity on Sunday at 4 p.m., and travel to the College of Southern Maryland next Wednesday.

Hometown Hero Beats Garrett At Home; Lakers Fall In Road Loss To Chesapeake

The Garrett College women's basketball team suffered two recent losses. As host to Allegany on Saturday, the Lakers faced high-scoring Oakland native Torie Bosley and fell 77-31. The Lakers suffered another tough loss on Monday in a road game against Chesapeake, 57-28.

It was a homecoming for former Southern High School standout and current Allegany College starter Bosley, who nailed 6 three-pointers and scored a total of 26 points against the Lakers.

"She played fantastic for them, and it was nice that she was able to come home and do it in Garrett County. She definitely burned us tonight," Laker coach Joanna Pennell said of Bosley.

Garrett's Tanisha Williams had 12 points, six rebounds, and six assists. Teammate Jalesa Johnson had eight points and nine rebounds.

For the Trojans, who led 41-15 at halftime, Ta'narnia Chisley scored 13 points and Tamara Nesmith added 11. Kiara Johnson had the team highest assist total, with eight.

The game marked Bosley and company's ninth consecutive win.

In Monday's matchup with Chesapeake, Garrett fell behind early and stayed there.

The Lakers were led by Williams, who had 15 points and 11 rebounds, while teammate Johnson posted 10 rebounds.

The Skipjacks, who held a 30-14 lead at the half, received 15 points from Ashleigh Jones and 14 points from teammate Jennifer Carr.

Garrett is set to play the Hawks of the College of Southern Maryland next Wednesday. The game is away.

Southern Takes Hampshire In Rematch, Falters In Second Half At Preston High

While Shaffer and Stem carried the team offensively, Mandy Sweitzer contributed six points of her own to go with her eight rebounds.

Hampshire was led in scoring by Hannah Carl, who had 10 points.

Raeslee Weimer scored 22 points and Alicia Roth added 10 to lift Southern a 45-36 victory in the jayvee game.

Financial Focus

Put Your Financial "Puzzle" Pieces Together

Unless you keep track of obscure holidays, you may not be aware that Jan. 29 is National Puzzle Day. And while this day may not draw much attention, it does recognize the enjoyment that millions of people get from doing puzzles. Of course, you'll find puzzles in all aspects of your life. Consider, for example, the type of retirement lifestyle you've envisioned: travel, volunteering, pursuing hobbies or perhaps even opening your own business. To make this picture come to life, you need to put the financial "pieces" together: And one way to help accomplish this is to consolidate your various retirement accounts — such as your IRA, 401(k) and other employer-sponsored retirement plans — with one financial services provider.

When you consolidate these types of accounts, you can gain a number of key benefits, including these:

• Potential reduction of fees and paperwork — By working with just one provider, you may be able to save on the fees and paperwork required to maintain your account.

• Easier management of distributions — Most retirement plans, including a 401(k), 457(b), 403(b) and traditional IRA, require you to start taking minimum distributions once you turn 70½. (These distributions are not required for Roth IRAs.) While it may not be difficult to determine a single distribution, it can be cumbersome and confusing to calculate multiple distributions from multiple providers. Having all your required minimum distributions (RMDs) coming from a single provider can greatly streamline the process.

• Easier calculation of taxes — Most types of retirement accounts are tax-deferred — but on those accounts, taxes will be due on your withdrawals. By consolidating your accounts, your distributions will be easier to track, as mentioned above, which may make it easier for you to calculate the taxes due.

• Unified investment strategy — If you place all your financial assets with one financial services provider, you'll find it much easier to follow a single, unified investment strategy. A qualified financial advisor can help you allocate your investment dollars in a way that's appropriate for your retirement goals, risk tolerance and time horizon.

To start the consolidation process, make a detailed list of your financial assets, such as your bank accounts, investments, IRAs and employer-sponsored retirement plans, such as a 401(k) if you work for a private employer, a 457(b) if you work for a state or local government, or a 403(b) if you work for a school or other tax-exempt organization. You might think this is a simple and straightforward task, but you would be surprised at how many people actually lose track of these types of accounts and, as a result, forfeit the money that is rightfully theirs.

After you've identified what assets you have, and where they're located, seek to consolidate them with a financial services provider. Try to find one that offers face-to-face service and regular reviews of your situation.

As you can see, by consolidating your various investment accounts, you can help solve the "puzzle" of creating the retirement you seek. So when the time comes, start putting all the pieces together. You might like the picture that ultimately emerges.

Rams Edge Huskies, Fare Well In Major Tourney, Top Miners, Trojans

The Southern High School wrestling team participated in the highly competitive Mount Mat Madness (MMM) Tournament in Catonsville last weekend and came home with a seventh-place finish among 29 teams from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware, and New Jersey. The seventh place was the best among all Maryland schools, public and private, in the in the tournament.

The Rams also topped host Northern last Thursday evening, 39-29, traveled to Frostburg on Tuesday, where they rolled over host Mountain Ridge, 56-14, and crushed Hampshire at Frankfort last night, 66-12.

Among the teams in the Mount Mat Madness event was nationally ranked Wyoming Seminary, and there were numerous individual state champions and those who had won various national titles. Southern, the reigning Maryland 1A/2A champion, was also the smallest school in the competition, and the only school that finished with three individual champions.

One significant showdown was that of Southern's Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel against Matthew Miller of John Carroll, both nationally ranked, in the 171-pound division championship. Scheffel's only loss this season was a 1-0 decision to Miller back in December; however, Scheffel won the rematch to claim his third straight MMM championship. The victory improved his season record to 26-1.

Also defeating a nationally ranked Wyoming Seminary grappler in the semifinal round was Southern's Lex Ozias in the 152-pound division. He then went on to top an opponent from New Jersey to win his second straight MMM title. He remains undefeated on the season with a 27-0 mark.

Freshman Coy Ozias extended his perfect season record to 26-0 by defeating two nationally ranked wrestlers and winning the 103-pound title.

Other Rams who won points for the team were Mikey Skipper, who had three victories in the 145-pound division, Dale Marple with two wins in the 160-pound division, Coty Rasel with a pair of victories in the 189-pound class, and Sean Chapman with a win in the 130-pound division.

Wyoming Seminary won the team title with 217.5 points, followed by St. Mark's with 212.5, Sussex Central with 156.5, Mt. St. Joseph with 147.5, Robinson with 139.5, Spring Grove with 120.5, Southern with 110.5, Smyrna with 109.5, Caesar Rodney with 100, and Forest Park with 90 to round out the top 10.

In last Thursday's hard-fought victory over the Northern Huskies, the Rams got pins from Coy Ozias in the 112-pound bout, Lex Ozias at 152 pounds bout, Dale Marple at 160, Coty Rasel at 189, and Kevin Miller at 285.

Pins recorded by the Huskies were those of Adam Finzel in the 125-pound clash and Matt Thomas at 140 pounds.

Bubba Scheffel just got by Northern's Jason Opel, 1-0, in the 171-pound clash. Opel came into the match undefeated with a 12-0 record.

Southern's Austin Shaffer (103) was awarded a forfeit.

For Northern, Kody Osselburn (119) gained a major decision, as did Ryan Doerr (135). Kameron Kamp eked out a 4-3 decision in the 145-pound division, and Anthony Cervi won by decision at 215 pounds.

In Tuesday's easy win over host Mountain Ridge, the following Rams won their matches via pinfalls: Nick Stewart in the 119-pound division, Gavin Murphy at 125 pounds; Sean Chapman at 130, Lex Ozias at 152, Coty Rasel at 171, and Bubba Scheffel, who pinned state runner-up Jason Wright in the 189-pound bout.

Ram Austin Shaffer recorded a technical fall in the 103-pound division, Coy Ozias (112), Dale Marple (160) and Kevin Miller (285) all won by major decisions, and winning via a regular decision was Dakota Pritt (140).

Scheffel's victory was the 150th of his high school career, just four shy of the school record of 154 that is held by his brother George "Brutus" Scheffel, currently a member of the West Virginia University team.

The win by Lex Ozias at Mountain Ridge was the 147th of his career.

Lex Ozias is presently ranked fourth in the country in the 152-pound division, while Bubba Scheffel is ranked 13th at 171 pounds and Coy Ozias is ranked #20 in the 103-pound division.

The Rams won every individual match last night against Hampshire that actually took place, as the Trojans' only points of the evening came via a pair of forfeits.

Gaining pins for Southern were Shaffer (103), Coy Ozias (112), Nick Stewart (119), Pritt (145), Skipper (152), Marple (171), Rasel (189), Scheffel (215), and Miller (285).

Earning decisions for the Rams were Gavin Murphy (130) and Chapman (135), while Tanner Massey (125) was awarded a forfeit.

The Rams' team record is currently 6-1 in dual matches and 20-4 overall.

Southern is scheduled to compete in a tri-match this evening against Keyser and Fort Hill at Fort Hill, and host Williamsport next Wednesday at 7 p.m.

The Northern Huskies will compete at Williamsport this evening, vie in the Catoctin Duals this Friday and Saturday, and host Fort Hill next Tuesday.

Huskies Fall To 4-5 With Losses To Bishop Walsh And Allegany

With a pair of Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference losses this past week, the Northern High School boys' varsity dropped to 4-5 overall and winless in conference games at 0-5.

The Huskies were toppled by host Bishop Walsh on Friday, 72-57, and then fell to visiting Allegany on Tuesday, 65-50.

It was an amazing individual performance by Quincy Redmon of Bishop Walsh that led the to the Huskies downfall last Friday. Redmon scored 25 points and recorded 25 rebounds to lead a furious second-half rally. He also dished out five assists and blocked five shots.

The Huskies held a 22-17 lead at the end of the first quarter and were on top by three, 33-30, at halftime. But Redmon, Karrari Powell, and Liam Rhodes went to work in the third quarter, and when it was over the Spartans held a 54-43 lead going into the final period.

Powell came off the bench and recorded 16 points for the game, while Rhodes spearheaded a tenacious defensive effort that all but shut down the Huskies' scoring.

Also reaching double figures for the winners was Devin Hawley with 11 points.

Matt Gibson paced the Huskies' scoring effort with 20 points, and also recorded six steals and five assists. Patrick Sines netted 10 points and grabbed seven rebounds, while Steven Holtschneider also reached double figures with 10 points.

The win improved BW's overall record to 7-2, with a 5-1 mark in AMAC games.

In Tuesday's game against Allegany, the Huskies quickly found themselves in a 12-0 hole, but then settled down and pared back the Camper lead to 14-10 by the end of the period. Northern trailed 25-20 at the break and were down 51-34 at the end of the third stanza.

The win gave Alco a season sweep of the Huskies, with the first contest back in December ending with an 87-82 score.

Leading the Campers with a game-high 18 points was Jake Shade, with Brady Ellsworth and Aaron Murphy each netting 14 and Drew O'Neal chipping in with 10. Tylor Jessie paced the defense with 16 rebounds and four blocks.

Gibson led the Huskies with 15 points and five assists, and Tyler Wilt scored 10. Austin Doerr finished with 11 rebounds.

The Northern junior varsity was defeated in the first game.

The Huskies will host Southern this Friday and entertain Moorefield next Thursday, with game times being 6:00 (jayvee) and 7:30 (varsity).

Northern Breezes Through Keyser, Lose To Allegany In Away Game

The Northern girls' basketball team nailed eight three-point shots last Thursday, and avenged their first in-conference loss of the season at Keyser, 47-34.

In their Tuesday night matchup with host Allegany, the Huskies' three-point game lacked its usual potency. The Huskies' shooting percentage problems were exacerbated by the hot hands of Leah Wormack, who posted a triple-double that included 41 points scored. The #1 AMAC ranked Northern squad fell to the Campers in a shocker, 65-46.

Against Keyser, Kaitlynn Fratz scored 20 points for Northern and hit four of the team's eight three-pointers. Terra McKenzie had 15 points, nine of which came from behind the three-point line. She also went perfect 2-for-2 from the foul line.

Allison Yommer came up with 10 rebounds and had six points.

The Huskies led 16-2 first quarter, and were up 20 points at the half, 28-8. The contest was at 45-19 at the start of the fourth quarter.

Keyser won the junior varsity game.

On the road at Allegany, Northern's only lead of the game, 3-2, came in the first minute of regulation, off a three-pointer from Morgan Brosnihan. After that it was all Wormack, who complemented her 41 points with 16 rebounds and 10 blocked shots.

Fratz scored 23 points for the Huskies, 15 of which came in the second half, but Northern was hampered by missed opportunities.

The Huskies shot 6-for-30 as a team in the first half, and ended the game 16-for-57 from the field and 8-for-13 from the foul line.

Allegany meanwhile hit 29 of its 57 shots and went 5-for-10 from the line.

Northern's Broshnihan totaled 13 points and had 2 rebounds, while McKenzie scored five points.

Camper Brooke Wharton contributed eight points, six rebounds, and five assists, while teammate Audrey Eisentrout had eight points, six rebounds, and four assists.

For Allegany's Wormack, who scored the majority of her baskets from inside the paint, the game was personal.

"We played really hard because we wanted to get revenge for one of our losses," the 6-foot-1 senior stated.

"You can't allow Leah to get the ball two feet from the bucket. She'll score every time," Huskies' coach Steve Fratz commented.

"The aggressiveness we had at Northern (a 52-47 win), we didn't bring that tonight." Coach Fratz's team went 6 for 28 from behind the three-point line.

The Huskies prepare to host cross-county rival Southern tonight at 6 p.m.

Rams Top Lions, Spartans, Trojans; Move To 9-2 Overall, 7-0 In AMAC

With three straight victories recorded this past week, the Southern High School boys' varsity maintained its grip on the area's #1 ranking. The Rams handed visiting Tucker County a 52-42 defeat last Friday, held on to edge host Bishop Walsh 78-76 in overtime on Tuesday, and then stopped the Hampshire Trojans last night in Romney, 58-47.

The victories upped the Rams' overall record to 9-2 and their AMAC mark to a perfect 7-0.

Leading a balanced scoring effort against Tucker County was Wyatt McBee, who netted 14 points, while teammates Joe Kisselovich, D.J. Ritchie, and Calvin Hilliard each finished with 12 points. Twelve of McBee's points came on four long-range buckets.

The Rams held a 15-10 lead at the end of the first quarter, and were on top 21-13 at intermission. The Lions rallied in the third stanza to pare Southern's advantage to just three points, 31-28, but the Rams out-scored their opponents in the final stanza by a 21-14 margin to record the win.

Leading Tucker in scoring with a game-high 17 points was Logan Snyder.

The Southern junior varsity team was also victorious, rolling over their Tucker counterparts 53-29 in the first game. Billy Fazenbaker and Alex Fike led the Rams offensively with 13 and 11 points, respectively. Austin Zirk netted 14 to lead the Lions.

Tuesday's game against third-ranked Bishop Walsh was close from the opening tipoff, with the Rams holding a 16-10 lead at the end of the first quarter, down by

Did your cable bill go down now that WHAG is no longer provided?

Dear Shentel Cable Customer:

Shentel Cable has informed you that Nexstar Broadcasting is seeking unreasonable fees for its carriage of WHAG-TV on its Oakland Maryland cable system. This is simply not true. We believe the modest fees we are seeking from Shentel for Shentel's right to carry WHAG-TV's local programming on the Oakland system are reasonable. However, Shentel has the right to forgo entering into a fair and equitable agreement with Nexstar for the carriage of WHAG-TV on its system, and Shentel made that choice.

WHAG-TV provides more than 30 hours of news and local programming to its community. Shentel claims that it need not pay us a fair rate because it carries other NBC stations and it places no value on WHAG-TV's local programming. Shentel is permitted to make this value judgment; however, we place value on our local programming and are not willing to discount the rate simply because Shentel carries two other NBC affiliates on the Oakland system. Especially when Shentel pays more than $4.00 per subscriber to carry ESPN on its system, approximately $1.00 per subscriber for carriage of TNT and Disney Channel, and more than the amount we proposed for WHAG-TV for several other channels (including the NFL Network, USA and Fox News), none of which provide local programming to the Oakland community.

Shentel also claims that it need not pay a fair rate because the station is "free" television. Shentel is not providing local television stations to its subscribers on a "free" basis. Shentel charges subscribers a minimum of $20 for the right to receive "free" programming from Shentel. We believe it is only fair that Shentel pay a small fee (of less than 2 cents per day) for its carriage of WHAG-TV. Shentel disagrees.

We are disappointed that Shentel places no value on the large amount of local programming WHAG-TV provides to its community and regret that we have been unable to reach a fair use fee for the carriage of WHAG-TV on its newly acquired Oakland, Maryland cable system. However, many other programming providers, such as DISH Network, agree that WHAG-TV's local programming has value and carry our programming on their systems. If you support the continued carriage of WHAG-TV on this Shentel cable system, please contact Mr. David Ferguson at 540-984-5262 or by e-mail to David.Ferguson@emp.shentel.com .

Sincerely,

Hugh J. Breslin, III
VP/General Manager

A NEW RECORD for the number of individual victories in wrestling at McDaniel College is now held by none other than Brock Glotfelty of Grantsville, a former athletic standout at Northern High School and now in his senior season for the Green Terror. Glotfelty recorded his 113th win this week during McDaniel's match against Johns Hopkins University, breaking the former record of 112 by Charlie Conaway. Glotfelty is pictured above left being presented a trophy by Conaway, who competed for the Green Terror from 1996 to 2000.

ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL SEASON was experienced by 16-year-old Mercedes McClintock last year in the Extreme Dirt Track National Series. She traveled all over the country to compete, and at the end of the season, she was nationally ranked fourth overall in the Supermini class, where she was once again the only girl in the class. In this class, she raced with her two stroke, which is a custom-made 105cc Honda. She was nationally ranked sixth in the women's class, which she competed in for the first time this year. It was also her first experience on a four-stroke. McClintock is the daughter of Steve and Jodi McClintock of Accident. She graduated from Pleasant Valley Christian Academy in June, and is currently working on her second year at Garrett College. She plans to graduate with an associate's degree in business administration in the fall.

two, 34-32, at the half, and back up by three, 50-47, going into the final period.

The Rams nearly won the game in regulation time, as they led 64-61 in the final moments, but with just four seconds to play in the fourth period, BW's Richie Mann nailed a three-pointer from the corner to knot the score and force the extra period.

The Rams then stormed out to a nine-point advantage in the overtime, only to let the Spartans battle back and cut the lead to the final margin of two points.

The Rams did most of their damage in the OT period from the foul line, from which they made good on seven of 10 opportunities.

Once again, the Rams had a balanced scoring attack, as four players finished in double figures. McBee led the way with 20 points, and Ritchie was right behind with 19, five of which he recorded in the overtime period. Hilliard finished with 17 points and Kurt Gangler contributed 14.

Hitting a game-high of 26 points and grabbing 14 rebounds was BW's Quincy Redmon, who also had five assists. Pat Jones recorded 17 points, seven boards, and six assists.

The loss dropped the Spartans to 7-3 overall and 5-2 in AMAC play.

The undefeated BW junior varsity remained that way, edging the Ram jayvees 52-48 in the first game. Liam Rhodes and Billy Conroy led the Spartans with 17 and 15 points, respectively, and Fazenbaker scored 17 for the Rams.

In last night's contest at Hampshire, the Rams moved out to an 18-7 lead by the end of the first period. The Trojans battled back to cut the Southern lead to 30-27 by halftime, but the Rams regained the momentum in the third stanza and took a 46-37 advantage into the final quarter.

Hilliard led three Rams in double figures, finishing with 18 points. McBee, who nailed five three-pointers, finished with 17 and Kisselovich scored 13.

Robbie Smelser and Dane Heavener each scored 10 points for the Trojans, and Smelser also pulled down 13 rebounds and blocked four shots. The loss dropped the Trojans to 5-6 overall and 2-3 in AMAC games.

The Ram jayvees were ripped in the first game, 37-35. Fazenbaker was the only player who reached double figures, as he scored 10 points for the Rams. Teammates Kevin Colaw and Alex Fike each contributed seven points. Leading Hampshire were Logan Hill and Caleb Landis with nine and eight points, respectively.

The Rams will be back in action this Friday at Northern, and they will host Frankfort next Tuesday. Tipoff times for both evenings are 6:00 (junior varsity) and 7:30 (varsity).

VISITDEEPCREEK.COM HAS NEW FEATURES – The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce recently revamped its web site, visitdeepcreek.com. New high-tech features now make using the site, accessing member information, and planning a Garrett County getaway even easier, according to Nicole Christian, chamber president/CEO. The site includes links to Facebook, BlackBerry apps, and more. See story.

Chamber's New Web Site Offers High Tech Apps

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has recently launched a new version of its web site, visitdeepcreek.com. The new site offers chamber members and visitors new technological functionality that makes using the site, accessing member information, and planning a Garrett County getaway even easier, according to Nicole Christian, chamber president/CEO.

"While our old site wasn't bad, we wanted to integrate new technology and give our users more functionality," she said. "The nearly 500,000 unique visitors to our site are tech savvy, and it's extremely important for us to communicate with them on their level."

With the new site, chamber lodging members may now update not only their availability, but also which rooms or rental homes are available months and seasons ahead of time.

The web site's new "Hot Deals Section" gives members the opportunity to showcase special offers, plus, when a new hot deal is posted, it is automatically featured on the chamber's Facebook page.

Members can register online for events like the chamber's monthly Business After Hours networking events or annual events, including the Autumn Glory Kickoff Dinner, and new members can join online.

And users can now download the "My Chamber App" for their iPhone, Droid, and BlackBerry, so when they are in Garrett County, they can map the closest businesses (restaurants, shops, etc.), search members by category (activities, lodging, etc.), access hot deals, and view Garrett County events.

Along with information on the history of Deep Creek Lake and Garrett County, the new site showcases local towns by highlighting each one in northern and southern ends of the county.

The new "Legislative News" section focuses on how the chamber works for local businesses on a local, state, and federal level.

Future plans for the site include adding video clips of area activities and attractions, an expanded "Legislative News" section, and the chamber working with the Garrett County Department of Economic Development to expand the new "Economic Development" section.

The new visitdeepcreek.com also gives members new opportunities to attract new customers and promote their businesses, Christian noted.

"With an enhanced listing, members enjoy an extended description for their business, the ability to add photos to their company listing, links to their company's social media sites like Facebook, the ability to add a video, and the opportunity to include special offers on the 'Hot Deals' page," she said.

To view the new version of the site and access these new features, persons may log on to visitdeepcreek.com.

"dig a hole" for the state.

"We have a spending problem, not a revenue problem," said Kittleman, R-Howard. "We need some serious discussion about reducing government spending to make up for that."

Under O'Malley, an estimated 4,200 state positions have been eliminated since 2007 as a way to trim spending. O'Malley also has furloughed state workers three years in a row – something he has said he hopes to avoid this budget cycle.

Overall, the budget shortfalls, tax increases and cuts to state employees and services have not risen to the "draconian levels of other states," Eberly said.

"And voters responded to that," Eberly said of O'Malley's double digit November victory over former Republican Gov. Bob Ehrlich. "He has a pretty resounding endorsement from the people of Maryland."

During O'Malley's first term he signed into law what is considered the largest tax increase in Maryland history and the nation's first state-wide living wage bill. He also froze tuition at the state's university system over the last four years and helped push through slots as a way to raise revenue.

Making college more affordable has been one of the hallmarks of O'Malley's administration. He touched on the topic Wednesday and drew applause from the crowd.

"The tuition freeze did a wonder for a lot of people," said Latia Stanley, a 22- year-old senior at Frostburg State University who attended Wednesday's ceremony. "It gave me an incentive to stay in the state."

Raising tuition will likely be one of the ways to balance the budget in the future, said Delegate Jon Cardin, D-Baltimore County.

"It's time to look at that as one of the ways to fix the budget," he said. "That doesn't mean he (O'Malley) won't keep tuition increases to a minimum."

O'Malley's political legacy is rooted in his time as a get-tough-on-crime Baltimore mayor who paid close attention to crime stats. He was elected governor in 2006 by selling voters on the idea that the state had gone adrift under Ehrlich.

Since then, O'Malley's political stock has continued to soar. His recent appointment as chairman of the Democratic Governors Association has only bolstered talk about O'Malley running for a higher political office.

O'Malley's political ambitions are no secret around the Capitol, said Delegate Michael McDermott, R-Worcester.

"The governor is a man that has aspirations," he said. "We'll see what the future holds for him."

For now, O'Malley appears focused on the task at hand. On Wednesday, he touted reductions in crime statewide, and pointed to a blue crab population at its highest levels since 1997. He also applauded Maryland businesses for creating jobs during the recession.

During O'Malley's speech, about 50 members of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees demonstrated against proposed pension and health care benefit cuts for union workers as part of an overhaul of the state's pension system. They carried green O'Malley campaign signs with his name blacked out by the words "pensions" and "health care."

Although Kimberly Grandy thought O'Malley's speech was "very good," he didn't address one key topic, she said.

"He didn't mention state employees, pensions, retirements, furloughs," said Grandy, who works in the budget and finance unit of the Department of Juvenile Services in Baltimore.

Horse Liniment Erases Pain

HIALEAH, FL — An ingredient often used to treat inflammation in racehorse legs, is now back on the market in its original doctor recommended formula.

According to a national drug store survey, the formula at one time became so popular that it rose to the top of pharmacy sales for topical pain relievers. But the company marketing the product at the time changed the formula and sales plummeted. One of the inventors of the original formula has brought it back to the market under the trade name ARTH ARREST and says it can relieve pain for millions.

ARTH ARREST works by a dual mechanism whereby one ingredient relieves pain immediately, while a second ingredient seeks out and destroys the pain messenger signal before it can be sent to the brain. Considered a medical miracle by some, ARTH ARREST is useful in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, and tendonitis.

ARTH ARREST is available in a convenient roll-on applicator at pharmacies without a prescription or call 1-800-339-3301. Now at all: Walgreens

GC STARTS NEW TECH PROGRAM – Through grant funds awarded last year, Garrett College has begun a Cisco Certified Network Associate (CCNA) program, and for its pioneer run, the college is offering the training to its ITech program students, all seven of whom are local high school seniors. Instructor for the program is Professor Lisa Hawkins, pictured above with students (from left) Ethan Smith, Bryan Bowser, and Nixon Malcolm.

Cisco Certified Network Associate Program Now Offered At Garrett

by Melissa Parker

Garrett College was awarded a Maryland Career and Technology Education Reserve Fund Grant last summer to revise, upgrade, and expand its computer and information technology program. In the fall, the college also received an Appalachian Regional Commission grant to add to the program. The college is putting the grant money to good use this semester by beginning a Cisco Certified Network Associate (CCNA) program.

For its pioneer run, the college is offering the Cisco class to its ITech program students, a group of seven high school seniors. The ITech program gives local students the opportunity to earn college credit while still in high school. In the fall, students learn about computer repair in preparation for the CompTIA A+ certification exam. In the spring, students learn networking and router configuration skills in preparation for the Cisco CCENT exam, which has replaced the Net+ component of the program.

The lively group of students – Lionel Bird, Nixon Malcolm, and Cody Sullivan of Southern High School, and Ethan Smith, Bryan Bowser, Dylan Humberson, and Bryan Rippeon of Northern High School – completed the A+ certification exam in the fall with a 70% pass rate, the highest pass rate to date for the ITech program. The students will take the first half of the CCNA certification exam, the CCENT certification exam, this spring after completion of the class. (The students must complete two additional courses to take the second half of the CCNA certification exam).

Although the spring class just began, the students have already gotten their feet wet, learning about OSI model and TCP/IP protocols. And they are eager to discover what's next.

"I am excited to learn everything that Cisco has to offer," said Bird.

The students are especially excited that Professor Lisa Hawkins is leading the program. Hired in the fall as an assistant professor of information systems, it's obvious who the star of the ITech classroom is – the beloved teacher with whom the students are on a first-name basis.

"Lisa makes it awesome," said Bowser of the class.

Humberson concurred, "We have a wonderful instructor."

Hawkins comes to Garrett from the Catholic University of America in Washington, D.C., where she worked as an application implementation specialist. She also has experience as an e-commerce manager for an international manufacturing company, and she served as an adjunct faculty member at Allegany College of Maryland. For a number of years, she even operated a successful business in her native Baltimore.

"I am happy to be part of the Garrett College community," said Hawkins. "Higher education has changed my life, and I am delighted to have the opportunity to help others achieve their educational and professional goals in life."

Currently, Hawkins is working on her dissertation for the completion of a PhD in information technology from Capella University. The topic of her dissertation involves the use of technology in the classroom.

Hawkins earned an MISM from Keller Graduate School of Management, a BS degree in technical management from DeVry University, and four degrees in information technology from Allegany College of Maryland.

The college has allocated a large portion of the grant money to its high-tech classroom. Already used to purchase new tables and chairs, laptop computers for the students, and the lab server and routers, the grant will also be used to purchase a course response system to allow for interactive lectures.

The college's enthusiasm for the ITech program and the addition of Cisco class has rubbed off on the students.

"I'm glad that I took advantage of the ITech program, and I'm very satisfied at how much I learned and how much more there is still to come," said Sullivan.

The ITech program has also opened doors for the students, and the addition of a CCNA certification is sure to open more.

"This class has been a great experience," said Malcolm. "It has opened up job opportunities for some of us. Having the A+ certificate enabled me to get an internship."

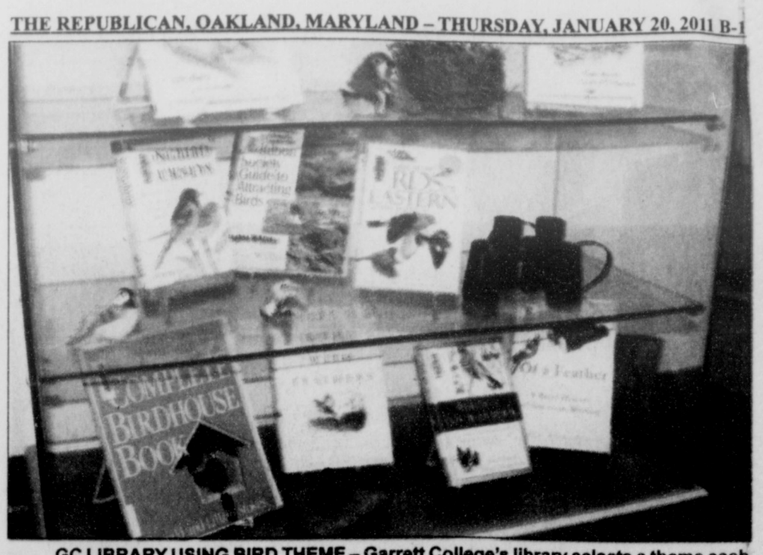
The A+ certificate also helped land Bird a job at the county commissioners' office this semester.

While most of the students plan to continue their educations after the ITech program, not all of them plan to continue in information technology. Some do intend to stay in related fields, however. Malcolm plans to enter into graphic design.

The Cisco class is only being offered to the ITech program this semester. However, it will be offered to everyone in the fall.

"I really want to spread the word about the Cisco program," said GC's Qing Yuan, director of business and information technology. "I hope more students will take advantage of the program in the future – not just high school students, but all students."

And all seven of the current Cisco students say they would certainly recommend the class – at least as long as Professor Hawkins, aka Lisa, is teaching it, that is.



GC LIBRARY USING BIRD THEME – Garrett College's library selects a theme each semester to showcase some of the books that are available in the library and which focus on that theme. For the current semester, the library staff chose a bird theme. As shown in these photos, the display includes many of the library's books on birds, including some that GC's Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology students use in their studies.

Library Increases Weekly Limit Of Music Downloads

Because of the success of the recently launched Freegal music service, Ruth Enlow Library patrons can now download five (instead of three) Sony Music tracks each week from the library's free downloadable music service.

Patrons must have a library account in good standing (not exceeding fine limits), a current library card number, and PIN.

The link to the service is posted on the library's home page at www.relib.net. Once connected to Freegal, users can search for music under Artist, Genre, and Newly Added categories.

A "Freegal week" runs from Sunday to Sunday. For additional information, may call the Oakland library at 301-334-3996, ext. 100.

To make this service available, the Ruth Enlow Library joined Library Ideas' network of public library web sites, which offer access to songs from Sony Music's catalog of legendary artists.

Library Ideas is a new media company focused on the educational markets, based in Fairfax, Va. The company offers music, movie, and language learning solutions to public libraries as part of its developing product suite.

GRANTSVILLE GROUP RAISES FUNDS FOR THOSE IN NEED – The Grantsville Involvement Group (GIG) conducted its third annual Christmas fundraiser event at the Grantsville Elementary School in early December. For the first time this year, local vendors participated with their products. The fees paid by the vendors were used to buy groceries for families in need in the Grantsville area. Additional funding was added from GIG to support the effort. The event included music, hot chocolate and cookies. There were also gingerbread house kits for the kids to make while parents shopped from the vendors. "Thanks to all of those who participated this year," said Sharon Menges, outreach worker for the Garrett County Health Department. "This effort would not have been possible without GIG, the Happy SADD Club, Grantsville Elementary School, and funding from the health department." The Happy SADD Club members helped organize the event, and are pictured above with Santa Claus. In front, from left, are Haley Moon, Kendra Georg, and Bailey Tiemersma. Standing in the same order are Devin Dorsey, Jeff Johnson, Santa's helper, Derek Silbaugh, and Bobbi Lapp. Pictured separately is Garrett Merrill showing off his gingerbread house, complete with shutters and other decorations. Persons interested in participating in GIG may call Menges at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111. Activities of GIG are supported in part by funds from the health department to promote healthy living and prevent risky behaviors, a spokesperson said.

Garrett Memorial Earns National Nod For Diabetic Ed.

The Outpatient Diabetic Education Program at Garrett County Memorial Hospital has received national recognition from the American Diabetes Association for high standards in diabetic care.

The ADA awards this recognition to education programs that follow the national standards for diabetes self-management education, specifically curriculum that demonstrates the most current guidelines and practices in the management of diabetes, taught by instructors who have extensive education on the disease.

Participants in the education program receive education in the progression of diabetes, nutrition, physical activity, medications, risk reduction, and stress/lifestyle management. Participants are also coached in setting personal goals and are tracked throughout the program as they progress.

The outpatient program is led by Kendra Thayer, who has received advanced training in the field and is currently earning a certificate in diabetic education. The program is also administered by Wendy Wakefield, who instructs participants in nutrition. Wakefield is the hospital's dietitian.

To enter the diabetic education program, a referral is needed and is normally issued by a participant's primary care giver. Covered by most insurance policies, the program is considered useful by the hospital for individuals who have been recently diagnosed with diabetes, uncontrolled diabetes, or complications from the disease; or who have changed medications, are interested in insulin pumps or continuous glucose monitors.

Those interested may contact Thayer at 301-533-4271.

Flu On The Rise Across Maryland; Not Too Late To Get Vaccinated

Consistent with historic trends for the seasonal spread of the flu virus among the population, the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's (DHMH) flu monitoring and surveillance systems report a dramatic rise in the number of flu cases across Maryland over the last two weeks.

The DHMH Maryland Flu Tracking System (Marylandfluwatch.org) reports increased influenza activity and geographic spread from "local" to "widespread" since the last week of December 2010.

There is also a marked increase in the number of flu-related emergency room visits and hospitalizations, according to Maryland's Electronic Surveillance System for the Early Notification of Community-based Epidemics (ESSENCE) biosurveillance system.

"The flu is here as expected but the good news is, it's not too late to get vaccinated," said Frances Phillips, deputy secretary for Public Health Services. "For those who get sick, there is nothing pleasant about the flu. With illness occurring in communities throughout Maryland, now is the time for anyone not yet vaccinated to do so. We will protect ourselves as well as others who may be at risk for more serious flu symptoms."

Absent an unusual influenza event such as the H1N1 pandemic, the number of people who become sick with flu and flu-related illness typically begins to rise in early January. If the 2010-2011 flu season continues as expected, the number of people who get sick, require hospitalization or die will continue to increase to a peak in late February.

"Check with your health care provider, pharmacy or local health department and get vaccinated as soon as possible," added Phillips. "Remember, the vaccine is the best form of protection but it takes some time to provide immunity. In general, we can protect ourselves by frequent handwashing, covering coughs and sneezes, and staying home from work or school when sick."

The current seasonal flu vaccine will protect one against the three most common strains of the virus detected in the United States so far this season, including H1N1. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends that everyone above the age of 6 months get vaccinated.

According to CDC, people at a higher risk of serious health consequences from the flu virus are:

- Children less than 5 years old
- Persons age 65 years or older
- Pregnant women
- Residents of nursing homes and other chronic-care facilities
- Adults and children who have chronic pulmonary, cardiovascular, hepatic, hematological, neurologic, neuromuscular, or metabolic disorders
- Adults and children who have immunosuppression (including immunosuppression caused by medications or by HIV)
- Children and adolescents (less than 19 years) who are receiving long-term aspirin therapy and who might be at risk for experiencing Reye's syndrome after influenza virus infection.

The best protection against the flu virus is vaccination and practicing good personal hygiene:

- Wash hands often, especially after coughing, sneezing, and wiping or blowing one's nose.
- If one has flu symptoms, staying home and avoiding contact with other people to protect them from catching the illness.
- Cover one's mouth when coughing or sneezing.
- Use paper tissues when wiping or blowing one's nose; throw tissues away after use.
- Stay away from crowded living and sleeping spaces, if possible.

To find out more about seasonal flu, persons may visit:

- DHMH flu web site (http://dhmh.maryland.gov/swineflu/)
- "Get Vaccinated" (http://dhmh.maryland.gov/swineflu/getVaccinated.html) to check with a local health department about vaccine availability.
- www.cdc.gov or "Seasonal Flu Vaccine" or call the CDC at 1-800-CDC-INFO for more information about the seriousness of influenza and the benefits of vaccination.

That extra layer can be the difference between feeling cold or comfortable on a wintry morning. God's love warms our hearts in much the same way. As we learn to know Him through prayer and study of His Word, we develop spiritual warmth that accompanies us in uncomfortable situations. Every week, as we visit God's house to worship and learn more of His unfailing love and protection, we add a new layer of insulation between us and events that can chill our soul. Worship this week and add a layer of faith.

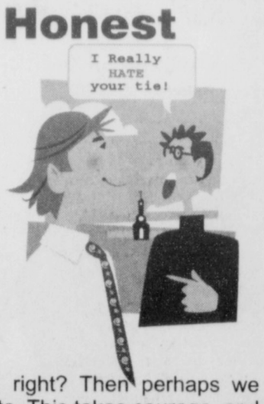
To Be Honest



Sometimes being honest may seem brutal and impolite. And indeed sometimes it is. Just because something is true does not mean that it needs to be said. But, telling people what we really think is sometimes necessary. Do we want to spend our free time with obnoxious people? Sounds awful, right? Then perhaps we shouldn't say we'd love to. This takes courage, and tact, but it will spare feelings, ours and theirs, in the long run. Most of the time a polite rejection of an invitation will do the trick and the person gets the hint, but other times our very politeness seems to invite them back for more. That is when we may need to be honest and tell the person that we are not comfortable spending time with them. This should be done in a way that is honest and yet gentle. Often when we are tempted to start a sentence with the phrase "To be honest" we are searching for a tactful way to say no, or perhaps concocting a "white lie." Usually this phrase ("to be honest") conceals more of the truth than it reveals. Mark Twain wryly observed, in one of his posthumous essays, that one of the privileges of the grave is that you can finally tell the truth and say what you think, at least if you put it in writing. Consider the example of Jesus, who occasionally spoke harsh truths to men in power, despite the risk to his own comfort and well-being.

You brood of vipers!How can you speak good, when you are evil? For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks.

TNT will be on the 'Beat' again ... soon

By Jay Bobbin

Q: What happened to "Memphis Heat"? It gave us a chance to see the South in action. –Phyllis Williams, Garden Grove, Calif.

A: We're guessing that you're actually asking about "Memphis Beat," the Jason Lee-starring TNT series. As we mention so often here, cable series generally have shorter seasons than broadcast network shows do, and that was the situation here. The 10 episodes produced for the first season simply ran out ... but the series has been renewed, and it will be back either in late spring or the summer.

Q: I can't find the show "Parenthood." Has it been canceled? –Vera McHenry, Lawrence, Kan.

A: It's back in NBC's Tuesday lineup now, but it'll be relaunched on Mondays in March. Some notable guest casting is coming up; John Corbett ("United States of Tara," "Sex and the City") will be on board for several episodes as the Lauren Graham character's estranged husband.

Q: I have been watching and rewatching reruns of "White Collar" and "Human Target" and am very anxious to know if and when they will be on again. –Freda Eiberson, Long Beach, N.Y.

A: We're baffled about the comment in regard to "Human Target," since with the exception of some repeats over the holidays, you've actually been seeing new episodes if you've been watching that Fox show. Its second season got a later-than-planned start in mid-November, so it's had fresh stories to put forth lately. As for "White Collar," USA Network has just started running new episodes of the show on Tuesdays.

Q: I haven't seen anything indicating that "Rizzoli & Isles" is returning. Is it? –Barbara Wald, Oak Hill, Fla.

A: Angie Harmon and Sasha Alexander's TNT show got a pickup for a second season in near-record time. After only three episodes had aired last summer, the network gave the go-ahead for a second round. Expect the new stories to begin turning up in the summer again.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was beloved American comedian, actor, producer and author Bill Cosby who offered the following advice to new parents: "Always end the name of your child with a vowel, so that when you yell, the name will carry."

• Those who study such things say that it takes one second to vacuum 1 square foot of floor.

• You probably don't realize it — and you certainly don't notice it — but experts claim that the Atlantic Ocean is getting about 1 centimeter bigger every year, and the Pacific Ocean is shrinking by the same amount. It's due to continental drift, they say.

• If you're planning a trip to central Africa, you can pay a visit to both the shortest people in the world (the Pygmy tribes) as well as the tallest (the Tutsi, also known as the Watusi).

• If you're a blood donor, you help to make up a significant minority. In the United States, less than 5 percent of the population donates blood every year.

• It was Nobel Prize-winning Russian author Boris Pasternak who wrote the novel (later adapted to film) "Doctor Zhivago." It was originally published in 1957 in Italy, to great acclaim, but it wasn't published in the Soviet Union until 1988.

• If you took all the Tootsie Rolls produced every year and placed them end to end, there would be enough candy to stretch to the moon and back. Interestingly, the Tootsie Roll isn't actually considered to be chocolate — not according to the definition used by federal officials supervising the candy industry, anyway.

• The world's highest tides are found in the Bay of Fundy, located in Nova Scotia, Canada. There, the difference between high and low tides can be as much as 50 feet.

A. The fact that you had no buyers on eBay says a great deal about the current market of collector plates. They are almost impossible to sell. With that in mind, it might be helpful to contact The International Collectors Guild, P.O. Box 487, Artesia, CA 90702. The group publishes a monthly newsletter for collectors of limited edition plates, and it might put you in touch with other plate enthusiasts.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Funding Available To Protect, Restore Farmlands, Wetlands, And Grasslands

Private landowners interested in protecting their farmland, grassland, or wetland with this year's funding are encouraged to get their applications in soon. The USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Maryland has set Friday, Feb. 18, as the deadline for 2011 first-round funding consideration for the Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program, Wetland Reserve Program, and Grassland Reserve Program.

The Farm and Ranch Lands Protection Program (FRPP) is a voluntary easement program that helps farmers and ranchers keep their land in agricultural production. The program provides matching funds to state or local governments and nongovernmental organizations with existing farmland protection programs to purchase conservation easements. These permanent easements protect agricultural land, and important farmland soils, by prohibiting conversion to non-agricultural uses.

The Wetlands Reserve Program (WRP) provides an opportunity for landowners to receive financial assistance to protect, restore, and enhance wetlands on their property. WRP helps to reduce flooding, improve water quality by filtering sediment and chemicals, recharge groundwater, and more. In addition, these wetlands provide food and shelter for migratory birds and other wetland dependent species.

WRP offers landowners a combination of permanent and 30-year easements, in addition to 10-year restoration agreements, in exchange for retiring and restoring woodland and marginal land from agriculture. In 2011, landowners may receive up to $5,000 per acre for permanent easements. For 30-year easements, applicants can receive 75 percent of the permanent easement value.

The Grassland Reserve Program (GRP) helps landowners restore and protect grassland, pastureland, and certain other lands and provides assistance for rehabilitating grasslands. The program will conserve vulnerable grasslands from conversion to cropland or other uses. Eligible lands can be enrolled into either a permanent easement or a 10-, 15-, or 20-year rental contract. Restoration agreements, based on a 50 percent cost-share, may be placed on land enrolled under a rental contract or easement.

For FRPP, WRP, and GRP, USDA pays all costs associated with recording the easement in the local land records office. Landowners voluntarily limit future use of the land, yet retain private ownership.

While NRCS accepts easement program applications throughout the year, the agency plans to make 2011 funding decisions from the pool of applications received by Feb. 18 first. Subsequent ranking periods will occur until all funds are exhausted. Unfunded eligible applicants will remain on file until additional funding becomes available.

To participate in WRP or GRP, private landowners may submit applications directly to NRCS. For FRPP, state and local governments or nongovernmental organizations should submit applications directly to the NRCS state office. Interested landowners are encouraged to contact their local USDA service center for more information. Service center locations and more information on the programs can be found online at www.md.nrcs.usda.gov.

NRCS's natural resources conservation programs help people reduce soil erosion, enhance water supplies, improve water quality, increase wildlife habitat, and reduce damages caused by floods and other natural disasters. Public benefits include enhanced natural resources that help sustain agricultural productivity and environmental quality while supporting continued economic development, recreation, and scenic beauty.

In memory of
who passed away Jan. 20, 1991

Our dear one is no longer
A part of our daily life
No longer faces illnesses
In this world of pain and strife
No longer hears us speaking
But is still our very own
For warm memories surround us
And we never feel alone
God comforts, gives us courage
To face our challenges each day
He gives sustaining strength
And takes the pain away
Life we know is eternal
And we find comfort in our prayers
In knowing that our loved one's soul
Is with thee, God, upstairs.
In Loving Memory of You

Beitzel Introduces Turbine, Property Marker Legislation

Del. Wendell Beitzel introduced two more bills for the Maryland General Assembly's consideration last week in Annapolis. A previously introduced piece of proposed legislation, dubbed the "Buy American" bill, will go under committee review next week.

House Bill 112: "Garrett County – County Commissioners – Commercial Wind Turbines" would give the commissioners the authority to enact ordinances in Garrett County regarding setbacks and decommissioning of wind turbines.

"This is a measure that both Senator Edwards and I have pursued during past sessions," Beitzel said. "Slowly but surely, I believe that many are beginning to see the need for such commonsense legislation. As turbines continue to be placed on Garrett County's mountainsides, I believe it is imperative to ensure that those who live, work, and play under these imposing structures are protected."

Beitzel's House Bill 113: "Real Property – Interference With Property Markers – Penalty Increase" would increase fines for vandalizing property markers.

"The interference with property markers has been a problem in Garrett County, especially within the Deep Creek Lake area," Beitzel said. "Monuments marking property lines have been destroyed or moved over the years. As a result, surveying groups have gone to great expense to replace and/or relocate these markers."

Current law states that interfering with property markers is a misdemeanor subject to a fine up to $500.

"The bill that Senator Edwards and I are proposing will increase the penalty to up to $2,500. This increase in the maximum penalty reflects the considerable costs incurred to replace and relocate these markers."

Beitzel's HB 12, the "Buy American" bill, will be reviewed by House Health and Government Operations Committee on Tuesday, Feb. 1, at 2 p.m.

The proposed legislation would require Maryland

TVs May Again Be Dropped Off At GC Recycling Sites

Recycling coordinator Kim Madigan announced Monday that the Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division is once again accepting televisions for its recycling program. All types and sizes of TVs may be dropped off at the Bumble Bee, Grantsville and Weber Road refuse and recycling sites.

Residents and businesses of Garrett County are invited to participate in the Electronics Recycling Program free of charge. Refuse and recycling sites are open Monday – Friday, from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sundays from noon to 6 p.m.

In addition to TVs, the following items are accepted for recycling at the three refuse and recycling sites: computers, CPU units, keyboards, monitors, mice and peripherals, hard drives, mainframe computers, modems, and printed circuit boards.

Also accepted are word processors, radios, remote controls, cell phones, pagers, compact disc players, camcorders, electric typewriters, answering ma-

Beitzel, Delegation Members Sponsor Military Measure

Del. Wendell Beitzel (R–Garrett and Allegany counties) yesterday introduced legislation that would require the comptroller to provide Maryland's taxpayers with an opportunity to support their veterans through contributing to the Maryland Veterans Trust Fund.

This measure would enable state taxpayers who are so inclined to contribute to the fund by checking a box when filing their annual personal Maryland state tax with the Office of the Comptroller.

"Our veterans should know that they are supported by the state of Maryland and its citizens," stated Beitzel.

The Veterans Trust Fund was established through legislation enacted during the 2009 Legislative Session. It is primarily funded by gifts and grants received by the Maryland Department of Veterans Affairs.

"Thanks to the 2009 legislation, we have a tremendous way for Maryland's citizens to show that they care," Beitzel said. "This bill is intended to increase the Trust Fund's visibility as

GC Commissioners Hold Marcellus Shale Information-Gathering Session

The Garrett County commissioners have not yet taken a formal stance on natural gas extraction, commission chair Gregan Crawford announced last Thursday afternoon at St. Peter's Catholic Church parish hall in Oakland. About 300 people attended the nearly six-hour long public meeting, which focused solely on Marcellus shale drilling.

Crawford called the event an information-gathering session and a way for the commissioners to engage in dialogue with other officials and the public. There was, indeed, much information to try to absorb.

Representatives from the Garrett County Department of Planning and Zoning, Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE), Chief Oil and Gas, the local Marcellus Shale Advisory Committee, and University of Maryland Extension Service gave presentations. In addition, more than 30 citizens expressed their opinions on the subject.

"At this time the board of county commissioners has not formalized its position on the Marcellus Shale Play as it relates to Garrett County," Crawford read from a formal statement (see separate story). He noted the commissioners would continue to seek information from various sources before forming opinions.

County attorney Mike Getty, however, has formed a legal opinion on imposing a moratorium on drilling: Without countywide zoning, it is not possible. Several local residents recently asked the commissioners to hold up drilling until the issue could be examined further.

"There is no express authority, or delegated authority from the state of Maryland that says the Board of Garrett County Commissioners has the right to impose a moratorium," Getty announced at the meeting. "In Garrett County, we stand unique in the state of Maryland to the extent that the determination has been made that we do not have countywide zoning."

Therefore, in absence of specific authority from the state, Getty said, the county does not have the authority to place a moratorium on this particular type of land use – natural gas drilling. Nor does it have the authority to impose a moratorium on wind turbine construction, he noted.

Director John Nelson, GC Department of Planning and Land Development, reviewed the local permitting process related to drilling.

"It is important to note that the county at this point in time does not issue any permit for the activity of drilling," he said. "What we do issue are site preparation

Commissioners Still Formulating Stance On Drilling

The Garrett County commissioners announced during their public meeting last Thursday that they have not yet taken a formal stance on the Marcellus shale gas drilling issue. Commission chair Gregan Crawford read the following statement at the start of the meeting:

"At this time the board of county commissioners has not formalized its position on the Marcellus Shale Play as it relates to Garrett County. The board of commissioners will continue to listen, understand, and contemplate the facts and issues raised by various groups, agencies, individuals, and entities so that we may develop the best management policies possible.

"Although we acknowledge that the landowner has the right to lease and/or sell what is rightfully [his or hers], we must also acknowledge and continue to work to address the short-term and long-term impacts to the local infrastructure and services, the local economy, and property protections, while striving to preserve the quality of life that we enjoy here as citizens and that the visitors to Garrett County enjoy.

"If gas drilling is permitted by the state, we as the board of commissioners desire to see it done correctly and only after prudent and throrough review and consideration of all aspects and impacts, as there is little room for error and no second chance to get it right.

"As this issue continues to evolve through a variety of input sources, which include but are not limited to public meetings, committee input, fact findings, MDE (Maryland Department of the Environment) guidelines, so shall the opinions and actions of the board of commissioners."

Chamber Opposes A Marcellus Shale Drilling Moratorium

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce board of directors recently completed its 2011 Legislative Agenda. Members plan to present these issues to state lawmakers and other officials during this evening's Mountain Maryland PACE Reception in Annapolis.

Among the agenda items is "Oppose Moratorium on Marcellus Shale Drilling."

"Marcellus shale drilling could have an enormous economic impact on Garrett County," a chamber newsletter stated. "With this taken into consideration, we must also become more educated on the environmental issues associated with drilling.

"We feel that it is not necessary to impose a mora-

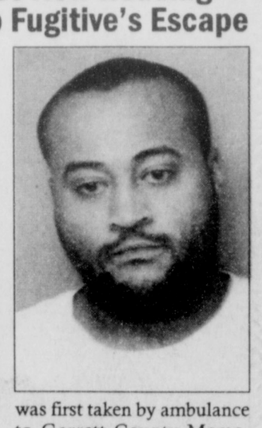
Federal Authorities Now Heading Investigation Into Fugitive's Escape



The investigation continues into the whereabouts of a Washington, D.C., fugitive after he escaped the custody of Garrett County sheriff's deputies Sunday evening. Deandre Kelly, 29, had been arrested by Maryland State Police within about 30 hours prior to the escape.

An MSP K-9 unit conducted a traffic stop on a silver 2009 Kia Optima with Maryland tags at approximately 5 p.m. on I-68 Saturday. The stop was conducted for a speeding violation. Kelly, the front passenger, provided false identification indicating his name to be John Williams, 29, Washington.

When the driver and rear passenger exited the vehicle, Kelly jumped into the driver seat and continued east of Friendsville. He attempted to use the emergency crossover and struck a snow embankment. He began traveling west toward Friendsville and exited south onto Rt. 42. As he continued to flee police, the vehicle struck a guardrail, a bridge pillar, and another snow bank before becoming disabled and coming to rest on Morris Ave.

Kelly was immediately placed under arrest and charged with two counts of CDS possession with intent to distribute, two counts of CDS possession, possession of a firearm in a drug trafficking crime, resisting arrest, false statement to a police officer concerning identity, possession of drug paraphernalia, and multiple motor vehicle charges.

Because of injuries sustained in the accident, he was first taken by ambulance to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment. Troopers remained with Kelly until he was released from the hospital at approximately 7 a.m. Sunday morning.

Kelly was transported to the Garrett County Jail, where he was fingerprinted and accurately identified. He was found to be wanted by the United States Marshal's Service, Washington. He was then taken to the MSP McHenry Barrack for processing before being seen by a district court commissioner. His bond was set for $100,000, and he was taken to the Garrett County Jail.

At approximately 8:30 p.m., Kelly reportedly assaulted two correctional officers and forced them to release the exit door with what police reasonably believe was a handgun. Investigation into how he acquired the gun is ongoing.

GCSO conducted an intensive search of the area with the assistance of MSP, FBI, Natural Resources Police, and the Oakland City Police. Because it is believed that Kelly is now out of the area, the investigation has been handed over to the U.S. Marshal's Service, with assistance still being provided by

Gov.'s Budget Plan Does Not Restore Highway User Fees

Despite pleas from 157 Maryland cities and towns, Governor Martin O'Malley's proposed fiscal year 2012 budget included no additional Highway User Revenue and Police Aid funding for hard-hit municipalities.

Municipal leaders had called on the governor to restore full funding for municipal Highway User Revenues and Police Aid in his proposal.

Most municipalities lost 82% of their total state aid in the FY 2011 budget, and the FY 2012 budget proposal maintains the same funding amounts.

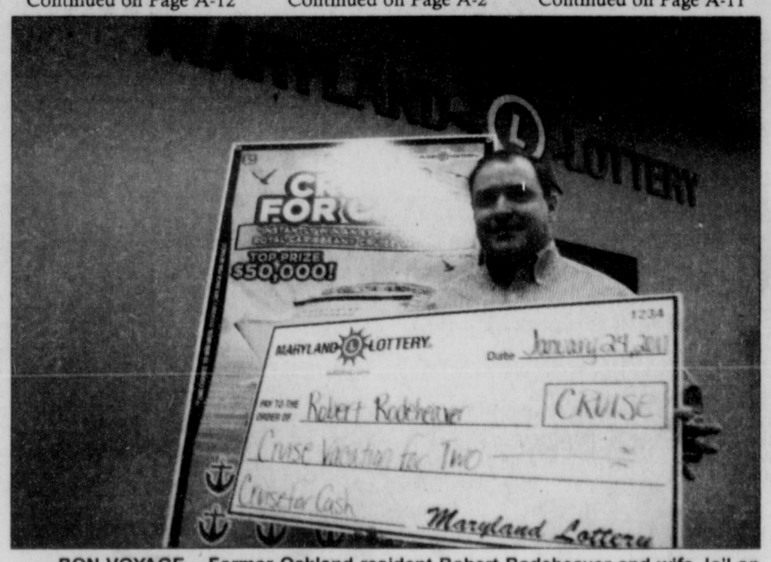
Since 2008, Highway User Revenues for municipalities have been reduced by 95% and Police Aid has been reduced by 35%. Highway User Revenue is funded through the gas tax and other transportation-related fees and is designed to be returned to Maryland communities for ongoing transportation related projects such as road repair, street maintenance, and snow removal.

Correction Noted To Rescue Squad Membership Info

An article was published in last week's issue of The Republican regarding the public's membership fees payable to Garrett County's rescue squads. The story contained some erroneous information.

While the fee for the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad is $25, as reported, the fee for Northern Garrett is $35 for families, and $25 for senior citizens. And while the Southern organization has been charging the fee since 2007, Northern has been doing so for several more years.

Also regarding the Northern squad, there are no physical mailing addresses at the McHenry or Grantsville stations. Fees must be sent to the organization's mailing address, which is as follows: Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad, PO Box 293, Grantsville, MD 21536.



BON VOYAGE – Former Oakland resident Robert Rodeheaver and wife Jo'Lon will soon set off from Florida on a seven-day Royal Caribbean cruise, courtesy of the Maryland Lottery. The current Parkersburg, W.Va., resident recently purchased a scratch-off lottery ticket that revealed a Cruise For Cash Instant Cruise Vacation. The $5 winning ticket was purchased at Midway Discount Beverages, Oakland. Rodeheaver, a U.S. Army veteran, and his father have been buying and gifting scratch-off tickets to each other for years, so both were very excited when the buying paid off. "This will be the first good vacation since I returned from Iraq in 2004," noted the father of four. He is a field examiner for the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, and said his wife is very excited. "She has never been out of the United States or on a plane. She is researching all of the possible destinations." The $5 ticket features seven $50,000 instant top prizes, as well as 31 instant seven-night cruise vacations for two, departing from Florida on a first-class round trip flight, which includes deluxe hotel accommodations for the night prior to the cruise, $1,000 onboard credit, and $500 spending money.

FIRE AND ICE – The elements are indeed featured in this spectacular photograph, taken on the shore of Deep Creek Lake just before this most recent snow, when the days were snowless but frigid, and the single-digit temps kept the waterway frozen hard as stone. The winter has been brutal thus far, but is certainly not without arresting beauty. Photo by Jess Whittemore.

GARRETT COLLEGE NEWS BEAT

Dually Enrolled Students At Garrett Get A Jump Start On College Careers

by Peggy Santamaria

It's 8:30 Monday morning. At Southern High School, senior Courtney Swearengen takes her seat in a classroom. Up the road at Northern High School, senior Austin Doerr has joined his classmates. Then, through the "magic" of distance learning, both classes are connected to each other and to the instructor, Jeremy Layman, on the McHenry campus of Garrett College. English 102, Introduction to Literature, is under way.

Austin and Courtney are among the 26 Garrett County high school seniors qualified to begin earning college credit while completing high school graduation requirements through distance learning. This is a dual enrollment program developed by the Garrett County Board of Education and Garrett College, and the students receive credit from both.

For Courtney, the future includes getting a degree from Garrett College and transferring to complete studies to become a veterinarian.

"I really am glad I'm taking this class," she said. "It gives me a taste of what college is like and what will be expected of me. Also, I'm earning credits toward my degree."

This is the second English class for her, following the English 101, Expository Writing, which she took during the first semester of her senior year.

Austin has recently signed an NCAA National Letter of Intent to attend Barton College in North Carolina on a golf scholarship to pursue studies in business management. He agrees with Courtney on the benefits of being better prepared to pursue college studies because of this distance-learning experience.

"I wanted to get the feel of what college will be like," he said. "This class at Northern has given me the chance to do that. My Garrett College credits will transfer to Barton."

Do the students in a distance-learning lab find it more difficult to learn from an instructor who is not present in the classroom?

Not according to Austin and Courtney.

"I've never worked in a web cam situation before, so this is new for me," said Austin. "I find I pay even more attention to what the teacher is saying."

Courtney noted that because the instructor can see her and the other students, there is a sense of individual attention to each one.

"Some days Mr. Layman came to our lab for class," she added.

Layman said he enjoys teaching in this special capacity.

"As a 2002 graduate of Northern, it was an honor to be asked to instruct the course," he said. "Distance learning is a unique point-to-point connection, where a student from Southern and one from Northern can discuss the value of Faulkner's A Rose for Emily or exchange tips for editing essays as if they were in the same room."

To create a stronger bond with the distance-learning students, Layman spends time at both high schools.

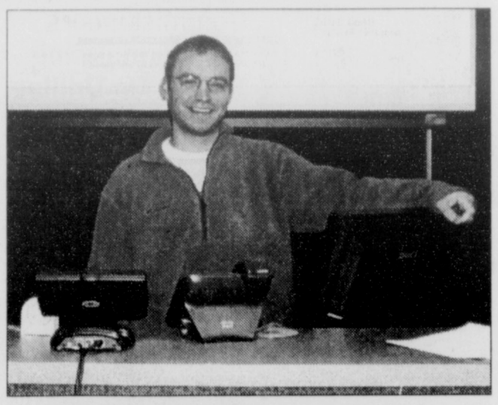
"I visit both Northern and Southern throughout the semester to establish a personal connection," he said.

The dual enrollment program currently includes opportunities for high school seniors to enroll in ENG 101, Composition I and Expository Writing; ENG 102, Composition II Introduction to Literature; MAT 210, Introduction to Statistics; and MAT 107, Trigonometry.

In addition to the distance-learning option, Garrett County's high school seniors have the opportunity to enroll in the I-Tech program, which currently is providing Cisco Certified Network Associate training in the newly upgraded Garrett College computer lab. Discussion is ongoing between the board of education and the college for potential additional course offerings.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for the high school seniors to get a jump start on completing college credits while fulfilling high school requirements," said Ann Wellham, dean of enrollment management at Garrett. "We would love to see additional courses added to the program."

High school juniors interested in taking n the dual-enrolled courses in their senior year are encouraged to contact their high school counselor to discuss the eligibility requirements. For further information, persons may also contact Rachelle Davis, Garrett College director of admissions, by calling 301-387-3044.



DISTANCE LEARNING does not need to be a remote experience with Garrett College's Jeremy Layman at the podium. Twice each week, Layman connects dually enrolled students at Northern and Southern high schools with his classroom on the McHenry campus of GC. Teaching English 101 and 102 for high school and college credit, Layman uses technological connectivity to link with students and let them share thoughts and ideas with each other. To solidify this bond, he regularly visits the two high school distance-learning labs to meet personally with his students. See story.

Citizens Urged To Help State Find Co.'s Big Trees

The Maryland Big Tree Program (MBTP) is an effort to measure and catalog the largest of each tree species within the state of Maryland. Currently the organization is asking citizens to find big trees in Garrett County.

MBTP was originally started in Maryland by Fred Besley, Maryland's first state forester, and is now managed by the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards. The program is established throughout the nation as the National Register of Big Trees Program, administered by American Forests (americanforests.org/resources/bigtrees/).

Currently there are nearly two dozen "national champion" trees in the state of Maryland, but there are few champion trees recorded in Garrett County. With the program now becoming more developed in the county, local citizens are being asked to find and report these large specimen trees. Approximately 90% of these trees are traditionally located on private land.

MBTP has categories for each of the native and naturalized tree species. For instance, a white oak will be placed in a separate category from a beech tree, and so on. Non-native species are not included in the process.

To nominate a large tree, persons are instructed to contact the University of Maryland, Garrett County Extension Office at 301-334-6977. An Extension associate, along with volunteers with the Garrett County Master Gardeners, will help identify and evaluate the nominated tree. If the tree meets the program requirements, the information will be sent to the director of MBTP.

To become a county, state or national champion, the tree must meet the size requirements based on height, circumference, and average crown spread.

A tree located on private property not owned by the nominee can still be evaluated with permission of the landowner. The University of Maryland staff will try to obtain permission from the owner for registration of the tree. If the tree does reach the size requirements, it will be recognized at a county, state, or national level until a larger tree of the same species is found.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for Garrett County to become recognized for the beauty of its large trees," an MBTP spokesperson said.

Tobacco Compliance Checks To Be Conducted By GCHD, SADD

Staff members from the Garrett County Health Department and SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions) members from the two county high schools are working with law enforcement officers from the Maryland State Police to conduct tobacco compliance checks in Garrett County.

The purpose of the checks is to ensure that tobacco is not being sold to minors, and that the tobacco product placement law is being followed. Maryland state law requires persons to be at least 18 years old at the time of purchase of tobacco or tobacco related products. Funds from the Drug Free Communities grant support the Compliance Check Program, a health department spokesperson said.

The tobacco compliance operations will occur through fiscal year 2011. Participating SADD students will receive training from health department staff and law enforcement officers about compliance check procedures. They must be under 18 to participate, and will receive service learning hours for their work.

Students will enter stores to purchase tobacco under observation of a law enforcement officer. If an illegal sale is completed, the officer will interview the clerk to determine possible penalties. Under law, both the clerk making the sale and the owner may receive a civil citation.

"Students cannot lie or present a fake or false ID when purchasing tobacco products," noted Kendra Todd, Community Health Program director. "Our goal is to have the salespersons confirm proof of age before making a sale."

Todd said research demonstrates that after the age of 18, teenagers are less likely to try tobacco products.

To date, 35 checks have been completed in the current fiscal year. Minors were able to purchase tobacco on five occasions.

"Most of our local merchants are compliant and do a very good job preventing underage sales to minors," said Mike Wilburn, Community Health educator, who supervises compliance operations for the health department.

Businesses that sold were Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop, Grantsville Foodland, S&S Market, and BFS at McHenry. This was the second violation in a two-month period for BFS at McHenry. In all five incidents, civil citations were issued by the Maryland State Police to both the clerk selling and the owner or operator of the store, the health department officials said.

Offenders can receive civil fines of up to $100 for the clerk and $300 for the owner. In addition, repeat offenders can be referred to the Maryland State Comptroller's Office, which controls tobacco sales licenses in Maryland.

For more information, persons may contact Mike Wilburn at the health department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

Two Charged By GC Deputies Following Stops

Garrett County sheriff's deputies recently arrested two men for driving on suspended licenses. The following incidents are unrelated.

Deputies stopped a vehicle along Oakland Ave. and identified the driver as Jordan Andrew Buckman, 25. He was discovered to be driving on a suspended out-of-state license. He was also wanted on a warrant obtained by Maryland State Police for theft under $100. He posted bond and was released pending his court date.

In a separate incident, deputies stopped a 1996 Honda on Broadford Road driven by Matthew Norman Swapp, Loch Lynn. His Maryland license was found to be suspended, for which he was charged in addition to failure to wear a seatbelt and driving without the required registration plate illumination.

Nicole Christian, president/CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, was the guest speaker for the meeting. She talked about a survey that the West Virginia University Recreation, Parks, and Tourism Resources Program conducted in Garrett County in 2008 and 2009. "The survey provides the chamber with interesting and useful information that it uses to increase and enhance tourism in the county," a Lion spokesperson noted. Below are Christian and Bosley.

Investigation revealed that Mark Miller, 54, Accident, was traveling north on Rt. 219 in a 1999 Nissan Frontier truck followed by Sarah Coddington, 20, Oakland, in a 2001 Pymouth Neon. Miller attempted a left turn, and Coddington rear-ended the truck. There were no injuries, and the Neon sustained moderate damage and required a tow truck.

Coddington was charged with following a vehicle too closely. Alcohol and weather were not factors in the collision.

How Ironic It Would Be...

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce released its legislative agenda this week (see front-page story), noting various bills currently being considered by the 2011 Maryland General Assembly that the chamber either supports or opposes.

Much of what the chamber is supporting is both logical and expected and is, in general, relatively non-controversial. These would include requesting increased state funding for tourism promotion, requesting additional funding to support the Mountain Maryland recreational trails program, calling for a restoration of Highway User Funds to counties and municipalities that were hacked by some 90%, and seeking support for the availability of broadband technology throughout the state.

At least one item on the chamber's agenda, however, is indeed controversial, and that is the decision to oppose any kind of moratorium on Marcellus shale gas drilling in the state. The chamber web site says that the drilling "could have an enormous economic impact on Garrett County" and that "it is not necessary to impose a moratorium on drilling" because "since no permits have been issued as of yet, an informal moratorium has been in place, and we have adequate time to inform the regulatory process to ensure all precautions and appropriate measures are taken."

It is agreed that drilling for gas in the shale under Garrett County will likely result in an economic boon, not only to the private property owners who elect to lease their land for such a purpose, but also to the county treasury, which stands to receive a handsome sum through taxes that will be paid by the drilling companies. Yet there is also significant opposition to drilling in the county because of a long list of environmental concerns. This opposition has been demonstrated at a number of recent Marcellus shale informational meetings in the county, where the clear majority of those in attendance strongly oppose drilling, or at least are concerned enough about it that they believe a moratorium is prudent and logical.

It is recognized that the legislative committee of the chamber, as well as the board of directors for the chamber, should not be obliged to poll the chamber membership on every issue before reaching decisions on the legislative agenda. However, it seems that in this case, when there are members of the chamber who support a moratorium, the chamber leaders should have polled the membership on this question before making a decision. If through such a poll it is learned that the majority of members do in fact support the chamber's position, then the legislative agenda statement should read that way. Instead, the statement uses the first-person "we," which implies that the entire chamber membership supports that position.

How ironic it would be if drilling commences here on the Mountaintop – as the chamber wants – and, God forbid, there is an environmental disaster that would damage future tourism in Garrett County.

To the Editor:

Each year, the Northern Garrett High School Marching Band represents the county in regional competitions and parades. While our marching band is quite small by most standards, the director and students work exceptionally hard to be able to compete with other regional high school bands.

For the past 10 marching seasons, the band has been wearing the same uniforms, which have now fallen into a state of utter disrepair. Uniforms have broken and missing buttons, ripped fabric, broken necks snaps, and multiple permanent stains and odors. There are presently not enough sizes to fit all band members, and during the 2009 and 2010 marching seasons, uniforms had to be pieced together just to be able to dress each band member. New uniforms would promote band and school unity, and improve self-esteem and perceived image, which, in turn, would enhance overall performance.

The band has sponsored numerous fundraisers, bake sales, and raffles, and has operated concessions in an attempt to raise the funds necessary to purchase new uniforms. Unfortunately, because of the lack of funding in our school district for supplementary programming, the music department relies very heavily on the funds raised for purchasing music, repairing and maintaining instruments, and band transportation.

Despite these considerable challenges, the band has managed to raise $7,400 to date toward the purchase of new uniforms. While some marching bands expect parents to cover the band members' uniform costs as a requirement for participating in band, Garrett County's median family income is only $45,000, compared to the state average of $70,000, so many students would simply be unable to participate if their families were expected to pay for their uniform.

New uniforms need to be ordered by March 15, 2011. Each total uniform costs $418.45, and we need to order a minimum of 35 for the upcoming marching season by March 15 ($14,645.75), and another 25 to complete the wardrobe ($10,461.25) for a total of $25,107.

Please consider supporting this extremely worthwhile endeavor. If funded, the NGHS marching band will gratefully acknowledge your generous contribution. In addition, you will have the satisfaction of knowing that you have made a huge difference for this dedicated, hard-working group of students who represent our county in such a positive light.

To the Editor:

On Monday, we said goodbye to a proud and loving Garrett Countian, former county commissioner Hubert Friend. His funeral was well attended by family members, including many grandchildren and great-grandchildren, as well as many friends.

Commissioner Friend served from 1966 to 1970. He stuck by his convictions and principles, and he detested the destruction of our beloved courthouse. I learned that his father was also a county commissioner when the courthouse was constructed in 1903. So I am sure that he had a sense of loyalty.

A proud man with dignity, he addressed everyone he met as Mr., Mrs., or Miss, never using their given name, and he wore a necktie every day of the week (not just on Sunday).

Commissioner Friend would have turned 106 years of age this coming July.

Proud to respect my friend,

DeCorsey Bolden

To the Editor:

No one should be surprised by the recent escape from the Garrett County detention center. After all, we got what we asked for.

I served on a Garrett County grand jury years ago in the late 1980s. That grand jury and every one since has taken note that the county is in need of either a new detention center or significant upgrades and improvements to the existing structure (which, by the way, is not feasible).

About six years ago, it seemed that finally the county was on track to address this significant, albeit unpopular, public safety issue, but then four years ago the sitting county commissioners decided that a recreation center at the lake was a higher priority. Never mind that hundreds of thousands of dollars (our tax dollars) had been spent on planning the new detention center or that the political capital spent to secure the state share of the funding would be lost. There was no public outcry when this shortsighted decision was made.

The fact that there were continuing security concerns related to the age and outdated design of the current detention center, coupled with the lack of secondary or tertiary security (perimeter fences for example), left the residents of Oakland, Mountain Lake Park, and other nearby communities at continued increased risk in the event of an escape didn't seem to matter. Having been part of the conversations on this topic with them at the time, I know the then commissioners were well aware of these very real concerns.

There are many questions regarding this most recent escape. These questions will cause some to lay the blame at the feet of the dedicated officers who work in the detention center or the troopers who arrested this hardened criminal and brought him in. And perhaps human error is a part of the equation. That remains to be determined. One thing is certain – the safety of the public should never rely solely on human staff. These dedicated professionals do not deserve the blame.

Someone could have been killed during the course of this escape, and this risk remains until DeAndre Kelly is apprehended. I encourage the new board of commissioners to heed this wake-up call. Garrett County needs a new detention center. In the meantime, I hope and pray that Kelly is apprehended before someone gets hurt.

To the Editor:

Garrett County landowners considering a gas lease have plenty of opportunities to view Marcellus shale natural gas drilling through the rose-colored glasses of the gas industry and economic development groups. What they don't have is sufficient opportunities for a clear, unbiased picture of what the risks are to themselves, their neighbors, and their environment. Concerned citizens often look to academics and government officials to provide accurate information on various issues. That is why the upcoming "brown bag series" on Marcellus shale being offered by the University of MD Extension (UME) is truly disappointing.

This UME educational outreach features a video called Shale Gas and America's Future by the Clean Skies Foundation (CSF), a non-profit organization. A quick look at its web site shows that the CSF president is also the president of Chesapeake Energy, the largest lease-holder in the Marcellus shale play and the second largest producer of natural gas in the U.S. The CSF board is rounded out by another person from Chesapeake Energy, one from Energy Investment Banking Group (leading advisors to oil and gas industry), one from GHK Exploration (oil and gas company), and one from Clean Energy (the largest provider for vehicular natural gas).

Have I seen this industry video? No, but neither have I seen Gasland. What is needed from UME is educational outreach featuring science-based information on the Marcellus shale drilling industry, not slick, commercial videos from either extreme.

The people of Garrett County deserve educational programs that clearly explain the positive and negative impacts associated with Marcellus shale drilling. Just give us the facts... all the facts without the spin. Then it's up to each of us as responsible citizens to weigh the pros and cons, and decide under what specific conditions this industry should be permitted to operate in our county. If our trusted institutions fail to provide science-based information to our citizens about Marcellus shale impacts, then our community will ultimately suffer. Marcellus shale drilling will end up as simply another sad example of an unregulated industry privatizing profits and socializing costs in western Maryland.

Get the facts. At his presentation at FSU, Daniel Soeder, U.S. Department of Energy, explained the science behind Marcellus shale drilling. He also made it quite clear that he did not oppose drilling, but emphasized that additional research is needed to ensure that appropriate regulations and safeguards are in place. His program is available at http://www.savageriverwatershed.org:80/communications/Marcellus%-20GeoEnv%20Soeder.pdf.

To the Editor:

The commissioners' meeting this past Thursday at St. Peter's community hall was the best meeting or hearing that I have attended in 20 years. To begin with, it was held at a time and place convenient for most people to attend. The commissioners conducted the meeting in a very professional manner, without placing a go-between shielding them from the people. Their integrity and sincerity was refreshing.

They just might be able to reverse the direction that the county has taken in the past and get us back on track.

The topic, as most people know, was Marcellus shale gas drilling. Representatives of the industry as well as private citizens were given the opportunity to speak. Except for one self-proclaimed drilling expert, everyone honored the request of the commissioners to try to keep comments brief.

The Marcellus Shale Advisory Committee had a few representatives present, but contributions by them were noticeably absent. And that's fine, because the previous commissioners formed it, apparently without giving much thought to the situation. Having a committee that is so top-heavy with government or quasi-government people is not conducive to arriving at a fair solution to this very complex problem. We would be better served if each of them concentrated on his/her areas of responsibility to the people and, of course, the commissioners.

A few examples: The Department of Planning & Land Development should put all of its energy into improving its expertise with regard to the issue. The county health officer should research other drilling sites to determine what the human health issues are. Environmental Health should develop a report on potential environmental impacts. The UMD Extension Service might want to consider ways of helping struggling farmers so they don't have to resort to potential farm-damaging drilling operations. These people and the others seem to have a full plate with regard to their individual duties and responsibilities required by their governmental and quasi-governmental positions.

Every Marcellus shale meeting conducted so far has demonstrated that the common people are far more advanced with their expertise and knowledge about this issue than any of the so-called experts. Probably because they, in many cases, are more intimately involved.

Dismantling the advisory committee and forming a citizens committee would be more efficient and productive; it would redistribute the workload while addressing a more fundamental premise of good government – of, by, and for the people.

permits for sediment erosion control, stormwater management, and, perhaps, the incidental impacts that may occur on roads and entrances onto and off the property."

Nelson noted that under new local and state stormwater management regulations, drilling companies must submit preliminary concept plans with their applications to the county's permits and inspections office for its review. Copies of those plans are also distributed to the county's roads, health, and public utilities departments.

"These agencies review these plans, and make determinations if they have any comments or if permits are actually needed under their jurisdictions," Nelson said.

The comments are then sent back to applicants, who must address the issues in their engineering plans. Nelson indicated his office would not approve any permits until the issues have been addressed.

He noted that MDE is the "final clearinghouse" for all permits. After local permits have been issued, MDE begins its permitting process, which includes a hearing if requested by the public.

"No drilling or site preparation may begin on any given site until MDE has issued its final drilling permit," Nelson said, adding that, to date, no drilling permits have been issued for Garrett County.

The director noted that Chief Oil and Gas submitted applications/plans for four proposed local drilling sites about three months ago. About two weeks ago, MDE received a drilling permit application for one of those sites, located along Friendsville Addison Road on the Guard property near Youghiogheny River Lake.

Herb Sachs, MDE special projects coordinator, acknowledged that natural gas drilling was a "new field" for the state and that his department is still asking questions and addressing issues.

AFTER-SCHOOL SPECIALIST ENLIGHTENS LOCAL YOUTH — Outgoing 4-H after-school enrichment specialist with the University of Maryland Extension, Garrett County Office, Tammy Humberson has taken a position as coordinator of the Food Supplement Nutrition Education Program in Allegany County. For five years, Humberson has engaged local students in after-school programs and dedicated herself to positive youth development in Garrett County. Humberson is seen here educating her students on plant life at a summer garden table during Partners After School. Pictured above, from left to right, are Emaline Scofield, Caitline Hummel, Hunter Bowser (partially hidden), Humberson, and Samantha Gank.

GCHD Commends Outgoing After-School Specialist

Tammy Humberson, 4-H after-school enrichment specialist at the University of Maryland Extension, Garrett County, is leaving her position in Garrett County and is taking a position as coordinator of the Food Supplement Nutrition Education Program in Allegany County.

For the last five years, after-school programs throughout Garrett County have relied on Humberson to develop activities for local youth. Dedicated to positive youth development, she has used hands-on enrichment projects to reinforce academics and give area children experiences they may have otherwise missed.

Humberson's ability to engage youth while teaching vocabulary and the use of the scientific method has contributed to the educational experience of many local children.

"Whether it's research-based nutrition programs or a lesson on aerodynamics ending in a rocket launch, Tammy is always a crowd pleaser," shared one after-school program director.

The Garrett County Health Department has recognized Humberson's unique ability to make students feel important and stated that she routinely memorized the names of every participant in each of the after-school programs. This sometimes required her to recall hundreds of students' names though weeks had passed between their meetings.

Humberson was active in the annual Lights On After School event. Hundreds of past guests may recall casting luminaries onto the lake at the 4-H camp in honor of the after-school programs throughout the county.

"We'll miss Tammy's creative and positive approuch to after-school enrichment, and look forward to discovering the unique talents her replacement will bring to our youth in the coming months," stated Sam Moon, after-school supervisor at the Garrett County Health Department.

TRIUMPH IN THE SADDLE — In 2002 the Preston County Animal Shelter rescued over 35 horses from a local farm. Two of these horses, malnourished and underweight, were adopted by Ashley Ball and her family. Within two months one of the mares, which the Balls were unaware was pregnant, gave birth to a colt. Ashley named the colt Samson and spent countless hours training it. In three years Ashley was riding Samson and in four she was jumping the young horse. On Aug. 19 through 21 of last year at the W.Va. 4-H/FFA State Fair Horse Show, the 14-year-old trainer and her horse placed first in equitation over fences, first in fitting and showmanship, first in hunter over fences, and second in hunter under saddle. In the 2010 W.Va. State Fair, the duo won grand champion over fences. Pictured above are Ashley Ball and Samson.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

You can imagine the itement in the Rodney otfelty household when got a phone call that a co rker had an extra ticket the big game for the erican League Champi- hip at Heinz Field in sburgh between our be- ed Steelers and the New rk Jets, and Rodney uld have it. So he was up re, and really the ather was better than the ecast predicted. Regard- s of that, the excitement el was probably so high t no one felt the cold.

It would be easier to bear next half of winter if we look forward to a Super wl with the Steelers in it. en when I was living in w York City, I never oted for any New York ms in any sport. And lly, New York City is not sport city. But, of course, is a far different story out Pittsburgh.

It's hard to imagine how uch pressure the players re feeling in this big me, when I feel so much d I'm just a very lowly .

I thought the Jets would ave an unpleasant surprise to face in our Steelers de- fense, especially with Polamalu healthy again. You never know what he will do.

I know for sure that it is not as fun to watch a big game alone as it is to watch with a whole bunch of friends at the house Rodney lived in on Kings Run Road. The crowd was ex- cited enough that we wanted to go up to the Pitts- urgh Airport to greet the eelers when they came ome after the big win.

It was 24-3 in favor of ittsburgh at halftime, and e Steelers very rarely lose game when they are lead- g at halftime.

After the big Steelers ctory yesterday, and even ter going to bed around), I still woke up at 2 a.m. o at 8 a.m., I am still very red. I imagine the city of ittsburgh got a sluggish art on this very cold morn- g. I am eager to talk to my rother about what the ene was like at Heinz ield when the game ended.

It is unbelievable that the teelers will face the Green ay Packers, the team that ominated football in I on't remember how many uper Bowls. But the way I emember it, it was every year for years. That was in the 1950s and 1960s. Then in the 1970s, the Steelers achieved that status.

What a wonderful dec- ade the 1970s were for "Steeler Nation." I can't remember a single playoff game they lost, including the one with the "Immaculate Reception." I think it was in 1973. It was only a lucky chance that we saw it, because a carload of us kids were on our way back to the University of Maryland, stopped by my aunt's house in Cumberland to have a pit stop, and it happened while we were there. Of course, they went on to win the Super Bowl.

Well, we have two weeks until another Super Bowl rolls in with the Steelers playing in it. Sorry about that, New York Jets. We got to see a player who was seriously injured many years ago with a spinal cord injury watch the coin toss with his former teammates. But he did not walk. I'm glad for him. Of course, a major spinal cord injury always means paralysis, and that is a dreadful thing to live with.

I did not get a chance to talk to many of Bittinger's other passionate Steelers fans. But there are many around here, including, but not limited to, the Glotfelty household, the Southerly family, the Ruggiero house- hold, Sam and Cindy Stanton, Lenny and Sally Poholsky, Denver Beitzel, Jack and Joan Beitzel... just about everyone except Gary Buckel, who leans toward Maryland-area teams like the Ravens and the Red- skins.

I heard that the Packers coach is a Pittsburgh native. This year, the theme of the Steelers' journey to another Super Bowl is "We are climbing the staircase to- ward number seven, one ring at a time."

It is very cold in Bittinger and our region because the jet stream dipped deeply to allow Arctic cold into the northern part of the USA. It is not the time to be slow to let my poor old Boo in, since she is almost 20 years old. That means that in hu- man terms she is around 140 years old.

Tomorrow, we will get some more snow, and the mercury will creep above the freezing point for a cou- ple of days. That is perhaps a small comfort, but it is something. But we are a long way away from Spring, even if Ground Hog Day is next week.

Boo's best friend Bilogo has been MIA for several weeks, but our other cat Tigger is trying to fill the void. Tigger is curled up beside Boo on her couch.

I must say I gave a big thumbs up to a recent GEICO Insurance commer- cial. Someone asked, "Was Abraham Lincoln honest?" His wife, dressed in the fashion of those days with a full skirt around the hips, asked him, "Does this make my backside look big?" He replied, "A bit."

A little humor never hurt anyone. Certainly not me. Especially in the last week of the month, when my bank account is pretty much drained. What I really need is more funds even more than a laugh. That is some- thing that's hard to find these days. Even my small stash of cash is pretty well gone, which is pretty scary. No, it's very scary. I cer- tainly cannot get any more heating oil. But I do have a pretty effective little electric heater which helps a good bit. At least the cost of the electricity is spread across months, not requiring a huge amount of money at one time like ordering fuel oil. I can't afford another delivery of oil before spring.

Anyone who watches real news should be able to understand why we need to examine their own views about who can get what kind of weapons and am- munition. And isn't it just common sense that we need a nationwide screening process? Anyone can buy a weapon in one state with lax gun regulations and take it across any number of state borders, which is ex- actly what is happening between Virginia and D.C., fueling a terrible gun vio- lence problem. How many incidents will it take to cause some people to think? We have seen enough al- ready.

Today is the 50th anni- versary of the inauguration of JFK, when he delivered that memorable speech with the words, "Ask not what your country can do for you; ask what you can do for your country." Even though we were about 7 years old, that still made a huge impact on me and my peers, inspiring kids to be service-oriented and desir- ing to make the world a better place. We wanted to make America live up to its founding value of equal opportunities for all, no matter what background you came from or what your race is. And JFK's brother-in-law Sargent Shriver died today at the age of 95.

He represented the best vision from his brother-in- law: service above all. He gave birth to the Peace Corps. It was a different version of America, with a thousand young inspired people spreading across the globe to the poorest nations to try to help lift them up.

I know too well, because my extremely talented youngest brother Scott choose to go after he gradu- ated from veterinary school, ignoring the promising job offers to volunteer in the Peace Corps. No one in his family was very supportive of his decision, since after long years of hard work he was ready to enter into a wonderful career. But he was a deeply adventurous soul with a huge loving heart. So he was happy to get an assignment in a West Africa nation, Togo, to help develop a meat production livestock sector, teaching the Togo people how to raise healthy meat animals, and setting guidelines for slaughterhouses so the meat would be fit to eat.

Most people are aware that a major point of pride for the nation of China is its endangered species, the Great Panda. The two pan- das that were a gift from China to America were able to successfully reproduce several times, and each birth is always a hot piece of news across America. But the original gift came with one detail. Any cub born in a foreign nation, especially male, had to be returned. That requirement was rolled back during the recent visit of the premier of China. He has allowed the male cub to stay at the National Zoo another five years, giving him time to perhaps breed successfully. That was a major boon for our Na- tional Zoo because the pan- das are always one of the most popular exhibits. And it is possibly significant evi- dence of good will by the Chinese people toward America.

Anyone who visits New York City knows that one of the most visited places is Chinatown. It is like a trip across the globe only a few blocks from Ground Zero. It has many wonderful Chi- nese residents, and all kinds of fascinating Chinese shops, including grocery and craft stores. Family members of Chinatown spread across the city, and into most major cities along the East Coast.

In my neighborhood, we had a nice take-out Chinese restaurant, and a very con- venient Chinese laundry where you could drop a trash bag full of dirty laun- dry on your way to work in

4-H TECHNO CLOVERS WIN – At the recent Delaware "Diamond State" FTC Championship, Team 4240, the 4-H Techno Clovers, received the title of Winning Alliance Captain, which secured them an invitation to the FTC World Championship. The Delaware event included 33 teams from Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, New York, and Rhode Island, as well as 54 FLL teams from Delaware and New Jersey and a Junior FLL team expo. This rookie robotics team competed recently in the MD FTC Championship, winning the Rockwell Collins Innovate Award, as well as Captain of the Finalist Alliance (second place). This did not earn them an invitation to the World Competition, so the team traveled to Delaware in another bid to secure their spot at Worlds. Throughout the day, the 4-H Techno Clovers remained undefeated. Seeded first, the team chose two teams as Alliance partners. The Alliance went on to win the competition, earning the Winning Alliance trophy. 4-H Techno Clovers note appreciation to Under the Son and Rhode Rage for competing with them, and recognized the "Landroids" for winning the Inspire Award. As the captain of the Winning Alliance, Techno Clovers have earned an invitation to the FTC World Festival in St. Louis, Mo. in April. In the months ahead, the team will continue to improve robot performance and programming. They have plans, along with their sister team, G-FORCE, to hold 4-H robotic trainings and workshops, and to continue to help with local SuGO Sundays and 4-H after-school programs. The team especially thanks G-FORCE for traveling to Delaware to cheer them on, and for all the support they've given this rookie team, as well as their sponsors, which include GEARS, Phenix Technologies, Garrett Co. 4-H, National 4-H Council, Craig & Associates, Beitzel Corporation, Pillar Innovations, Keith Handyside, and Don Battista. Persons who would like to support both Garrett County FTC robotics teams in their travels to the World Competition in St. Louis may contact Phil Malone at 301-387-2331. Northern Garrett Marching Band Working To Fund New Uniforms

The Northern Garrett Marching Band and its music boosters at Northern High School are now engaged in a uniform fund campaign. The marching band, which each year represents Garrett County in regional competitions and parades, has had the same uniforms for 10 years, and they are in a state of dire disrepair, a booster spokesperson said.

Uniforms have broken and missing buttons, ripped fabric, broken necks snaps, and multiple permanent stains and odors, the spokesperson said. There are not enough sizes to fit all band members, and during the 2009 and 2010 marching seasons, uniforms had to be pieced together in order for each band member to have a complete outfit.

"New uniforms would promote band and school unity, and improve self-esteem and perceived image," the spokesperson said. "This in turn would enhance overall performance. For these reasons, the Northern Garrett High School Band seeks funding for new band uniforms."

A design has been chosen (see photo), and the new uniforms must be ordered by March 15 in order to be ready for the regular marching season next fall. Each total uniform costs $418.45. That includes the following: hat ($43), plume ($17), coat ($185), jumpsuit ($85), bag ($10.50), Shako box ($8.95), and rain coat ($70).

Boosters expect there to be about 35 band members for the 2011 marching season. To compensate for additional members of various sizes in future years, the goal is to purchase 60 uniforms in the next year.

The boosters plan to order a minimum of 35 for the upcoming marching season by March 15, which will cost a total of $14,645.75, and another 25 to complete the wardrobe ($10,461.25), for a total of $25,107. The organization is requestlng grant funds of $17,000 to cover the remaining uniform expenses.

In the uniform fund drive, the band has sponsored numerous fundraisers, bake sales, and raffles; has operated concessions; and solicited donations from local businesses. However, as funding for the music department is limited, the funds raised by the boosters are used for a number of other expenses as well, such as purchasing music, repairing and maintaining instruments, and band transportation.

Despite these challenges, the band has managed to raise $7,400 to date toward the purchase of new uniforms.

"While some marching bands expect parents to cover the band members' uniform costs as a requirement for participating in band, Garrett County's median family income is only $45,000, compared to the state average of $70,000," the spokesperson said. "So, many students would simply be unable to participate if their families were expected to pay for their uniforms."

The boosters are asking for the public's support in the uniform effort. The boosters will acknowledge all contributors.

The band engages in a competitive season each fall, which requires intensive rehearsals for all members and staff, and also takes part in other annual events throughout the calendar year.

Northern competes with other high school bands in Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Some of the accomplishments of the Northern band program are as fol-

YOU KNOW WHEN THE MEN ARE GONE

by Siobhan Fallon

C. 2010, Amy Einhorn Books, $23.95; 240 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

Rumors have been flying around for days, but you don't need them to know that something's going on with the neighbors.

You have two eyes, and you can plainly see that he's deploying soon. He'll be gone for awhile, so he's fussing at the house, doing small chores, cleaning up, making sure she won't have to worry about anything. But she's worrying anyhow and – as you can see – crying an awful lot, too.

Wouldn't you like to know what goes on behind closed doors? Get a glimpse by reading the new novel, You Know When the Men Are Gone by Siobhan Fallon.

When you're an Army wife living on a base like Ft. Hood in Texas, you learn to get along with others, even though you might never see them again after this deployment. You'll be moving in six months or a year or two – but that doesn't mean you won't babysit in a pinch. That doesn't mean you won't watch one another's backs.

Sometimes, though, other wives have issues you can't fix. Sometimes, the Army does things you can't do anything about, like when they send women to a forward operating base. Single women, near a platoon filled with lonely husbands. Sometimes, things happen and you just don't want to know.

And then there are the times you do want to know. You'd be interested in talking to the soldier whose life your husband saved before he was killed by an IED. You'd want to hear about your husband's last minutes. You'd want to hang on to every memory you could.

And speaking of memories, just calling them up can keep a man sane over there.

All the time, he's thinking about his troops, himself, and making sure that neither gets hurt. He's dreaming about toilet paper, your smell, the kids, fresh socks balled up in a drawer, food that hasn't sat on a truck for six months. And he's thinking about a clean bed, and hoping that you're not sharing one with someone other than him…

Be careful where you are when you first pick up this book. Make sure there are comfy chairs around, good lighting, and you've got room in your schedule because you'll have an impossible time tearing yourself away from it once you start it. Briefly put, I was stunned at how incredible You Know When the Men Are Gone truly is.

The characters in this collection of short stories – each connected by the thinnest of threads – will put a lump in your throat after they've taken your breath away. Author Siobhan Fallon lived at Ft. Hood during her husband's two tours of duty, so she created those characters with the voice of one who's "been there." That lends a particular feeling of reality here, even though this is a work of fiction.

If you don't mind having your heart broken by a debut novel, You Know When the Men Are Gone is the one you want. To be sure, this is 2011's first can't-miss book.

the morning. Then on the way home, you could pick up a bag of clean, folded clothes for a few dollars. There is no doubt about the work ethic of Chinese Americans.

I got a rare glimpse into their lives in the mid-1970s, since my boyfriend at the time had a sister with a Chinese American boyfriend, a star football player at Silver Spring High School where they all attended. We were invited to a Chinese New Year's Party in Chinatown in D.C., including a view of the colorful parade that included large dragons, and an absolutely delicious buffet.

When the Washington, D.C., area reached full saturation with a Chinese restaurant in just about every neighborhood, their kids spread across Maryland. There are several nice Chinese restaurants in the area of Cumberland and Frostburg. We are lucky enough to have a nice one in Oakland, China Wok. Every time I make a trip to Oakland, I get take-out orders from them. Thus, I am able to enjoy quite easy dinners for a couple of weeks following.

Although we only got a little snow last week, the frigid air mass from Canada made Bittinger cruelly cold; enough that I was forced to order more heating oil, something I really could not afford. Then my furnace mysteriously did not work. But thank goodness for Tim Bender, who is knowledgeable about furnaces. He discovered a faulty electric panel and was able to fix it.

I can't believe the basketball game between the University of Maryland and Clemson is not on my television. That is a real shame, because former Garrett Community College basketball player Dick Bender of Grantsville is now on the coaching squad at Clemson. He is the son of Shirley and her late husband Dick Bender of Grantsville. He played at GCC before I started teaching there. I guess there was an article about his career, and he thanked coaches Tom Bosley and Dennis Gibson for giving him a good start.

Actually, I will get the game on DirecTV Comcast. It regularly covers big games in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Sheila Southerly is suffering some of the same symptoms I also experience. All the places where we have had pain are hurting now. If we are just sick of winter, that may cause pain in our butts, but not our head, legs, and back!

A pileated woodpecker returned to the Southerly yard on a different tree, another hemlock next to the previous one. The first tree was fully alive, but this tree is half dead. But in the first tree, he knocked three big holes. They are truly beautiful birds, and watching them work on a tree is pretty interesting and remarkable. They are not terribly common, even in this area, but once and again you get a chance to see one.

Happy news for folks around Bittinger: Brenneman's Store reopened, and it should be open around the year. I heard a rumor that they will sell chicken wings as well as pizza and sandwiches. But I guess I will have to wait for warmer weather for ice cream. Everyone in Bittinger needs to support this business, because it is a local asset.

It was strange to hear on the news today, Jan. 20, that it is the 20th anniversary of the first Gulf War, Desert Storm. While I was in the hospital giving birth to my youngest daughter, Meredith, I clearly remember watching the scud missile hit Baghdad on CNN, which I didn't have at home. But the fact is that Meredith turned 20 years old yesterday, Jan. 19. So no doubt it continued on the 20th.

It was as real shock to read about the death of another long-standing friend and fellow artist, Sophia McDonald. She is one of Garrett County's most successful homegrown painters. My brother Rodney has one of her paintings, a beautiful picture of the swamp along Rock Lodge Road.

I get the impression that she suffered a sudden stroke. I don't know whether a burst aneurism is more serious than a major, regular stroke. But Sophia died in Morgantown at Ruby Memorial Hospital, and I survived at Western Maryland Regional Medical Center in Cumberland. Both have highly qualified medical staffs.

I always hear that the first thing older readers turn to in their newspaper is the obituary section, because it might include some sad news about their friends. And I guess once we get close to the 60-year mark, it will get more and more common to see some old friends in that section. I think Sophia was 63 years old.

The first planning meeting of the 2011 Bittinger Lutheran Parish Vacation Bible School was held Sunday evening at the parsonage with a dinner. Classes will be held at Emmanuel on June 26 to 30 beginning at 6 p.m.

Those attending the planning meeting included Pastor and Cindy Richardson, Cindy Stanton, Wanda Reynolds, Vicki Teets, and Marvin Beckman.

The fifth Sunday joint service for the Bittinger Parish will be held this Sunday, Jan. 30, at 10 a.m. at St. John's. The church is located midway between Bittinger and Swanton near the intersection of Route 495 and Glendale Road.

Huskies Fall To Spartans, Rams; Rebound With Win Over Salisbury

The boys' varsity of Northern High School dropped a pair of Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference games this past week, falling to visiting Bishop Walsh last Wednesday, 86-71, and to visiting Southern on Friday, 64-48, but then got back into the win column with a 71-46 victory over Salisbury on Monday, also at the Cove.

The 1-2 week left the Huskies with an overall record of 5-7.

Bishop Walsh's Quincy Redmon provided the most trouble for the Huskies in last Wednesday's contest, as he recorded 24 points and grabbed 24 rebounds for the Spartans.

The Huskies fell behind 28-19 by the end of the first quarter, trailed 44-30 at intermission, and were down 60-49 going into the final stanza.

Matt Gibson paced the Huskies offensively, sinking 23 points, while Austin Doerr netted 15 and Tyler Wilt had 13.

Matching Redmon's point production for BW was teammate Pat Jones with 24 points, and Dylan D'Atri recorded 14. The win upped the Spartans' AMAC record to 6-2.

The Northern jayvees were topped in the first game, 46-39.

The details of Friday's loss to Southern can be found in the story about the Rams.

In the win over the Elks of Salisbury on Monday, the Huskies held a three-point lead at the end of the first quarter, 9-6, stretched their advantage to 29-20 by halftime, and took a 49-37 lead into the fourth period.

The Huskies poured it on in the final frame, stepping up on both offense and defense to out-score the Elks by a lopsided 22-9 margin to get the 25-point win.

Gibson again led the Huskies in scoring, as he finished with 19 points. Steven Holtschneider and Cody Humberson also reached double figures with 14 and 12 points, respectively. Gibson also recorded five steals and six assists, while Holtschneider provided five rebounds, five steals, and seven assists.

The Elks were led by Ryan Vogt with 18 points and Brandon Miller with 16.

The Huskies are scheduled to entertain Moorefield this evening, play at Fairmont Senior on Friday, travel to Keyser next Tuesday, and host Fort Hill next Thursday.

STILL PERFECT in Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference play is the Southern High School varsity boys' team, which recorded two more victories this past week. The Rams, currently the top-ranked team in the area, are 9-0 in AMAC games and 11-2 overall. These photos were taken during Tuesday's game against Frankfort, which the Rams dominated defensively and went on to record a 52-25 victory. Ram Calvin Hilliard, who netted 13 points, is pictured above mid-jump shot, while teammate Joe Kisselovich, who led the Rams in scoring with 19 points, tries to provide a screen. Rams Make It Seven Straight With Wins Over Northern And Frankfort

With two more victories this past week over Northern and Frankfort, the Southern High School boys' varsity maintained its grip on the #1 area ranking and stretched its current win streak to seven games.

Coach Jon Hegeman's squad continues to excel on defense, as the Rams defeated host Northern, 64-48, on Friday, and then held the visiting Frankfort Falcons to only 25 points in a 52-25 victory on Tuesday.

The pair of wins improved the Rams' overall record to 11-2 and kept their Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference mark perfect at 9-0.

The Rams jumped out to an early lead against the Northern Huskies on Friday and never looked back. They were up by 10 points, 16-6, at the end of the first quarter, led 33-16 at halftime, and took a comfortable 50-32 advantage into the final quarter.

Wyatt McBee emerged as the Rams' leading scorer, hitting 18 points in a balanced offensive team effort. Calvin Hilliard was close behind with 16 points, Joey Kisselovich netted 11, and D.J. Ritchie finished with 10. Kurt Gangler just missed double figures with nine points.

Matt Gibson hit a game high 19 points for the Huskies, with all of his points being recorded in the second half. He was the only member of his team who reached the double-figure level.

The loss dropped Northern to 4-7.

The Southern junior varsity team won the first game.

Kisselovich was the top offensive player for the Rams in their win over Frankfort on Tuesday, as he finished with 19 points. Hilliard reached double figures as well, netting 13 points.

The tenacious Ram defense did not allow any of the Falcons to score more than five points, with Jordan Wilson being the only player to hit that many.

Once again, the Rams seized control of the contest early and held quarter leads of 16-6, 33-14, and 46-20.

The Ram jayvee team topped the Frankfort jayvees in the first game, 41-37, behind an 11-point effort by Kyle Sherbin. Hitting a game-high 13 points was Frankfort's Colby Joiner, while teammate Ben Brown netted 11.

Southern is scheduled to play at Preston this Friday evening.

Lakers Stop Germantown, Jayvees Of St. Mary's To Up Record To 12-7

The men's basketball team of Garrett College improved its record to 12-7 this past week with a Maryland JUCO, 96-78 victory over visiting Montgomery-Germantown on Saturday and an 84-68 win over the junior varsity of St. Mary's College of Maryland on Sunday, also on the Lakers' court. The victories halted a two-game losing streak for the Lakers.

Rodney Clark and Callum Jenkins spearheaded the Lakers' effort against Germantown. Clark recorded 19 points, eight rebounds, and six steals, while Jenkins also finished with 19 points and pulled down 11 rebounds. Jordan Gipson, Theo Dubuche, and Kory Gibson also scored in double figures with 17, 14, and 10 points, respectively.

"Our play was not real consistent," said GC head coach Dennis Gibson, "but it was nice to get the early lead and play in front of a nice crowd back at home."

The Lakers held a 59-40 lead at the break. The win evened their JUCO mark at 5-5.

Netting a game-high 26 points was Germantown's Kenin Thompkins. Tee Talley scored 16, V. Aguqua finished with 12 points, and Patrick Rencher contributed 11.

Clark was the big gun for the Lakers against the St. Mary's jayvees as well on Sunday, as he recorded 23 points, seven assists, and a pair of steals.

Gipson netted 19 points, Theo Dubuche hit 13, and Vlad Vukovic scored a dozen points. Jenkins grabbed 12 rebounds and chipped in with eight points.

The Lakers were without Kory Gibson, Frank Holloway, and Jeff Stem because of injuries. They trailed much of the first half, but held a four-point edge, 42-38, at the break. After some halftime adjustments by Coach Gibson and the Lakers responding accordingly, they were able to steadily pull away throughout the second half.

"Playing the night before made it pretty tough, at least in the first half," Gibson said. "Plus St. Mary's has some fine players. Playing jayvees does not necessarily mean it's going to be an easy win."

Ken Wise scored 23 points to lead St. Mary's. Mike Fowler and Brendan McFall each finished with 12 points.

The Lakers were slated to play at Southern Maryland last night, but that game was postponed because of weather conditions. They are scheduled to travel to Montgomery Rockville this Saturday, play at Potomac State next Monday, and host CCBC Dundalk next Wednesday in a 7 p.m. start.

agencies to purchase American-made uniforms, as well as safety equipment and protective accessories.

"I am, once again, honored to present this bill for the committee's consideration," Beitzel said. "I believe that it is a bill that can have a real benefit for the state of Maryland and its workers. The taxpayers should know that Maryland is doing all that it can to buy American-made products first."

He added that the bill recognizes Maryland's difficult economic climate and stipulates that the procurement officer of a particular department is exempted from the provisions of the bill if an item of comparable price, quality, or quantity is not available within the United States.

Any interested party wishing to testify on this measure, either in person or by written testimony, may contact Beitzel's Annapolis office at 410-841-3439. Written testimony must be submitted no later than 10 a.m. on Feb. 1, in order to be considered by the committee.

In the last three minutes of regulation, McKenzie scored a pair of three-pointers and hit two field goals in four straight possessions. Her effort broke a tied game open for Northern and led it to a 66-56 road victory. In the picture below Husky senior Morgan Brosnihan (23) is seen beating her defender and elevating for three. McKenzie's Late Surge Puts NHS Over Mtn. Ridge

The Northern High School girls' basketball team earned a big win on the road Monday against Mountain Ridge, 66-56. Senior Terra McKenzie took control of the fourth quarter for the Huskies, and scored 10 points in four straight possessions with only three minutes left in regulation, effectively breaking the tied score and the will of the Miners.

The Huskies took a 21-9 lead after the first quarter, led 32-25 at the half, and 45-39 after three periods. Mountain Ridge, however, went on a 13 to 7 point run to tie the score at 52 with 3:20 left before McKenzie got hot and led Northern out of the fourth, and out of Frostburg, with the win.

The Miners received a 22-point, 12-rebound performance from Shae Winner, and teammate Madi Nightengale scored 14 points.

Northern won the junior varsity game, 39-24. Caroline Bergstrom scored seven for Northern, while Sarah Robinson had 13 points for the Miners.

The Huskies (8-3 overall, 6-1 AMAC) are set to host Bishop Walsh on Monday at 6 p.m.

Rams Storm Fort Hill On The Road, Suffer Tough Home Loss To Allegany

The Southern girls' basketball team stayed dormant in the first half of play against host Fort Hill, but erupted in the third quarter, claiming the lead and eventually the game, 44-33.

Hosting Allegany, it was the Rams who fell in the second half and lost by a margin of 46-30, as they allowed the Campers to slip away with a game that was notched at the half, 14-14.

In a low-scoring first quarter, the Rams took an early lead over Fort Hill, 6-4, but lost it in the next period, in which the Sentinels took a 19-15 advantage into the half.

In the third quarter, Southern began to apply the offensive pressure and outscored Fort Hill by a margin of 14 to 4. The Rams carried this momentum into the final quarter and, at the end of regulation, rolled out of Cumberland with the win.

Alli Shaffer scored 15 points and was the only player to score in double figures. Mandy Swetizer finished with nine points and Alycia Horner added eight.

For the Sentinels, Alyssia Twigg scored eight points and eight rebounds. Kayla Hudson also scored eight points.

In the jayvee game, Raeslee Weimer scored 24 points during Southern's 41-38 victory. Sarah Lowery had 17 points for Fort Hill.

For the first half of their home game against Allegany the Rams kept the contest close, but lost the third and fourth quarters 19-6 and 13-10, respectively.

Campers Leah Wormack and Brooke Wharton managed to find the chinks in Southern's armor during the second half, as Wormack scored eight points in the third quarter, and Wharton had seven.

The Rams (6-6, 5-3) were led by Shaffer and Sweitzer with eight points apiece.

Wormack led Allegany with 18 points, while Wharton totaled nine.

Southern exacted a little revenge and won the jayvee game, 37-20, as Weimer scored 14 points and Alicia Roth had 11.

Huskies Upset Previously Unbeaten Wildcats, Win Catoctin Duals Title

It was a good week for the Northern High School wrestling team, at least until Tuesday when the Huskies were edged by visiting Fort Hill, 39-35.

The Huskies defeated previously unbeaten Williamsport last Thursday, 38-32, and then captured the team championship at the Catoctin Duals over the weekend.

At Catoctin, the Huskies defeated Magruder, 46-30; Linganore, 62-12; Oakdale, 69-12; Mountain Ridge, 39-33; Catoctin, 58-18; Grandby (Va.), 43-25; Damascus, 40-28; and Frederick, 68-6.

In the victory over host Williamsport last Thursday, the following Huskies won their matches via pinfalls: Cody Osselburn in the 119-pound division, Carlos Howard at 130 pounds, Jason Opel at 171, Nick Owens at 189, and Anthony Cervi at 215.

Gaining decision victories for the Huskies were Adam Finzel at 125 pounds, Matt Thomas at 140, and Brandon Platter in the heavyweight division.

The Huskies trailed the 16-0 Wildcats 33-20 with three matches remaining. Opel won by pin in just 15 seconds to make it 33-26, and Owens followed with a pin to close the gap to 33-32.

Northern's Cervi and Chauncey Taylor were tied at 2-2 going into the third period of the final match (215 pounds), but Cervi gained a pin with just 10 seconds left to give the win to the Huskies.

In the Catoctin Duals, the Huskies finished 9-0, Mountain Ridge was second with an 8-1 mark, losing only to the Huskies, and Magruder was third with a 7-2 finish.

Going undefeated for the Huskies with 9-0 records were Adam Finzel (125), Matt Thomas (140), Nick Owens (171), and Jason Opel (189), with Opel winning eight of his nine matches by pin.

Huskies finishing with 8-1 personal records were Scott Warnick (112) and Cody Osselburn (119), while Brandon Platter finished 7-2.

In the deciding match over Mountain Ridge, Howard, Thomas, Owens, and Osselburn all won on pins, while Warnick gained a technical fall, Finzel won by major decision, and Sean Kamp (152) and Opel were both decision victors.

In the narrow loss to Fort Hill on Tuesday, Kameron Kamp (152), Opel, and Osselburn won on pins for the Huskies, Thomas and Finzel recorded major decisions, Cervi was a decision winner, and Scott Warnick (112) was awarded a forfeit.

Sentinels who won by pinfalls were Tyler Atkinson (130), Noah Candler (145), James Bender (160), Robert Vincent (171), and Roger Dawson (285).

The Huskies, who are now 15-4 for the season, are scheduled to participate in the Bedford Tournament this weekend and travel to Southern next Thursday.

HUSKY GRAPPLERS WIN TOURNAMENT – The Northern High School wrestling team won the team championship trophy in the Catoctin Dual Tournament this past weekend by defeating nine other teams, including Mountain Ridge. The Huskies also defeated previously unbeaten Williamsport, a team that came into the match with a 16-0 record. The week concluded on a bit of a disappointing note for the Huskies and their fans, however, as they were edged in a match with Fort Hill, action of which is pictured here. Hold Session slowly in this process, and we will continue to do so until we're comfortable that an application will cover all the necessary points," Sachs said.

He said the public would be given many opportunities to comment and raise questions during the permitting process. Sachs encouraged the audience members to contact his office about their concerns.

"A drilling permit is more than just punching a hole in the ground," Sachs said.

Currently, applicants must also obtain water appropriation, wetlands, and waterway construction permits, as well as address such issues as adjoining properties, liability insurance, performance bonding, mineral rights, oil spills, hydraulic fracturing chemicals, flowback water, well casing and cement, and wastewater disposal.

"This is what we've come up with so far," Sachs said, indicating there would be more requirements in store for applicants.

He also indicated that a permit fee would be high enough to cover the cost of hiring/contracting drilling inspectors.

"We're going to do this better than Pennsylvania," Sachs said about regulating drilling in Maryland.

Kristi Gittins, vice president of public affairs for Chief Oil and Gas, reviewed her company's drilling procedures. After a permit is obtained and the pad is prepared, drilling begins.

"That process typically takes 15 to 21 days when we've been in an area drilling," she said. "In a new area, such as this, we like to perform a lot of tests, and drilling a well can take 30 to 45 days, and maybe even a little bit longer."

After the gas well is vertically drilled, that equipment completely leaves the site and the hydraulic fracturing stimulation equipment comes in.

"That's a whole separate process from drilling, and I think that's one of the common misconceptions," she said about "fracking."

Gittins noted it "may be a while" before fracking actually begins because her company likes to see what is "down the hole" and "run a lot of tests" before that stage begins. The fracture process itself takes about seven to 10 days, depending on the length of the horizontal line and the stages that Chief performs, she noted.

"Then that equipment disappears," Gittins said. "And all that's left on site is a well head that's about 10 feet tall."

She indicated that an entire year may pass before the next stage, pipeline construction, begins.

"You don't set a pipeline line route, buy a right of way, and work on building a pipeline until you have a gas well that you know is capable of producing gas," Gittins said. "It costs a $1 million a mile to lay pipeline. In our leases, a lot of them have clauses that give us the right to lay a pipeline on that lease to get the gas to market, but we don't have a pipeline route established when we're drilling a well, because we don't know if that well is going to produce gas."

After the pipeline is connected to the well, the reclamation stage begins, which includes planting native vegetation on the site, according to Gittins.

"If we're in a developed area, we like for these processes to go one, two, three, real close together," she said about the various stages at a drilling site. "In a new area – in some parts of the Marcellus, even in new counties, and certainly here in Maryland, if and when we get a permit to drill that first well – there'll be a good bit of time in between those processes."

Terry Bossert, Chief's vice president of government affair, said water for the Guard site would be purchased from Preston County (W.Va.) Public Service District No. 4, rather than taken from nearby Yough Lake.

"Frankly, we do a lot of this in Pennsylvania," Bossert said about purchasing water. "Public water entities that have allocations and have extra capacity, they see it as a revenue source."

He said Preston County has agreed to sell Chief a certain amount of water per day, except in the event of a drought. If a water shortage occurs, Preston customers would be supplied first.

The company plans to bring the water to the Guard site over a period of time and store it in an impoundment.

"You'll hear some people refer to these as 'frack impoundments,'" Bossert said. "I want you to be clear, for Chief, those impoundments hold only fresh water. The water is used when we do the fracking, which is why it's called a frack impoundment, but there is no flowback water in it, only fresh water."

He said Chief uses a closed-loop drilling system in which the flowback water from the fracking process is piped directly into steel tanks and hauled to a treatment facility.

"There are several facilities in Pennsylvania that treat the water," Bossert said. "Basically they treat it to a certain stage, and then they store it. Then we, or other companies, can use what our guys call 'clean salty water' to fracture another well. So, we try to recycle as much of the water as we can."

He noted that Marcellus shale is about 4,000 to 6,000 feet below the surface in Pennsylvania. In Garrett County, it is nearly 9,000 feet underground. Bossert described how his company uses cemented "three-string" cases in its drilling/fracturing process.

"When the fresh water zone is penetrated there will be three layers of steel casing separating the gas, whether it's the gas we produce or stray gas, from the groundwater table," Bossert said.

Audience members cited cases of methane gas migrating into water tables at Pennsylvania drilling sites.

"As far as I know, none of those methane migration cases have involved fracturing," Bossert said. "What they have involved is drilling through the fresh-water aquifer. And, frankly, that can happen whether you drill a water well, whether you drill a geo-thermal source well, anything that happens to intersect these, not the Marcellus gas, but these shallow gas lenses that exist throughout the geology in certain areas."

He said some companies, fortunately not Chief, have been surprised at finding stray gas lenses in parts of Pennsylvania.

Commissioner Crawford thanked residents for attending the meeting and listening to the information.

"I'm learning a tremendous amount, and I hope you all are, too," he said.

The commissioners' next public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Feb. 1, at 9 a.m. at the courthouse.

Better Design for a Lifetime

According to the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB), accessible design is more than just grab bars; it's about catering to easier living. It's all about how you live. Wider doorways are more convenient for parents with children in strollers or someone who needs handicapped accessibility. It's easier to wash the dog in a roll-in shower than a traditional bathtub.

While houses are getting smaller, the inside space layout has function in mind. New trends include at least 48 inches of maneuvering space between counters and a kitchen's center island, as well as in hallways.

Kitchens today are all about function first; but bigger is not necessarily better. These days, kitchen counters are at a slightly lower height so the space becomes a multifunctional workspace for a laptop or other projects. A functional kitchen is ergonomically designed to work smarter, not harder. Dish drawers are a fabulous storage feature, making it about convenience and moving away from traditional kitchen storage. In most homes today, more than one person in the household cooks; therefore, the universal function is multi-faceted. Kitchens that operate with multiple tasks going on at the same time are more appealing to today's buyers. Features that offer function can be profound selling tools, according to residential designer experts.

Same-Sex Marriage Could Pass But Referendum Likely Awaits

by Maggie Clark
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – More than 20 legislators and dozens of advocates announced the filing of the Religious Freedom and Civil Marriage Protection Act Tuesday in what many believe is the best political climate ever for getting Maryland to join five other states and the District of Columbia in allowing same-sex marriage.

The bill would redefine marriage from "between a man and woman" to "between two individuals." It would not require religious officials to perform same-sex marriages if it contradicts their beliefs.

The bill has 18 sponsors in the Senate and 17 sponsors in the House, and the support of the governor, who has previously said he would sign marriage equality legislation. Still, even if the bill passes, it's likely that opponents would get the necessary 53,650 signatures required to put the issue to a voter referendum, which so far has proved to be the kiss of death for marriage equality in other states.

However, a new poll released by Gonzales Research and Marketing shows that 51 percent of Maryland voters support full marriage rights for same-sex couples, including full legal rights and the same tax exemptions, inheritance and pension coverage as heterosexual couples.

In the same poll, 44 percent of respondents opposed marriage rights and 5 percent did not respond.

These new poll numbers offer a ray of hope for advocates of marriage equality in Maryland. Sen. Richard Madaleno, D-Montgomery, a sponsor and one of the four openly gay members of the General Assembly, said he is hopeful that if the bill goes to voters in a referendum, it will pass.

"Polling data is all trending in our favor ... I think you see a lot of people, especially on the Democratic side, trending our way if they're not already there," Madaleno said.

"We've been making the case for a long time and I think people are finally catching on to this, saying 'I understand this is an issue of fairness and equality for same-gender couples,'" Madaleno said.

Tim Magrath, a lecturer in political science at Frostburg State University and a former congressional staffer, agrees that the national attitude toward same-sex marriage is changing.

"The polling data's been incredible, the numbers have completely turned around," said Magrath. "In the '90s when (President) Clinton first started talking about gays in the military, the approval rating was in the 30s, but now a vast majority of people support the idea of gays in the military.

"Public perception on marriage has been transformed in the last decade as well, and there's been a major transformation in public opinion," said Magrath.

Despite the turn of public opinion, Magrath is skeptical that a majority of voters would come out in favor of same-sex marriage.

"Generally, public officials are more flexible or willing to see all sides on an issue, and the electorate generally is not," said Magrath.

"I think there would be a major push from the Republicans to get it (same-sex marriage) on the ballot because it would increase voter turnout among conservatives ... This is an issue that resonates with many people, especially in western Maryland," Magrath added.

House Minority Leader Anthony J. O'Donnell, R-Calvert, who has been an opponent of same-sex marriage in Maryland, thinks voters will demand a referendum on the issue.

"The citizens would have to decide if they want to change the definition of marriage. People in California thought that it (same-sex marriage) would pass in a referendum but look what happened there," O'Donnell said.

Senate Introduces Bill Requiring Driver's License ID of Sex Offenders

by Holly Nunn
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – State Sen. Richard F. Colburn wants to make sure police officers in Maryland know what they're dealing with when they stop a sex offender on the road, especially if that sex offender has a child in the car.

Colburn, R-Dorchester, has introduced legislation this year that would require that driver's licenses display a code identifying sex offenders to law enforcement.

"I believe that if we're serious about cracking down on sex offenders, we need to give our police officers this tool," Colburn said.

Colburn introduced a similar measure last year during a flurry of legislative activity on sex offenders in response to the December 2009 rape and murder of 11-year-old Sarah Foxwell in Wicomico County. A registered sex offender has been charged with the crime.

The 2010 legislation passed the Senate but died in conference committee due to concerns that the amendment had not been properly vetted and that it could lead to violation of offenders' rights.

The American Civil Liberties Union has been among those opposed to such legislation, calling any mark on an identification card "a scarlet letter" and an unnecessary measure.

David Walsh-Little, a public defender and member of Maryland's Sex Offender Advisory Board, said the mark would have the effect of "marginalizing people who need treatment in a society that needs education about sex offenses."

Colburn said that the code, placed on a sex offender's driver's license by the Motor Vehicle Administration, could be read only by law enforcement. And that might be enough to convince other legislators to support the bill.

"If Sen. Colburn brings it back to the Judicial Proceedings Committee, and it's in a code that's only discernible to police officers, it has my support," said Sen. James Brochin, D-Baltimore County, and a member of that committee. "Because I think that's a win-win."

Colburn is unsure of how exactly the bill would be implemented, but Wico-mico County Sheriff Mike Lewis, who led the search for Sarah Foxwell and worked with Colburn on the legislation, said there are a couple of ways it could be marked on the license – either in the bar code or with a small, lettered caution code, similar to the marking for drivers with corrective lenses.

Lewis said that such marks would give his officers an additional level of awareness when pulling over sex offenders.

"I have every right, actually I have a duty, to ask that sex offender additional questions if he has a child in the car," Lewis said. Investigators believe that Sarah Foxwell was driven throughout Wicomico County the night of her disappearance.

Similar legislation has been considered in Connecticut and California. A few states, including Delaware, Louisiana, and Tennessee, already have laws for marking the driver's licenses of sex offenders.

NEW GARB FOR NORTHERN BAND – The Northern Garrett Marching Band is currently engaged in a new uniform campaign, and the new duds are shown above on model (and member) Cory Spiker. The cost of one entire uniform, which includes several accessories (see story), is $418.45. The band needs a total of 60 uniforms in the long-range plan, and is striving to purchase at least 35 in time for the next competitive marching season in the fall. Businesses, individuals, and organizations are encouraged to consider helping the hard-working group achieve the goal. See story for details.

Major Fundraisers Scheduled During "HART Month"

HART for Animals is making February its own. To celebrate the month and continue to raise funds for the projected groundbreaking for the Adoption Center along Bumble Bee Road in the spring, HART will hold a Hound Dog Hoedown Dance on Saturday, Feb. 12, at the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad hall in Mtn. Lake Park; an expanded "Fifteen for Felines" program to neuter male cats at the HART Clinic on Tuesday, Feb. 22, as part of a nationwide Spay/Neuter Day; and a Texas Hold 'Em Poker Tournament on Saturday, Feb. 26, at the Elks Lodge in Oakland.

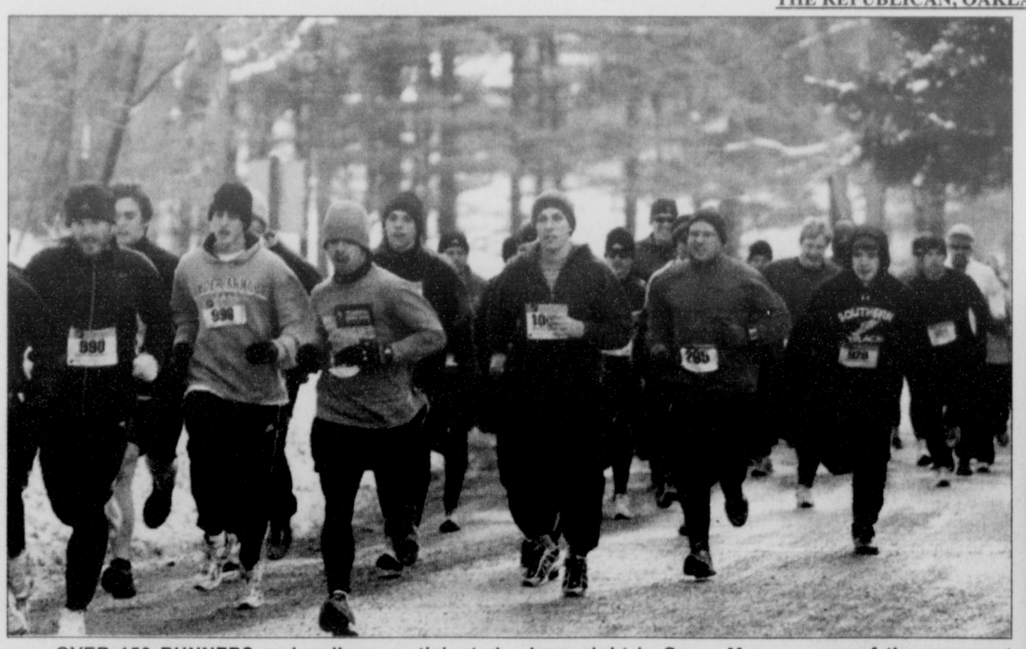
The Hound Dog Hoedown Dance, scheduled from 6 to 11 p.m., will include dinner and beer, with a cash bar, Jimmy B as the country DJ, and a "down-home meal" of barbecued pork, potato salad, and "all the trimmings."

Tickets will go on sale at $25 per person this weekend and can be purchased in advance at Arrowhead or the Spay/Neuter Clinic in the McHenry Plaza.

For additional information, persons may call Beverly Haines at 301-387-9629. On the day of the dance, people can also pay at the door on a space-available basis.

Tickets are still available for the "Top Dog Texas Hold 'Em Tournament," which will take place at the Elks Lodge, located at 527 Hamill Street. The event starts with dinner and sign-in at 4 p.m.

The entry fee is $100, with an estimated payout of $2,000 for first prize, if 100 tickets are sold. Tickets can be purchased at Winner's Circle convenience center in Mtn. Lake Park or at the HART Spay/Neuter Clinic in McHenry Plaza. For additional information, one may call 301-616-3716.



OVER 150 RUNNERS and walkers participated in the annual Snowflake Chase in McHenry on Jan. 15, sponsored by the men's and women's basketball programs of Garrett College. The weather conditions were chilly, but dry, awards were plentiful, and all participants were treated to a complimentary pizza buffet by Uno Restaurant following the race. Members of the Laker teams helped set up for the race, handed out water, and directed runners/walkers to the finish line. The event proceeds went to the David K. Martin Legacy Project, established in memory of the late Martin, who was the men's assistant basketball coach for many years. The photo above was taken just at the start of the race at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Off and running above right is Grace Mowery, one of the youngest participants. The overall winner of the race was 23-year-old Daniel DeWitt, who recorded a time of 29:01, while Jeremy Rice, 28, placed second with a time of 30:12. Line Lauristen, 28, was the fastest female runner, recording a time of 34:05 and edging out runner-up Jen Sober, 37, who finished in 34:12. In the masters' category, Dennis Mickey, 45, was the winner in 31:08, while Jane Rossi, 45, won for the women in 42:17. Ken Bane, 46, won the men's walk (19:30), and Amy Azzi, 46, was the fastest female walker (19:03). Photos courtesy of tristaterunner.com.

"The previous poker tournaments helped HART raise $8,541 for the HART building fund in 2010," said tournament chairperson Candy DeGiovanni. "They are a lot of fun, and they bring us closer to our goal. So, join us on the 26th."

The HART Spay/Neuter Clinic is repeating its low-cost neutering of male cats and has begun to take appointments for Feb. 22, the day set aside by the Humane Society of the United States to promote the spaying/neutering of all companion animals as a way to prevent pet overpopulation, which is a core reason for the euthanasia of millions of animals in the U.S.

HART for Animals Inc. is a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization. For additional information on these fundraisers, HART's programs, and the Spay/Neuter Clinic, persons may visit hartforanimals.org or call 301-387-SPAY (7729).

IRS Will Begin Delayed Returns Starting Feb. 14

The Internal Revenue Service plans a Feb. 14 start date for processing tax returns delayed by last month's tax law changes. The IRS remind taxpayers affected by the delay they may begin preparing their tax returns immediately because many software providers are now ready to accept them.

On Feb. 14, the IRS will start processing both paper and e-filed returns claiming itemized deductions on Schedule A, the higher education tuition and fees deduction on Form 8917, and the educator expenses deduction. Based on filings last year, about 9 million tax returns claimed any of these deductions on returns received by the IRS before Feb. 14.

People using e-filing for these delayed forms can get a head start because many major software providers have announced they will accept these impacted returns immediately. The software providers will hold onto the returns and then electronically submit them after the IRS systems open on Feb. 14 for the delayed forms.

Taxpayers using commercial software can check with their providers for specific instructions. Those who use a paid tax preparer should check with their preparer, who also may be holding returns until the updates are complete.

Most other returns, including those claiming the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC), education tax credits, child tax credit, and other popular tax breaks, can be filed as normal, immediately.

The IRS states that it needed the extra time to update its systems to accommodate the tax law changes without disrupting other operations tied to the filing season. The delay followed the Dec. 17 enactment of the Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization, and Job Creation Act of 2010, which extended a number of expiring provisions including the state and local sales tax deduction, higher education tuition and fees deduction, and educator expenses deduction.

DNR Signs Memorandum To Help Maintain Healthy State Forests

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has signed a groundbreaking Memorandum of Understanding with six other federal and state agencies dedicated to keeping healthy and productive forests throughout the state.

"By improving how our partnerships function, and improving how we plan the delivery of our respective programs, we anticipate the forest landowner will get better service and working landscapes will benefit," said Steve Koehn, state forester for DNR. "Better forest management results in more benefits for all Marylanders: healthy forests boost local economies, clean our air, filter our water, regulate temperatures, provide habitat for wildlife, and provide pleasant greenscapes for our everyday activities."

Additional partnering agencies include: the Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards, the Maryland Association of Soil Conservation Districts, the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the University of Maryland Extension, and the United States Departments of Agriculture Forest Service, and Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS).

Under this agreement, the agencies will work together to be more effective in providing forest owners and managers with technical and financial assistance to improve the health, diversity and production of forests on privately owned lands – 76% of all forests in Maryland.

"The Maryland NRCS looks forward to working closely with the Maryland Forest Service and the rest of the cooperating agencies to advance healthy working forests that improve water quality in the Chesapeake Bay while helping to build rural wealth," said Jon Hall, state conservationist for the local NRCS office.

The memorandum identifies the following four areas to focus immediate attention: addressing the shortage of technical experts available to meet the demands from the 187,000 private forest owners in Maryland; integrating programming between the agencies to make it easy for forest owners to participate in technical and financial assistance programs; demonstrating that funding on-the-ground forestry and agroforestry projects is a good investment in our future economy and environment; and cross-training the staffs of the respective organizations.

Each of the signatories brings unique and complementary roles to the partnership:

•DNR's Forest Service has the primary leadership role for all forestry programs in the state.

•The Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards assists the Forest Service with the promotion of rural forest management and helps assure a supply of wood fiber products through scientific forest management.

•Soil Conservation Districts carry out natural resource management at the local level and are recognized as the delivery system for soil conservation and water quality programs, often acting as a liaison between private landowners and government assistance programs.

•The Maryland Department of Agriculture provides leadership and support regarding agriculture to the citizens of Maryland by conducting regulatory, technical and financial assistance programs, and educational activities that assure consumer confidence, protect the environment, improve conservation and natural resource management, and promote agriculture.

•The University of Maryland Extension provides primary leadership in forestry related educational programs, outreach, and applied research and demonstrations for both private landowners and professional natural resource managers. They also provide research and educational support related to conservation and natural resource management on all working lands, including agricultural lands.

•The U.S. Forest Service, Northeastern Area State and Private Forestry, works cooperatively with other federal, state, local governments, institutions of higher learning, and profit and non-profit organizations to provide forestry leadership, and financial and technical assistance.

•NRCS works in partnership with America's private land owners and managers to conserve and sustain soil, water, and other natural resources.

THE SPIRIT OF Timelessness

Cathedrals are amazing feats of architecture and construction, intended as monuments to God's glory. Ages old, they are powerful and imposing structures that still stand stately and sure, undefiled by change. With God as our foundation, we, too, can possess spiritual beauty, strength, and stability. Build your life on faith in His promises this week as you worship in His house. Your spirit will be timeless.

Sorcery

The fifth of the works of the flesh mentioned by Paul in his epistle to the Galatians is sorcery, which is a translation of the Greek word "pharmakeia." The word "pharmakeia" may be translated as sorcery, and interestingly, is also the Greek word from which the English words pharmacy and pharmacist are derived. The connection stems from the fact that sorcerers in the ancient world often used drugs or potions to "cast spells" or create altered states of consciousness such as trances. This practice continues today, and is akin to those who use hallucinogenic drugs to alter consciousness. While most people who use drugs recreationally probably don't think of themselves as sorcerers, the fact remains that anytime you use chemical substances (including alcohol) to alter your consciousness, you are opening your mind to questionable influences. And when you give drugs or alcohol to others you are, in a sense, casting a spell over them. So while most of us aren't intentionally practicing witchcraft, we are doing something akin to sorcery anytime we use mind-altering drugs. The proper use of drugs is to help the body heal or relieve mental or bodily discomfort, and not to alter normal states of consciousness. We should consider whether the use of drugs or alcohol is casting a spell over our lives.

Blessed are those who wash their robes, that they may have the right to the tree of life and that they may enter the city by the gates. Outside are the dogs and sorcerers and fornicators and murderers and idolaters, and every one who loves and practices falsehood.s in water face answers to face,so the mind of man reflects the man.

FEBRUARY SUN – As February begins, the sun appears in front of the stars of Capricornus, moving a degree a day eastward relative to the stars. The sun moves into the star group Aquarius in the sun's glare. The star group Pisces can be seen low in the southwestern dusk; the planet Jupiter is in western Pisces. On the other side of the sun is the star group Sagittarius, appearing briefly in the southeastern dawn sky. In early February, sunrises in Garrett County are at about 7:20 a.m., while sunsets are at about 5:40 p.m. (10.3 hours of daylight). Around the end of February, Garrett County's sunrises are at about 6:55 a.m. and sunsets occur at about 6:05 p.m. (11.2 hours of daylight). So during February, the brighter stars are last seen around 6:10 a.m. (early dawn) and then reappear about 6:50 p.m. (late dusk).

FEBRUARY MOON – On Feb. 1, the moon appears as a razor-sharp crescent very low in the southeastern dawn sky. On the evening of Feb. 2, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. On Feb. 5, a very slender moon may be seen low in the 6:40 p.m. western dusk. On the next evening, the crescent moon will appear to the right of the bright planet Jupiter. The evening moon will appear half full on the evening of Feb. 10. For a few days before and after this date, the moon's craters and mountain peak appear at their best through a telescope or binoculars held steadily. For along the left edge of the lighted moon, the rising sun catches the raised rims of the craters and mountain peaks while their surroundings are still in darkness. The moon appears fullest on the evening of Feb. 17, then appearing to the right of the sickle of Leo. Just before midnight on Feb. 20, the moon can be seen near the planet Saturn low in the east. On Feb. 24, the moon will be rising after midnight and appear half full (like a reversed "D") in the southern dawn. On the morning of Feb. 28, the crescent moon appears near the brilliant planet Venus low in the southeastern dawn.

FEBRUARY PLANETS – The five nearest planets are easily seen by eye during the year, four of them shining steadily in contrast to the twinkling stars. (Mercury, only seen close to the horizon, may flicker as heat currents move past it.) Mercury is at a low angle to the sun all month and lost in the sun's glare. The brilliant planet Venus appears in the southeastern dawn. At the start of February, Venus rises three hours ahead of the sun, which drops to two hours at the end of the month. Mars, on the far side of its orbit, is at a low angle to the sun; Mars will again be visible in the eastern dawn this summer. The bright planet Jupiter appears low in the western dusk; during February, Jupiter's setting time drops from about 9:40 p.m. (early in the month) to about 8:15 p.m. (at month's end). In February, the planet Saturn moves from the midnight sky (early February) to the mid evening hours (end of February). At month's end, Saturn will be rising in the southeast at about 9 p.m. Good views of Saturn's rings through a telescope then are best around midnight when Saturn is high enough in the sky.

JANUARY STARS – The Big Dipper can be seen in the north-northeast with its scoop on top. The two topmost stars point left to the North Star, a modest star suspended about halfway up in the north. (As the night hours pass, all the stars, planets, and the moon seem to move in circular paths, centered on the North Star. (This illusion is caused by the Earth's North Pole very nearly aimed at this star.) About halfway up in the north-northwest is Cassiopeia, a zig-zag pattern of five moderately bright stars. Orion, the night sky's brightest star group, peaks in the south in the early evening hours of February. Orion resembles an hour glass with two bright stars on top for the shoulders, three stars in a row for the belt, and two bright stars for the feet. Orion's belt points down and left to Sirius, the night's brightest star. The second brightest evening star is golden Capella, seen nearly overhead.

FEBRUARY PROGRAMS – The Frostburg State Planetarium is open most Sundays, with free programs starting at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. on Feb. 6, 13, 20, and 27. The Planetarium is in Tawes Hall 203, across the street from the Compton Science Center and near the Performing Arts Center. The February program is titled "The End of Everything," considering scientific scenarios of the end of humanity, life on Earth, the inner planets, and the end of the universe. Also included is an introduction to the winter evening skies. Persons are advised to come early, as seating visitors after the program starts is difficult. Also featured is a tour of the Science Discovery Center at 5 p.m. and 8 p.m., where there is a large display of preserved animals from five different continents. To receive a Planetarium schedule (or bookmark), persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and give name and mailing address. Persons may also access the Planetarium section of the Frostburg State web site at www.frostburg.edu/planetarium.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for those who like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards.

DNR Promoting Winter Burning Of Debris and Brush

Landowners or contractors outside city limits who interested in burning brush and debris are encouraged by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources to take advantage of the winter season. The DNR reminds the public of the open-air burning regulation (Title 8, DNR, Subtitle .07, Maryland Forest Service), which states that "burning may occur at anytime when the ground is covered with snow, if all other requirements are met."

Open air burning regulations apply to activities in woodland and within 200 feet of woodland, or a flammable material that could carry fire to the woodland. According to these regulations, there should be a firebreak at least 10 feet wide around the fire, and adequate personnel and equipment present to control it. The fire should be out and cold before all personnel leave the scene.

Landowners who wish to do open-air burning, while the ground is covered in snow, are required to obtain a burning permit from the Garrett County Health Department. These permits may be obtained by contacting the Garrett County Health Department, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 301-334-7760. Once a permit is obtained, landowners should contact Garrett Central Alarm at the non-emergency number, 301-334-1929, prior to burning.

Those interested in further information may contact the state DNR Forest Service Office at Mt. Nebo by calling 301-334-3296.

Did your cable bill go down now that WHAG is no longer provided?

Dear Shentel Cable Customer:

Shentel Cable has informed you that Nexstar Broadcasting is seeking unreasonable fees for its carriage of WHAG-TV on its Oakland Maryland cable system. This is simply not true. We believe the modest fees we are seeking from Shentel for Shentel's right to carry WHAG-TV's local programming on the Oakland system are reasonable. However, Shentel has the right to forgo entering into a fair and equitable agreement with Nexstar for the carriage of WHAG-TV on its system, and Shentel made that choice.

WHAG-TV provides more than 30 hours of news and local programming to its community. Shentel claims that it need not pay us a fair rate because it carries other NBC stations and it places no value on WHAG-TV's local programming. Shentel is permitted to make this value judgment; however, we place value on our local programming and are not willing to discount the rate simply because Shentel carries two other NBC affiliates on the Oakland system. Especially when Shentel pays more than $4.00 per subscriber to carry ESPN on its system, approximately $1.00 per subscriber for carriage of TNT and Disney Channel, and more than the amount we proposed for WHAG-TV for several other channels (including the NFL Network, USA and Fox News), none of which provide local programming to the Oakland community.

Shentel also claims that it need not pay a fair rate because the station is "free" television. Shentel is not providing local television stations to its subscribers on a "free" basis. Shentel charges subscribers a minimum of $20 for the right to receive "free" programming from Shentel. We believe it is only fair that Shentel pay a small fee (of less than 2 cents per day) for its carriage of WHAG-TV. Shentel disagrees.

We are disappointed that Shentel places no value on the large amount of local programming WHAG-TV provides to its community and regret that we have been unable to reach a fair use fee for the carriage of WHAG-TV on its newly acquired Oakland, Maryland cable system. However, many other programming providers, such as DISH Network, agree that WHAG-TV's local programming has value and carry our programming on their systems. If you support the continued carriage of WHAG-TV on this Shentel cable system, please contact Mr. David Ferguson at 540-984-5263 or by e-mail to David.Ferguson@emp.shentel.com .

Sincerely,

Hugh J. Breslin, II

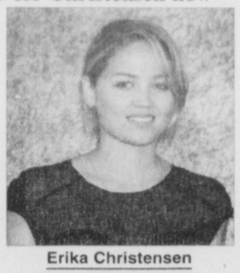
It isn't all 'Parenthood' for Christensen now

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it



Erika Christensen

Q: I recently saw Erika Christensen in the 2002 movie "Swimfan." What is she up to these days? –Bart Bartholomew, West Bend, Wis.

A: She's co-starring as Julia in the NBC series "Parenthood." She also appears with Jesse Metcalfe ("Chase," "Desperate Housewives") in the suspense movie "The Tortured," which was awaiting an American release date at this writing after debuting on DVD in other parts of the world.

Q: I would like to know if CBS is canceling good shows like "NCIS" and "The Good Wife" for yet another reality show, the Paula Abdul one. Please tell me it's not true. –Millie Rau, Lakewood, Colo.

A: OK ... it's not true. The network just gave Abdul's "Live to Dance" a Tuesday-night launch at the start of the month; it's now seen regularly on Wednesdays. The usual Tuesday lineup of "NCIS," "NCIS: Los Angeles" and "The Good Wife" remains intact.

Q: I loved "The Walking Dead" on AMC. Will there be a sequel? It just can't end that way. –Joyce Kenna, Stuart, Fla.

A: No, it can't. If by "sequel," you mean "second season," there absolutely will be one. The horror drama was a blockbuster for AMC, speaking in terms relative to cable programming, so it was a no-brainer that the series would be renewed.

In fact, even though it's several months away, we can tell you exactly when the new episodes will begin: Halloween, which also happened to be the night when the show premiered last fall.

Q: What ever happened to the Lifetime show "Drop Dead Diva"? Any chance it's scheduled to return? –Bunny Hyman, Massapequa, N.Y.

A: Better than a chance, actually. The Brooke Elliott-starring show has been renewed for a third season; its new episodes typically have started in the summer, so expect to see fresh stories then.

Q: My girlfriend and I love to watch "Human Target" together. We would like to know what nationality Mark Valley hails from. –Loretta McCann, Everett, Wash.

A: Um ... he's American. He hails from Ogdensburg, N.Y., which is on the border directly across from Canada.

Q: How can I get a DVD of the movie "Heartland" starring Rip Torn and Conchata Ferrell? –Sharon MacDonald, Grey, Maine

A: Type "Heartland" and "DVD" into a computer search engine, as we did, then see what comes back. It's been more than a decade since the 1979 drama was released on disc, but there are still copies out there to be found for purchase.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was American astronomer, astrophysicist and author Carl Sagan who made the following sage observation: "The fact that some geniuses were laughed at does not imply that all who are laughed at are geniuses. They laughed at Columbus, they laughed at Fulton, they laughed at the Wright brothers. But they also laughed at Bozo the Clown."

• If you're like the average American woman, you will eat 4 to 6 pounds of lipstick during your lifetime.

• You probably won't be surprised to learn that Alaska is the most northern and western state in the Union, but would you believe that it's also the easternmost state? Yep. Because the state crosses over into the Eastern Hemisphere, it's technically farther east than Maine.

• In Alabama, lawmakers once thought it necessary to pass a law forbidding the operation of a vehicle while wearing a blindfold.

• Traffic is so bad in Tokyo that for most trips shorter than 50 minutes, it's faster to ride a bicycle than it is to drive a car.

• You're almost certainly familiar with the grouping of stars known in the U.S. as the Big Dipper, made up of the seven brightest stars in the constellation Ursa Major. You might not know, though, that other cultures call it by different names. In India, for example, the stars are known as the Seven Sages, and Mongolians call them the Seven Gods. Many in Northern England see a Butcher's Cleaver rather than a dipper. Scandinavians think it looks like King Charles' Wagon, those in Finland call it the Salmon Net, and the Dutch have named it the Saucepan.

• On Feb. 6, 1820, the first organized immigration of freed slaves from the United States departs New York harbor on a journey to West Africa. The immigration was largely the work of the American Colonization Society. However, the expedition also was partially funded by the U.S. Congress, which appropriated $100,000 to be used in returning displaced Africans.

• On Feb. 5, 1878, Andre Citroen, later referred to as the Henry Ford of France for developing his country's first mass-produced automobiles, is born in Paris. Citroen allowed potential customers to take his vehicles for a test drive — then a new concept — and also let people buy on credit.

• On Feb. 4, 1938, Walt Disney releases "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," his first full-length animated color feature. Naysayers warned Disney that audiences wouldn't sit through a feature-length cartoon fantasy about dwarfs. In June 2008, the American Film Institute chose it as the No. 1 animated film of all time.

• On Feb. 3, 1959, rising American rock stars Buddy Holly, Ritchie Valens and J.P. "The Big Bopper" Richardson are killed when their small plane crashes in an Iowa cornfield. Singer Don McLean memorialized the musicians in the 1972 hit "American Pie," which refers to "the day the music died."

• On Feb. 1, 1974, Ted Bundy kills his second victim, marking Bundy as a serial killer. That summer Bundy attacked at least seven young women in Washington. He was caught in 1977 in Florida and eventually confessed to 36 murders. He was executed in 1989.

• On Feb. 2, 1980, details of ABSCAM, an FBI operation to uncover political corruption in the government, are released to the public. Thirty-one public officials were targeted for investigation. Q. I have a Lionel Electronic Train set 4110WS. It was made in 1948, and I am wondering what it might be worth. Although the original boxes are fairly beat up, the set is intact and everything works. — Jim, Rochester, N.Y.

A. One of the better references is the Standard Catalogue of Lionel Train Sets 1945-1969 by David Doyle (Krause, $29.99). According to Doyle, in mint condition, your set is valued at $3,700, and in excellent, $2,000. To a collector, it might be worth even more. Condition and scarcity are two factors that are extremely important when it comes to any collectible, whether it is a train sets or a first-edition book.

PRODUCT SAFETY THRESHOLDS

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. To protect the population, the government sets maximum allowable limits for traces of poisonous chemicals. How do we know what is "safe enough?"

A. Last week I described how the linear no-threshold (LNT) hypothesis came to be the standard safety guideline used by government agencies that regulate foods and consumer products. However, there are many obvious cases where a small amount of something won't hurt you, and so the LNT hypothesis isn't always appropriate.

Some products not only have a finite threshold below which they won't cause harm, but a tiny dose can actually be helpful. That condition is known as hormesis. The Wikipedia entry contains this understatement: "The biochemical mechanisms by which hormesis works are not well understood."

A century ago, people used to go to Berkeley Springs, W.Va., to soak in the hot baths caused by radioactive minerals in the rock. The word hormesis was unknown, but getting a mild dose of radioactivity was considered both fashionable and healthy. Half a century ago, people routinely got chest X-rays, and shoe stores had X-ray machines to look at your feet. All that has vanished because today's radiation-exposure standards were derived from the LNT hypothesis.

The inert gas radon is slightly radioactive and can seep up from the soil underneath a house through cracks in the basement floor. That sounds ominous, and about 25 years ago the public got quite concerned about it, resulting in the Environmental Protection Agency setting standards for allowable traces of indoor radon. Even though radiation effects on humans had been studied extensively and a safe threshold level was known to be above 33 picoCuries per liter (pCi/L), the EPA set the standard quite low, at 4 pCi/L. While perhaps one house in 100,000 had over 33 pCi/L, setting an extremely low standard had the effect of capturing about 25% of America's housing. The Federal Housing Authority (FHA) forced the EPA number upon mortgage-lending banks and realtors, and soon an entire industry grew up to do radon mitigation. Schools, churches, and homeowners dropped a lot of money on that. It was all because the EPA rules required the use of the LNT hypothesis, even in the presence of data showing a much higher threshold.

In deciding what is a "threshold," one factor to be considered is the long-term accumulation of negative effects. Cigarette smoking is the #1 example here. If some food were allowed to contain trace chemicals that never leave the body, there would be a long-term build-up to a toxic level. Barium is a "heavy metal," and if it enters your bloodstream it will go to your liver and never leave. Mercury affects the nervous system; the "mad hatter" of Alice in Wonderland was an example of mercury's accumulation, and even today the fear of mercury in fish is based upon worries about cumulative effects. The EPA restrictions against fluorescent lamps are an example of the LNT hypothesis at work.

New and strange chemicals automatically arouse suspicions, sometimes rooted in the difficulty of pronouncing the name. Polyvinyl chloride (PVC) is used in hundreds of applications, from shower curtains to water pipes to children's playground equipment, but some PVC contains a class of plasticizers named phthalates that have been the focus of great concern. A baby chewing on a soft plastic teething ring might ingest a thousand molecules of such chemicals (a very tiny dose). Nobody keeps chewing on a teething ring for many years, so the risk goes away. Nevertheless, consumer opposition has forced most toy manufacturers to seek substitute chemicals.

Trade-offs of various hazards are always with us, and one smart way to remain healthy is to vary your habits from time to time. Just as athletes know the value of cross-training, so dietitians know that it's smart to consume a variety of fruits, meats, vegetables, and dairy products.

Same goes for chemicals, which everyone normally uses for their intended purpose. Copper or PVC water pipes, asbestos around pipes, furnace air filters, plastic toys, orange juice cartons, food storage containers, and so on, endlessly, can all be called hazardous under sufficiently unusual circumstances. The linear no-threshold hypothesis essentially says that those weird circumstances happen all the time. That's not a very good basis for setting federal regulations.

EASY, INEXPENSIVE ENERGY CONSERVATION IDEAS

by Lynn Little, extension educator, Family and Consumer Sciences University of Maryland Extension

All of us have been affected by rising energy costs and a growing concern that we need to start living a more sustainable lifestyle. A great place to start is by reducing energy use in your home. There are a number of easy and inexpensive ways to conserve energy in your home and keep some money in your pocket.

•Control thermostat – Controlling your thermostat at energy efficient temperatures is one of the easiest ways to reduce energy use and cut costs. A recommended temperature setting is 68 degrees F during the day and 60 degrees F when you are sleeping or away from home. You can save about 1 percent of your heating bill for every degree you lower your thermostat.

•Lower water temperature –Your hot water is probably hotter than what you need. Most water heaters are set at 140 degrees F. By turning the temperature down to 120 degrees F (medium setting on a gas heater dial), you can reduce your water heating costs 6 percent to 10 percent. Many electric heaters have both an upper and a lower thermostat that will need to be adjusted.

•Insulate water heater – Wrapping your water heater tank in a blanket of insulation can reduce heat loss 25 percent to 45 percent, resulting in a savings on your water heating bill. Read and carefully follow the installation directions for the insulation wrap or jacket. It is especially important not to block air intakes and exhaust vents on gas models, and thermostat access panels on electric heaters with the insulation wrap. Insulation wraps and jackets work well for older water heaters and those located in unheated areas. An insulation wrap might not be recommended for newer water heaters that are already well insulated, so check your water heater manual.

•Plug leaks – You can reduce your home's heat loss quickly and easily with inexpensive materials. Every leak you plug means fewer drafts and lower heating bills. To reduce air leakage under exterior doors, buy an inexpensive door sweep. If your door leaks around the entire frame, install foam weather-stripping with adhesive backing between the door and the frame. If you have a fireplace that gets little use and does not have a door, make sure the damper is closed and the opening is sealed. Cardboard and tape can effectively do the job. Use caulk to seal along the basement sill plate and around door and window frames. Seal small holes around water pipes and stuff or spray insulation into larger holes around plumbing fixtures. Heat also leaks out of light switches and electrical outlets. Inexpensive foam gaskets that fit behind the cover plates easily solve this problem.

Seal air leaks around windows. Use clear weather-strip tape along the gap where glass meets the frame and seal any cracks. On double-hung windows, tape over the pulley hole and use rope caulk between the upper and lower windows. Adding another layer of glass or plastic creates a dead air space, and trapped air is a good insulator. This is especially important if you currently have single-pane windows. Plastic film window kits are the lowest cost option and can be easily installed on the inside of your existing windows. Be sure the air space is at least 1/2 inch and not more than 4 inches. Once you have sealed air leaks around your windows, you can double their insulating value by installing storm windows.

•Clean or replace furnace filter – All forced air furnaces have filters that keep dust and dirt from blowing into your house. If they are not periodically cleaned or replaced, dirty filters can greatly affect the furnace's heating ability and waste energy. Some filters are disposable, while others can be washed and reused. Do not reuse disposable filters. A new filter can often be purchased at a low cost. Clean or replace your furnace filter(s) every one to three months during the heating season.

•Use a low-flow showerhead – A standard showerhead sprays you with up to 8 gallons per minute of warm water. Replacing it with a quality low-flow showerhead allows you to use only 1 to 2 gallons of water per minute. Low-flow showerheads quickly pay for themselves by reducing water consumption and energy used to heat the water.

•Wash with cold water – Water heating accounts for about 90 percent of the energy used by washing machines. Washing in hot water costs 20 to 40 cents per load and is unnecessary, except for special loads such as diapers or stained clothes. Wash clothes in cold water using cold-water detergents, and be sure to wash full loads whenever possible. You might also hang wet clothes on an indoor or outdoor clothesline to save dryer electricity.

•Watch appliances – Refrigerators cost $5 to $8 per month to operate and account for 6 percent of your home's total energy use. To keep out warm room air, keep the refrigerator door closed as much as possible. It also helps to regularly clean dust out of the coils and to minimize freezer ice build–up. Keep the refrigerator compartment at 35 to 40 degrees F and the freezer compartment at 0 to 5 degrees F. Keep a stand-alone freezer set at 0 degrees F. Having a refrigerator with automatic moisture control can also help keep energy use down.

Other energy-saving ideas include cooking small meals in a microwave rather than on your stove; turning off your TV or computer when not in use; using a switchable power strip to prevent "ghost loads" that draw electricity even when appliances are off; running the dishwasher only with a full load, and air-drying your dishes. When the time comes to purchase a new appliance, make sure it is Energy Star rated.

•Replace light bulbs – Replace your incandescent light bulbs with compact fluorescent lamps (CFLs), especially in frequently used light fixtures. CFLs cost more than regular incandescent bulbs; however, they last longer, use less energy, and produce less heat for the same amount of light. CFLs reduce your energy use and costs, and quickly pay for themselves.

There are many easy and inexpensive home energy ideas that can help you save on your energy bill and in the process, conserve natural resources. Tonia Jo Baker, 27, was found guilty on a conspiracy theft scheme $1K to under $10K. Five months of her sentence was suspended, as was the entire fine. She was also ordered to complete two years of supervised probation to be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation. She was also ordered to pay the victim restitution in the amount of $1,008.

Baker allegedly used a debit card to obtain funds from an account that she was to use to pay the card holder's bills. She reportedly obtained and spent the money, withdrawing over $1,000 from the account. She was not prosecuted on theft scheme $1K to under $10K, and two counts of theft less than $1,000 charges.

In other court news, Charles William Michael III, 18, Cumberland was found guilty on a second-degree assault charge. He was sentenced to six months suspended and fined $1,000, also suspended. He was also placed on two years of supervised probation. Michael was involved in a physical altercation with four adult staff members at the Salem School. Maryland State Police investigated the September incident.

Jeremiah Kenneth Lafferty, 18, Barton, was found guilty on a second-degree assault charge stemming from an incident that occurred on Southern High School property. He was sentenced to 90 days with 88 suspended and fined $500, all of which was suspended. He was placed on one year of supervised probation. Lafferty was involved in a physical altercation with a juvenile student at the bus area of the school. Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated the September incident.

Randy Lee Wiley II, 20, Grantsville, was found guilty on a disturbing the peace charge. He was sentenced to 30 days suspended and fined $500, of which $400 was suspended. He was also placed on one year of supervised probation. Wiley reportedly threatened and pushed a neighbor after entering her home without permission. He was not prosecuted on second-degree assault, malicious destruction of property less $500, and arson threat charges. He was arrested by Maryland State Police in October.

Robert Vincent Vanderbilt IV, 18, Oakland, was found guilty of conspiracy to theft less than $1,000 and sentenced to 30 days suspended. He was fined $157.50 and order to pay $180 in restitution to two victims. He was not prosecuted on rogue/vagabond, theft less than $1,000, and theft less than $100 charges. He was allegedly one of two suspects who broke into a vehicle parked at Swallow Falls and removed two wallets. Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated the incident.

Jennifer Dawn Wall, 19, Centerton, Ariz., was given a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict on a CDS possession of marijuana charge. She was sentenced to 30 days suspended and fined $200. She was also placed on one year of unsupervised probation. She was within the boundaries of Swallow Falls State Park when Natural Resource Police arrested her in July for smoking marijuana. She was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge.

Derek Darez Hunt, 42, Frostburg, was not prosecuted on first-degree burglary, theft $1,000 to $10,000, malicious destruction of property less $500, and conspiracy to commit first-degree burglary charges. He was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies when they were investigating the October burglary of a Jennings home.

Richard Allen White Jr., 26, Bloomington, was not prosecuted on a second-degree assault charge stemming from a physical altercation involving another adult male. Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested him in November.

DUI/DWI HEARINGS

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent District Court proceedings, with Judge Eiswert presiding.

Alexey Fedotov, 23, Maryland, was given a PBJ on a DUI per se charge stemming from an August traffic stop by Maryland State Police. She was sentenced to 30 days suspended and fined $1,000, of which $750 was suspended. She was also placed on one year of unsupervised probation. She was not prosecuted on DUI and DWI charges.

"Christmas Story" To Be Presented Again At Hickory

Hickory Environmental Education Center, by popular request, will present a repeat of the "Christmas Story" on Tuesday, Feb 1. The center will be open from 5 to 8:30 p.m., with the story scheduled to begin at 7:15 p.m.

This planetarium "show within a show" begins with a tour of the winter constellations, before examining the historic references in the Bible surrounding the birth of Jesus Christ and leading to a re-enactment of the triple conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn in 6–7 B.C.

"The show concludes that it is not clear what the 'star' might have been, but most important is the message of 'peace on Earth,'" said center director Bruce Taliaferro.

In addition, early arrivals for the show will have an opportunity to tour the center and will be given a look at its summer program offering for this year.

Spotlight on Garrett County Non-Profits:

The Work They Do, The People They Serve

CINDY'S FUND

This column, sponsored by the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, is one of a series of articles about local nonprofit organizations. The purpose is to inform citizens about the services offered by the organizations, and to let them know about the volunteer opportunities available within these groups.

This week's feature:
Cindy's Fund
Oakland, MD 21550
www.cindysfund.org
cindysfund@gmail.com

MISSION

Cindy's Fund was founded in 2003 as a memorial to Cindy Kutchman, who was a Garrett County resident, registered nurse, and cancer victim. Cindy's Fund is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization providing assistance to Garrett County residents who have been stricken with cancer.

The mission is to raise funds to support cancer education and screening programs, and provide assistance for Garrett County residents with cancer and in need of help. Gas cards, food vouchers, hotel stays, and medical/nutritional supplies are a few items that can be provided.

In addition to providing direct support to victims, the fund has in the past provided money to the Garrett County Health Department for cancer screening when state funding cuts resulted in insufficient resources to provide these procedures.

There are state aid programs for victims, but not everyone is eligible. Many patients also need immediate financial assistance and cannot wait while their request is submitted and approved for this aid. Furthermore, many state aid programs do not cover items that a cancer patient's doctor prescribe. These are additional situations where Cindy's Fund steps in and provides financial assistance.

FUNDING

Cindy's Fund holds several fundraisers annually, and relies on the generosity of the community to continue funding the many requests that are received.

In one case, for the last two years, Amelia Wolf and her sister, Lois Williams, have made bonbons and Easter egg candies and donated $14,000 the first year and $15,000 the next. They are now retired, but will be teaching several others to make the eggs so they will be available for coming years.

Last year the organization hosted a spaghetti dinner, Cove Farms hosted a Cindy's Fund day, and Brenda's Body Shop sponsored the "Pink Glove Dance" effort, with all proceeds benefiting Cindy's Fund.

This year the group will sell Amelia's Easter eggs again, made by board members and friends, and will host what is hoped to be an annual 6,000-meter run and one-mile fun walk at Herrington Manor State Park on May 21. Any additional events will be widely publicized via the Cindy's Fun web site and The Republican newspaper.

REQUESTS FOR HELP

All aid requests are treated with confidentiality and given immediate attention. No request is too large or too small, and anyone who needs assistance should never be embarrassed to ask. Compassion and caring are two very important words in the Cindy's Fund dictionary. Those who need to contact the group for assistance may call Sharon Rounds at the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7777 or Tenna Taylor at the Western Maryland Health Systems Cancer Center at 1-240-964-1449.

VOLUNTEERING OPPORUNITIES

We have a need for volunteers for the run and walk in May. Interested persons may e-mail cindysfund@gmail.org to help or to register to run or walk.

The organization always needs volunteers to attend board meetings and help with new ideas for fundraisers, and then to volunteer at the events.

ON A PERSONAL NOTE
by Lucretia Sines

What an interesting week this has been. It makes me wonder what kind of shift the moon has taken lately. The strange weather all over the country makes me very thankful that all we are getting is cold weather and snow even though it is constant lately.

I was sad at the passing of my uncle Hubert Friend, who passed away at Goodwill on Saturday just four years and five days from the passing of his wonderful wife. As I sat at the funeral and listened to the words being used to express his life, I was in total agreement and realized that this man was seen the same way by everyone around him.

He did not treat anyone any different than another and was loved by many. At 105 years old, he still had the same charm as he did when I was growing up. I never knew him to raise his voice, and I remember him as always having a neat and tidy appearance.

Visiting his farm was always great fun and occasionally we would have a picnic in his big front yard. I always loved to visit at milking time, although my sister would probably disagree because she found out the hard way that you don't stand too close to the back end of a cow.

As I listened to the wonderful memories of his life, I totally agree with his daughter Vera when she said that if other people would follow his example, the world would be a better place. So true. We will all miss you, Uncle Hubert. Another part of my childhood is gone, but at least I have the memories, and they are precious to me.

Local Students Offered Program In Natural Resources

The Garrett County Forest Conservancy District Board, in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Forest Service, Association of Forest Conservancy District boards, and Allegany College, are hosting a weeklong program at Hickory Environmental Education Center from July 24 to 30.

The program is designed to acquaint college-bound high school students with careers in forestry and natural resources management. The camp is staffed by forestry students from Allegany College and the members of the Maryland Association of Forestry Boards. Maryland DNR Forest Service, private industry, and other natural resources professionals, in a variety of disciplines, supplement the program. The program consists of a series of lectures and field trips to give students a firsthand knowledge of natural resource careers.

The Maryland Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards sponsors the program. The local county forestry board coordinates student selection and scholarships. Students are selected for the camp based on their involvement and interest in natural resources issues and careers.

High school students who have reached age 16 by the first day of Natural Resources Careers Conference week may choose to earn two college credits (fees required) from Allegany College of Maryland. To be eligible, students must attend the entire week, complete a short exam and present a team management plan. The credits will transfer to most community colleges in Maryland and several four-year colleges and universities.

This coeducational conference provides a real opportunity for high school students interested in a career in natural resources to learn from industry professionals and develop contacts that could lead to future employment and careers in natural resources.

Those interested in further information may visit www.marylandforestryboards.org.

2011-12 COURSES OFFERED ONLINE

Parents and students are asked to select courses for the 2011-2012 school year using Southern High School's online portal, Power School. Freshmen, with their parents and counselors, have already selected courses online this month during evening sessions offered at the high school. Sophomores and juniors will have the opportunity to select courses online from Feb. 3 to 11. A copy of each student's career pathway with course recommendations for next year and a course selection sheet will be sent home with all students. Students and parents are asked to fill out this selection sheet for use as a guide before making course selections on Power School. Access and registration on Power School requires a parent's username and password.

Parents and students are asked to sign the completed course selection sheet and return it to the Guidance Office. If families do not have Internet access, run into problems completing the online course selection, or prefer to complete the course selection with the aid of the student's guidance counselor, they have the option to receive assistance from a guidance counselor during regular school hours on the dates of Feb. 7-11. Individuals are asked to call 301-334-1660 in order to reserve a time slot. Guidance counselors are also offering an open lab on Feb. 7-9 from 4 to 7 p.m.

Should school be canceled because of inclement weather, make-up days will be held the following week. Guidance counselors will meet with students who do not select courses by the Feb. 11 deadline. A parent who has lost a password may visit the Main Office to obtain this information, though a valid form of identification is required for its release.

PARENTS NEEDED TO LEAD AFTER-PROM

The 2011 after-prom event marks its 20th anniversary this year. The success of this tradition is linked to parent involvement. After-Prom was first organized in 1991 by teachers at Southern High School who wanted to offer an event where teens would be able to celebrate prom night in a safe, drug- and alcohol-free environment. Teenagers face tough choices everyday, and often make dangerous decisions when it comes to drugs and alcohol. Healthy and safe alternatives are needed in every community, and this is why it is important to offer a fun, safe after-prom environment. It takes many volunteers to manage this all-night event. The event planning, decorating, and donation committees all require parent volunteers in order to make the event memorable for all in attendance. SHS asks parents to please become a part of this wonderful activity.

BOE EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

These services are provided through the Special Education programs to all qualified students. Those who know of a disabled individual under the age of 21 and not already enrolled in any of these educational programs may call 301-334-7655 or write to: Ms. Jennifer Kotulak, Supervisor of Special Education, Garrett County Board of Education, 40 South Second Street, Oakland, MD 21550.

Discovery Center To Be Closed Jan. 31–Feb. 11

The Maryland Park Service recently announced the closing of the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park from Monday, Jan. 31, through Thursday, Feb. 11. Park staff and volunteers will be remodeling and retooling the Discovery Center's main display room and kids' room during this time.

"We are converting the existing reptile room into a Brant Mine display in which the visitor will be transported into the mine by visual and audio enhancements," said director Caroline Blizzard. The main display will encompass all the live animal and interactive displays, and the new layout will feature the "Water is Life" management theme for Deep Creek Lake.

"We also anticipate the completion of our new aviary this spring, and an accompanying Eagle Scout project will add an outdoor frog and turtle habitat to the aviary," said Blizzard.

All new displays are being funded through the volunteer team and generous donations made by visitors to the Discovery Center. The center will reopen on Friday, Feb. 12.

Three Arrested After Fight Breaks Out At Elks Club

Three people were arrested Saturday night at the Oakland Elks Lodge following a physical altercation. Garrett County sheriff's deputies and Oakland City Police responded to the 9:30 p.m. incident.

Upon arrival, deputies identified Gary Allen Ashby, 38, and William Thomas Harless, 29, both of Oakland, as the suspects. While deputies attempted to conduct field interviews, both men proceeded to disturb the peace and act in a disorderly manner, for which they were placed under arrest. Both resisted, but were eventually secured.

While securing the scene, Cynthia Suzanne Reall, 31, refused to stop disturbing the peace. She was arrested as well. Deputies later determined that the original fight broke out between Ashby and Harless inside the banquet hall, which resulted in numerous patrons becoming endangered. It was also learned that Harless bit a subject on the face and caused serious injury to an individual's arm, which resulted in hospital care.

Ashby is charged with failure to obey a lawful order, disturbing the peace, disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, second-degree assault, and two counts of endangering persons while intoxicated. He was taken before a District Court com-

MANY AN ICY MORNING have greeted Garrett Countians lately, with freezing rain coming down several times this week. The uncommon weather term "frozen fog" has been used a great deal, and is possibly shown in this photo, taken in Grantsville yesterday morning. The ice, which was the heaviest on Tuesday morning, caused school closings, delays, and a number of fender-bender accidents across the county. The forecast shows more of the same late Friday night and into Saturday. Icy rain is predicted, following by, yes... more snow next week. One promising thing: the whistle pig in Punxsutawney reportedly did not see his shadow on Feb. 2. You go, Phil! Photo by Lisa Broadwater.

BOE Faces Difficult Position As $2.4 Million Budget Deficit Looms

The Garrett County Board of Education is projecting a $2.4 million budget shortfall for fiscal year 2012.

This dramatic deficit comes as the state reassesses the financial needs of each county's school system with its new wealth-based formula. The new formula places Garrett County as the eighth wealthiest county by wealth per pupil estimated. This is a rise in wealth ranking of about six places, and the largest shift caused by the new formula for any of the 24 counties in Maryland.

As the state assesses the county as more wealthy than it has in previous years, it assumes the county's ability to provide for its school system on the local level.

The issue is compounded as the GC school system is expected to lose students in the coming years and consequently the state funding their enrollment would provide. The $2.4 million deficit also does not include the additional, and yet unspecified, future insurance costs the BOE predicts will total around $1 million.

When asked what or how potential budget cuts would shape the state of the current school system, the BOE stated it was unprepared to discuss the issue.

The BOE did, however, state that if a proposed plan to close both Kitzmiller and Bloomington elementary schools was adopted, the savings would total only $850 thousand, far short of the projected deficit.

When asked about faculty costs, the BOE explained that it would take the dismissal of 20 teachers to equal roughly $1 million in savings, and that the school system is the largest employer in Garrett County and an integral part of the local economy.

"Until the gap between local and state funding closes, all students and personnel will be at a disadvantage," related BOE superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets.

Humane Society Participating In Spay Day USA

The Garrett County Humane Society will take part in the 17th annual Humane Society of the United States Spay Day USA, set for Tuesday, Feb. 22. Though only one day has been designated as Spay Day, activities will take place during the entire month of February at numerous locations across the United States.

"This event is to inspire people to save animals' lives by spaying and neutering pets and feral cats," said GC Humane Society president Lisa Baker. "To see what events are happening locally, go to www.humane-society.org/spaydayfind."

In conjunction with Spay Day, the GCHS will distribute spay/neuter discount vouchers to local residents later in the month. These vouchers are only valid at the three area veterinary hospitals in Garrett County and cannot be used at HART's low income spay/neuter clinic in McHenry.

"If your pet is not 'fixed' yet, please get a voucher and have it done," Baker said. "The procedure not only prevents unwanted litters from being born, but also helps with various health and behavioral issues your pet may have."

She noted that a "fun addition" to Spay Day is the HSUS Online Pet Photo Contest, which is in progress now.

"This event is a way to showcase your pet and raise money for your chosen organization," Baker said. "Tell all your friends to go online and vote for your or their favorite pet, which costs only $1 a vote. You can locate a photo by the pet's name or the benefiting organization's name."

She added that there are already hundreds of entries, and viewers can spend hours looking at the photos and reading the stories, which range from funny to heartbreaking

Two Arrested In Connection With Inmate Escape

A Frederick man and a Cumberland woman have been arrested for their participation in the recent escape of inmate Deandre Kelly, 29, from the Garrett County Jail.

Richard Demoan Hall, 26, and Amanda Sue Lambert, 23, were taken into custody after information was developed through a joint investigation conducted by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, Criminal Investigation Division of the Maryland State Police, the U.S. Marshals, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Both were charged with conspiracy to commit first-degree escape, two counts of conspiracy to commit first-degree assault, and ac-

Beitzel, Edwards Request Action On Md. TV Issue

Del. Wendell R. Beitzel (R–Dist. 1A) and Sen. George C. Edwards (R– Dist. 1) joined many local people last Friday in requesting that the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) give the residents of Garrett County a choice when it comes to their local television options.

Because of FCC designated marketing area rules, most Garrett County residents receive Pennsylvania TV stations, rather than Maryland ones, from cable and satellite companies.

Beitzel and Edwards introduced joint resolutions in the Maryland General Assembly for consideration in their respective chambers. House Joint Resolution 2, sponsored by Beitzel, was assigned to the House Rules and Executive Nominations Committee, which has not yet set a hearing date.

Senate Joint Resolution 2, sponsored by Edwards, was assigned to the Senate Finance Committee, which will hold a public hearing on Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 1 p.m.

In a recent letter sent to FCC chairman Julius Genachowski, Beitzel commented, "This is not just a mild inconvenience for the people who may be Baltimore Ravens or Washington Redskins fans. There is a more troubling byproduct."

"The citizens of Garrett County," he added, "are inundated with the political landscape of Pennsylvania. As a result, the average Garrett County resident may know more about the goings on of Harrisburg, Pa., than they do of their own elected representatives in Annapolis."

Edwards and Beitzel were approached formally by a group of concerned Garrett County residents at a pre-legislative meeting with the county commissioners in early December.

"Garrett County is the only county in the state not included in either the Baltimore or Washington media markets," Edwards said. "We're supposed to be 'One Maryland,' so we are only asking that our constituents be given the opportunity to join the rest of the state."

Because this is a matter of federal law, the joint resolutions express the intent of the General Assembly on this matter, and direct the Maryland Delegation to Congress to lobby

CRANE MAKES RARE WINTER VISIT TO DCL — At the 40th Christmas Bird Count held at Deep Creek Lake, spectators and wildlife enthusiasts were rewarded for there dedication and patience with the rare winter visit of a sandhill crane. Naturalists present when the above photographs were taken believe the crane to be young, as it has a rusty-colored, feathered crown and yellow eyes. According to Cornell's Birds of North America, an adult's crown would be covered with bright red skin, and its eye would be colored somewhere between chrome orange and flame scarlet. No matter the age, however, the bird is distinct and beautiful. Sandhill cranes stand about 4 feet tall with a wing span of 6.5 to 7 feet and are primarily birds of open freshwater wetlands. The cranes generally feed on a wide variety of plant tubers, grains, small vertebrates (e.g., mice and snakes), and invertebrates such as insects or worms. In many areas, wild sandhills preen iron-rich mud into their feathers, creating a deep rusty brown hue which lasts during spring and summer. As fall advances, these rusty feathers molt and the birds return to their greyish appearance. In some regions, however, iron-rich mud is absent and the birds appear grey all year. The species is not known to breed in Maryland, but does occasionally stop over in the state during its long migration between its breeding ranges in the northern U.S. and Canada to its wintering grounds in parts of the southern U.S. and northern of Mexico. There have been several documented sightings of this species of crane in Garrett County since 1989, but this was the first time the sandhill crane was spotted during the annual Christmas Bird Count. For more information on the CBC, see story on page A-9.

Local Woman Sentenced To 18 Months For Fourth-Degree Burglary Charge

An Oakland woman was found guilty by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert on a fourth-degree burglary charge in a recent District Court hearing. Sonya Amber Knox, 20, was sentenced to 18 months suspended and three years of supervised probation to be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation.

Knox was one of three suspects who reportedly broke into and stayed without permission at a Crest View Drive, Oakland, residence in December. The owners of the residence reported the break-in, and a neighbor identified the two male suspects who were also charged for the incident. Garrett County sheriff's deputies were the arresting officers.

In other court news, Kevin Wayne Michaels, 44, Friendsville, was found guilty on a possession of marijuana charge stemming from a search of his residence. He was sentenced to 30 days suspended and one year of unsupervised probation. Members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office executed a warrant, which recovered a bag of marijuana, numerous smoking devices, two sets of hand scales, and one set of digital scales. He was not prosecuted on two counts of possession of paraphernalia.

Mark Sanford Duckworth, 54, Swanton, was found guilty on a CDS possession of marijuana charge. He was sentenced to 10 days, for which he was given credit for time served. Members of the NTF and GCSO executed a search and seizure warrant at a Kitzmiller residence in September, which resulted in the recovery of a smoking pipe, a "roach" clip, two smoked marijuana cigarettes, and two marijuana stems. He was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge.

Christopher Jay Reisberg, 21, Randallstown, was given a stet on possession of marijuana and malicious destruction of property over $500 charges. He was one of five males who was staying at a rental home. A rental property damage complaint was made to the GCSO. When deputies responded and entered the home, numerous pieces of furniture and glassware

"CRELLIN CRAYOLA KIDS" DONATE TO ANIMAL SHELTER – After receiving Crayola crayon makers for Christmas, Crellin area residents Destiny and Kaden Gank, ages 9 and 6, got a bright idea: make crayons and sell them for extra money. Their fledgling business did so well, the young entrepreneurs decided to donate the money to homeless animals. In addition, the siblings started asking friends and family for donations. Each person who made a donation received a gift bag filled with homemade crayons and art work made by the Gank children. All the art work centered around helping homeless animals and spaying/neutering pets. "The kids came up with this idea all on their own," said their mom, Stormy Gank. Last Friday, the Ganks and two other children presented more than $69 to Garrett County Animal Shelter personnel. "They are in need of medication, and that's what the money is going for," Stormy said. "While we were at the shelter, Kaden found a beautiful Lab puppy to adopt. As we were walking out of the door, Destiny said, 'Mom, I feel good inside now." The "Crellin Crayola Kids" are looking forward to finding ways to raise more money for the animals, Stormy noted. Left to right are Destiny; Natasha Helbig, age 9; Kaden; Emily Lucas, age 10; and officer Tammy Pessini, Garrett County Animal Control. In the front is Mocha, the full-time shelter dog. Local Resident Reviews Research Proposals For Defense Department

The American Cancer Society "Reach to Recovery" western Maryland region coordinator, Nadine Baughman, recently participated in the evaluation of research proposals submitted to the Breast Cancer Research Program (BCRP) sponsored by the U.S. Department of Defense. The Swanton resident was nominated for participation in the program by the ACS.

As a consumer reviewer, Baughman was a full voting member, along with prominent scientists, at meetings to determine how the $150 million appropriated by Congress for Fiscal Year 2010 will be spent on future breast cancer research.

Consumer reviewers are asked to represent the collective view of breast cancer survivors and patients, family members, and persons at risk for the disease when they prepare comments on the impact of the research on issues such as disease prevention, screening, diagnosis, treatment, and quality of life after treatment.

Baughman was one of more than 225 consumer advocates who have participated in peer review meetings over the past year to recommend funding for the very best proposals.

"It's rewarding to see the efforts of our tax dollars going into cancer research, and the quality of effort going into finding a cure for breast cancer," Baughman said about her role as a consumer reviewer. "I was honored to be able to be a part of this intense scientific progress and humbled at the vast knowledge and dedication of these scientists."

Consumer advocates and scientists have worked together in this unique partnership to evaluate the scientific merit of breast cancer research proposals since 1995. To date, more than 720 consumer reviewers have served on breast cancer panels alongside scientists in the review process, according the Department of Defense.

DOING HER PART TO FIGHT BREAST CANCER – Swanton resident Nadine Baughman recently helped evaluate research proposals submitted to the U.S. Department of Defense's Breast Cancer Research Program. As a consumer reviewer, Baughman was a full voting member, along with prominent scientists, at meetings to determine how the program's $150 million will be spent in the future. See story. Left to right are Baughman and Lt. Col. Jeffery Leggit, deputy director of the Congressionally Directed Medical Research Programs (CDMRP).

The Congressionally Directed Medical Research Programs director, Capt. E. Melissa Kaime, M.D., expressed her appreciation for the consumer advocates' perspective in the scientific review sessions.

"The consumer reviewers on each panel helped the scientists understand the patient's perspective and provided valuable insight into the potential impact of the proposed project," Kaime said. "Likewise, these important members of the peer review panels have been enriched by learning more about the scientific process through discussing proposals with the other peer review panel members and seeing the future possibilities of successful research outcomes."

More than 3,300 breast cancer research proposals will be reviewed for 2010 fiscal year funds. Scientists applying propose to conduct innovative breast cancer research aimed at the elimination of breast cancer, according to the Department of Defense.

Proposals are solicited across all disciplines, including basic, clinical, social, and psychosocial sciences, as well as public health, economics, quality of life, alternative therapies, occupational health, nursing research, and environmental concerns.

More information about the CDMRP is available at http://cdmrp.army.mil.

Probation Violation Leads To One Year, One Day Sentence

A 34-year-old Westminster woman admitted in Garrett County Circuit Court this week to violating her probation. Judge Jim Sherbin reimposed one year and one day of Kelly Renee Corby's previously suspended four-year sentence.

Corby was originally convicted in August 2009 of conspiracy to commit theft over $500, involving the theft of a television from the Oakland Wal-Mart. She was sentenced at that time to five years in the Division of Corrections, with all but four months suspended. For a previous violation of probation, Corby served an additional six months in jail.

Once she was released from jail again, she was placed on probation with all general conditions and certain special conditions. The court found that Corby had violated conditions relating to abstaining from drug usage, submitting to random testing, and reporting to her probation agent, the state's attorney noted.

Two Arrested By GC Deputies On DUI, DWI Charges

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested two men this week on driving under the influence charges. The following incidents are unrelated.

Deputies stopped a 1992 Suburu passenger vehicle last Friday for failure to have rear lights illuminated. Randy Lee DeWitt, 47, Oakland, was identified as the driver, and he was found to be intoxicated. He was charged with DUI, driving while impaired, driving on a suspended license, and driving on a revoked license. He was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

Deputies stopped a vehicle on Garrett Highway early Sunday morning. The driver was identified as Bryan Anthony Burns, 23, Imperial, Pa. He was found to be intoxicated. He was charged with DUI, DUI per se, and DWI. He was released on personal recognizance.

Names Sought For Gov.'s Volunteer Service Awards

The Governor's Office on Service and Volunteerism is now accepting nominations for the 2011 Governor's Service Awards. These awards recognize the significant contributions of Maryland citizens to the life and health of the state and its people.

"As we continue to navigate through these tough times, the need for community organizations and volunteers across Maryland remains strong," said Gov. Martin O'Malley. "These dedicated individuals help to strengthen our neighbors in need, and we look forward to recognizing them for their service."

Nominations for the 2011 Governor's Service Awards should represent outstanding volunteer service occurring in 2010, unless competing for a lifetime award. Service must be performed outside the context of the nominee's paid employment, and those who have been awarded since 2006 are ineligible for consideration.

Applications will be accepted in the areas of "Individuals" – youth, adult, older adult, lifetime achievement, and national achievement – and "Organizations" – for profit, faith-based, nonprofit, youth, adult, and older adult.

All applications must be submitted via an online form by 5 p.m. on Friday, March 18. For official rules, persons may visit GOSV.maryland.gov.

HOW IT USED TO BE IN GARRETT COUNTY – Bill Saltzer of Seven Lakes, N.C., thought this Deep Creek Lake photo might bring back memories for many readers of The Republican. "It was taken in December 1946 at Railey's," Salter wrote. "My mom and dad moved from Washington, D.C., and were staying in one of the cottages until they moved to the house in McHenry. The old Deep Creek Bridge is ahead, and Stone Tavern is to the left. My dad's car is parked on the right. Nobody knows what it used to be like in Garrett County!"

Drivers Asked To Assist With Town Snow Removal

Oakland Mayor Peggy Jamison is asking the residents and visitors of Oakland to help the Oakland Street Department by following certain parking regulations during the winter season.

As the snow continues to fall, the streets are becoming more narrow, and it is becoming more difficult for the street department personnel to clear the roadways. In order for the town crews to effectively clean the streets after snowfalls, the help of local drivers is needed.

The following parking schedules have been established:

•Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays -- Drivers should park on the north and east sides on the street between the hours of 5 p.m. and 7 a.m.

•Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays – drivers are asked to park on the west and south sides of the streets between 5 p.m. and 7 am.

This will give town crews the ability to more effectively clear the streets of snow with less danger of damage to vehicles. Drivers are also reminded that it is prohibited for residents and visitors to park at the meters from midnight until 6 a.m. is prohibited.

PROPERTY OWNERS NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THE NEW MARYLAND DORMANT MINERALS ACT!

THE LAW

On or after October 1, 2011, a surface owner of real property that is subject to a mineral interest may maintain an action to terminate a dormant mineral interest.

A mineral interest is dormant for the purpose of this subtitle if the mineral interest is unused for a period of 20 or more years preceding the commencement of termination of the mineral interest; and notice of the mineral interest was not recorded during the period of 20 or more years preceding the commencement of termination of the mineral interest.

A civil action may be maintained, whether or not the owner of the severed mineral interest is an unknown or missing owner.

An owner of a mineral interest may record, at any time, a notice of intent to preserve the mineral interest or a part of a mineral interest.

In an action to terminate a mineral interest, the court shall permit the owner of the mineral interest to record a late notice of intent to preserve the mineral interest as a condition of dismissal of the action, if the owner of the mineral interest pays the litigation expenses incurred by the surface owner of the real property that is subject to the mineral interest.

ACTIONS YOU NEED TO TAKE

If you own the surface of your land but do not own your minerals, you may be able to file a civil case to get your minerals.

If you are a mineral owner who does not own the surface, you may need to file a notice in the Land Records to preserve your mineral interest by October 1, 2011, or you may lose it.

If you own a portion of your minerals and want a gas and oil lease, you can request that the court appoint a trustee so you can have your interest leased.

Find out what you own: Many properties have had their minerals, coal, oil and gas rights separated in the past; our experience shows that many severed mineral interests do not make it into the current Deed.

Know who owns the minerals under your land: Whether you want gas development on your property or want to stop any production on your property, you need to know who owns your minerals. If you can get title to your minerals, you are in control.

Phillips & Worthington PA Can Help You

Perform a complete mineral title search on your property to find out who owns the minerals under your property.

Get title to the minerals, oil and gas under your property.

Prepare and file notices for Mineral Owners who want to keep their mineral interests.

File suit against unknown mineral owners beginning on October 1, 2011.

Negotiate your gas lease.

Get a full mineral title search of your property. Many real estate attorneys and banks only search 40-60 years of records. These limited searches may not find that minerals were separated earlier. A mineral title search will find mineral severances 150 years back or more.

With a free consultation to determine if the Maryland Dormant Mineral Act can benefit you.

Much To Be Learned...

Greetings from somewhere in the Caribbean Sea on board the Royal Caribbean Oasis of the Seas, the largest cruise ship in the world.

This particular vessel, which is about seven times the size of the Titanic, is almost beyond description. It carries over 5,000 passengers who are served by a staff of approximately 2,200, meaning that the number of people on board equals about 25% of Garrett County's population. Most of the passengers are housed two per cabin, each of which is about the size of a regular motel room. There are 25 restaurants and food specialty shops on board, including the main dining room which seats over 2,600 people at one time. Galley (kitchen) space on board totals 2.5 acres. There is a Central Park in the center of the ship, complete with trees and thousands of flowering plants, and various shops along the walkways. There is an Ocean City-style boardwalk which features shops, eating places, and yes, even a full-size merry-go-round.

There is the Royal Promenade, which looks and feels like an upscale mall. There is a fitness and health center that contains some 160 elliptical machines, stationary bikes, treadmills, and weight machines, plus a spa. There are six large swimming pools, dozens of hot tubs/whirlpools, a water park for the children, a miniature golf course, a full-size basketball court, shuffleboard courts, a table tennis room, a surfing facility, two five-story rock-climbing walls, a zip-line located 10 stories above the boardwalk, and a nearly half-mile jogging track. There is a theatre larger than most in New York City; a huge casino for those who enjoy games of chance; a stadium-seating, water-performance venue for a high-diving, trampoline, and synchronized swimming show; and an 800-seat ice-skating rink performance space for an ice skating show that rivals the Ice Capades. There is also a library, a game room, three Internet centers, and a medical facility that even provides kidney dialysis. Surprisingly, the cost to be a passenger on this ship is relatively inexpensive.

In being on board such a ship, one is constantly amazed at the level of human ingenuity and ability that was necessary to design and build it. But even more impressive than the ship itself is the quality of character one finds in the people who staff it. The great majority of the over 2,200 staff members are young people, mostly in their 20s, and many of whom are from various developing nations. Those selected as staff members for the Oasis were hand-picked from the various other RC ships; the cream of the crop. Through their determination, perseverance, and hard work, many of them emerged from poverty to earn a well-paying job on this ship. Most of them speak at least two languages fluently. Every single one of them, from food servers to cabin stewards to custodians to officers, greets the passengers with a smile and a kind word, and bends over backward to make the cruising experience a pleasant, memorable one. Among their greatest skills, working together as a cohesive, cooperative team, is the level of efficiency that is demonstrated. Obviously, the successful operation of a cruise ship this size is so massive, that efficiency is crucial.

In thinking about the operation of our municipal, county, state, and federal governments, and for that matter, our businesses, schools, and agencies, particularly when it comes to efficiency, it seems that there is much to be learned from these thousands of aforementioned young people.

To the Editor:

Reading the Washington Post daily, I've concluded it's not out of interest, but basically an acquired habit over the years that rarely informs me about anything other than international conflicts, foreclosures, political debates, and murders in the metropolitan area. I critique it for its poor editing, stories that read like reality shows, and inferior quality of photos.

I feel fortunate that I can read The Republican online every week — especially this past week. The photo by local photographer Connie Rodeheaver reminds us that despite all of the negatives in the world, solace can be found in the day-to-day: the building of ice turtles to soften hard winters, capturing moments in time that speak to the heart.

To the Editor:

Thank you to Jane Avery and all the performers and production crews of Our Town Theatre. It's Greek To Me was a fantastic production! It was an explanation of the development of Greek drama and excerpts from several Greek tragedies and comedies. It was a light-hearted, informative, educational, and very entertaining experience. The cast members were very professional and a joy to watch and listen to.

The theatre is an exciting and enriching venue for the entire community and for our young people. Also, you cannot beat the price of admission. We are so fortunate to have Our Town Theatre in Garrett County. Thank you!

The Southern Garrett Band Boosters organization operates weekly bingo games as a regular fund-raiser for both the marching and concert bands at the high school. The boosters have done this for about 20 years now. The locations for these games have changed over the years, and it is time again for one of those changes.

The bingo games have been held at the Deer Park fire hall for several years, but now will be played at the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad Hall, located along Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park. The games are on Friday nights, starting at 6:30, with the doors open at least one hour prior. We will have our first game at the squad hall this Friday, Feb. 4, weather permitting.

The boosters wish to express gratitude and thanks to the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department for the amicable rental agreement we have had for the past several years. The Deer Park folks have been nothing but helpful and kind, and the boosters are only leaving because attendance has dropped so dramatically over the past year. Players have expressed their wish for a more centrally located facility, and so the change has been made.

We greatly appreciate the pleasant and good folks at the DPVFD, and hope that we can continue to support them in some other fashion, and encourage the public to support them as well. We also extend thanks to the Southern Rescue Squad for being so open and willing to re-establish a rental agreement with us. We foresee a happy arrangement.

Finally we thank our faithful players — without you, there would be no games at all, and very little funding for our wonderful Southern band. Thank you for playing our games!

Living among such helpful, supportive people is wonderful, especially for our youth.

Sincerely,
The Southern Garrett

To the Editor,

I am writing this letter in support of a wonderful program benefiting the students of Garrett County. As a teacher, I have seen programs come and go, but I hope that Garrett Mentors Inc. is here to stay. I rarely see a program with such obvious contributions to the individual lives of many students within our schools.

Garrett Mentors Inc. is a program that carefully matches an adult mentor with a student who is struggling in his or her life in one way or another. These children are often at the lowest point in their young lives when they are assigned a mentor. Some students simply need the guidance of a positive role model or someone to talk to. The mentors meet with the students at least once a week to eat lunch and share fun activities. Most importantly, they listen and pay attention to the child's needs. This individual attention is invaluable.

Mentors have helped some of my students with character building, social skills, academic help, homework completion, or a boost in self-esteem. I have personally seen mentors work with individual students on skills such as talking politely in the lunchroom or answering questions appropriately. I have had mentors make crafts and recipes with my students. They often play games such as checkers or dominoes. Some mentors give presentations to teach our classes about interesting topics. Often a mentor will take along a classroom textbook to help a student study for a test. Many of the mentors take their students outside to play catch or go for a walk on the playground.

I have seen the joy in my students' faces when they see their mentors come to the classroom door. I have also noticed the confidence that is built in the way they feel about themselves.

In closing, I want to commend all of the Garrett County mentors for giving their valuable time to help light up the lives of the students in our community. The altruistic personalities of these wonderful people make immeasurable differences in the lives of our students. I want to personally thank them for their amazing dedication to our county's children.

Sincerely,
Robyn Nazelrod

To the Editor:

As we know, Cynthia Smith headed the Garrett County jail several years ago. She isn't surprised that inmates escape! She states that since 1980 we have needed a new jail! The jail was just built 5 years earlier than that, and it is shocking that a jail can be designed and useless in just 5 years after construction. Our old jail lasted 100 years!

She is correct in that our prior commissioners had a desire to spend millions on recreation centers. Thus we finally ousted them. The taxpayers should be involved in any decisions which involve millions of dollars. I would hope our new commissioners will not jump at the chance to spend more millions on a jail which is only 30+ years old.

It would seem that there should be some embarrassment in the escape, and that an insufficient search was made during the arrest and confinement of this person.

We are searched when I visit the register of wills office at the courthouse. Shouldn't all inmates be searched before confinement? Perhaps jail design was not at fault?

The following letter was sent to the Garrett County commissioners, and the writer requested that it be published in this column:

To the Commissioners:

I oppose a moratorium on exploring for gas in Garrett County, Maryland, and I assure you that if MDE does approve an application, there will be more than adequate controls in place to protect the public. I know this because I have been doing business in Garrett County for more than 20 years.

I currently own more than 300 acres and assure you that if I sign a gas lease, I will take it upon myself to protect my property, family, and friends here in Garrett County. I am working this property to the best of my ability under the current guidelines and regulations of Garrett County and the state Of Maryland. My blood, sweat and tears are all over this property. I take pride in ownership, and always put safety first.

With the economy dragging, I have watched my company go from $4.5 million in sales to $2.1 million in sales, and my work force go from 22 full-time jobs to 15 full-time jobs — we are barely hanging on.

Other examples of our economic troubles could be provided, but the point is clear enough: The proposed moratorium would further injure an already struggling economy. Interested parties will leave and go elsewhere to look for gas. Rather than closing the door, let's keep them on the hook for a while.

However, the economy is not my only reason for opposing the moratorium. Let's look at the bigger picture. Why did our forefathers move to this country? For freedom! For individual land rights and the ability have some control over our pursuit of happiness. Please do not take away what thousands have given their lives for in this country.

My position would be different if continued gas exploration posed any significant risk to the environment based on the historical facts, not opinions.

Let's take our time, keep it in first gear, and continue to move forward slowly and with caution. With good people like yourselves at the steering wheel, we will manage the risk, serve the public interest, protect our environment, and navigate to the finish line with a win for Garrett County, the land owners, and other citizens.

To the Editor:

I attended the Jan. 20 meeting at St. Peter's parish hall concerning gas drilling in our county. I realize there is always opposition on everything that can be done, but just sitting there and observing those against drilling in Garrett Co., I just couldn't help but wonder are these the same people who opposed Lowe's and Wal-Mart, and do they even have enough land that would qualify them to sign up? Shouldn't this be left up to the landowners and farmers? Where would we be if we had voted against these two establishments and the many jobs they have created for our residents?

Farmers are getting discouraged because of lack of income! Once barns become billboards or torn down for old lumber (instead of housing livestock), and their land is turned over to housing developers, this will affect all of us. This is one alternative right now. Do we need higher food prices?

We have a farm south of Oakland where we reared eight children. Thankfully, three of them are self-employed, so they are still in Garrett County. My youngest daughter joined the U.S. Army and served eight years, of which 18 months she was deployed. She would love to move back to Garrett County, but because of lack of jobs in our area, she is "stuck" in Washington state.

You heard how the gas companies stated that drilling would bring job opportunities to our county, and with decent incomes. Our neighboring states are taking advantage of these opportunities. So please take into consideration the local farmer who should have more of a say. Farmers are getting discouraged because of the lack of income.

Please note: Back in 2008, Garrett County landowners had contracts with gas companies, but because of the weak economy, we didn't get paid. So why must we vote on this again? Thank you for reading this and considering what I had to say.

Sincerely,
Ella May Martin

To the Editor:

A decade after Enron's meltdown, its legacy not only endures, it dominates the political economic landscape, with government doling out massive subsidies and targeted mandates for dysfunctional technologies in the name of climate jihad. Government has wholly abdicated its role as dispassionate arbiter of truth and keeper of level playing fields, evidently captured by the forces of Enronesque corporate kleptocracy. The situation goes beyond rent seeking, since it embraces widespread fraud by promising what it cannot deliver.

It's made possible because cynicism exploits acute gullibility.

With Manichean panache, millions now believe, falsely, that wind technology will lead the hosts of renewable energy as they battle a vulgar evil empire narcotized and exploited by multinational corporations in thrall to fossil fuels, literally lighting the postmodern world with premodern power.

The subprime mortgage derivative scams depended upon arcane Wall Street market knowledge and an uninformed sense of underlying assets.

Today, even fewer know electricity production and those who do profit by hiding wind performance "assets" from public scrutiny. Given the distress caused by the mortgage schemes, why not a call to arms about the potential fallout that will flow from subprime wind technology, an additive energy source that can't produce modern power and has no effective capacity?

Maryland's bipartisan rush to the bottom for wind in the mountains and offshore, highlighted by a legislative agenda requiring "power" purchase agreements that would substantially raise consumer bills, does Ken Lay proud.

GUARD UNIT RECEIVES DEVOTIONALS – Several members of McHenry United Methodist Church recently delivered 56 copies of the daily devotional book Strength of Service to members of the 243rd Engineer Support Platoon of the Maryland National Guard, headquartered in Cumberland. Dale Beck, U.S. Navy veteran of World War II and the Korean War, Gary Iden, U.S. Marine Corps veteran of the Vietnam War, and Mary Walcek, granddaughter and daughter of WWI and WWII veterans, spoke briefly and expressed their gratitude to and pride in the members of the platoon, who were headed to the Republic of Djibouti for a year-long deployment. While in that country, the platoon will help drill water wells for the local citizens. "We received a special collection for devotionals last July 4," explained Rev. Dr. Kevin Gooding, pastor of McHenry UMC. "But instead of sending the money away, the members of the church wanted to take the money and use it to buy devotionals for soldiers from western Maryland and the surrounding states." The church collected enough money to purchase devotionals for every member of the platoon, and personally inscribed the copies for the deploying team. First Lt. Jonathan R. Mendoza, platoon commander, expressed his appreciation to the church. "We feel these devotionals will be an aid and comfort to our soldiers while they are alone and away from their families and loved ones while deployed," he said. Surrounding the platoon above, left to right, are church members Iden, Beck, Walcek, Rev. Gooding, and Colin, Catherine, and Rebekah Gooding. Below are Beck and 1st Lt. Robert Welty, unit chaplain.

Tunnelton-Denver Hosting Book Drive During February

Books may be dropped off in the designated blue box at the school, at the Preston County Family Resource Network office in Kingwood, and Hospice Care office in Arthurdale during regular business hours.

In addition, financial donations may be made for the purchase of new books and mailed to Tunnelton-Denver Elementary School, 5294 S. Preston Hwy., Tunnelton, WV 26444.

The books will go directly to children and to updating classroom libraries.

For more information on the book drive and Title I volunteer opportunities, persons may contact Huggins at countycoordinator@yahoo.com or 304-288-5244.

The disparity between state and local funding and the county's unique position as the most affected of all school systems by the wealth formula place all involved in a difficult situation. Whether the budget loss is closed by changes to the school system or in the amount of funding received from the county is yet unknown.

In 30 minutes, Suzanne changed her fate.
Before I opened my own Curves, I was a member and it changed my life. I finally found an exercise program that I could stick with. It allowed me to work out on my schedule; a trainer was always available to help, encourage, and answer questions; and I did not feel like I had to lose weight before I walked in the door. There were women there just like me - some struggling to meet their goals, some who were there to maintain their success, and some who were there to help stay healthy. I lost over 60 pounds and more than 36 inches - and have been able to keep it off for more than 6 years! Curves works.

Adorable Adoptables

WAITING TO WARM YOUR HEART – Numerous pets are in need of homes at the Garrett County Animal Shelter this week. Left to right, they include a medium male black Lab mix with no ID tags that was picked up along 219 north of Oakland; Pooch, a nice boxer mix that was found in Swanton and hopefully will be reclaimed; a medium female black Lab mix with no ID tags that was picked up in Deer Park; and a female tabby. "She's friendly and will warm your heart and lap," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokeswoman about the feline. These and other dogs and cats are available for adoption, including a pure grey female feline, male orange tabby, and a female tortoise shell. "Four dogs were brought into the shelter in one day, but none were adopted this week, and a bunch of cats went out to rescue by HART," the spokeswoman noted. "Straw is still available for outside dog boxes. If your neighbor doesn't have bedding in his dog houses, please tell him to go to the shelter to get some for free or get some for him and leave a bag on his porch. All outside animals are required by law to have adequate shelter." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday. Photos courtesy of the GC Humane Society.

Financial Focus

Business Owners Need Their Own "Quarterback"

Unless you've been cut off from every source of media, not to mention all human contact, you're no doubt aware that the Super Bowl is fast approaching. If you're a football fan, you're probably eager to watch the game featuring this year's best teams. And if you're a business owner, you can learn a lot from how Super Bowl teams are put together.

One thing that virtually all Super Bowl teams share is a stellar quarterback — someone who drives his team with skill, agility and vision. These same qualities can be found in a qualified, experienced financial professional — someone who can act as your "quarterback" and help you reach your goals.

What sort of guidance might you get from your "quarterback"? Here are some possibilities:

• Coordinating your "team" — A Super Bowl-caliber quarterback is adept at getting everyone on the offense to play well together. And as a business owner, you, too, may need to get your own "team" up and running. Specifically, you may well need to use both an attorney and a tax professional to help you take care of various aspects of your business. Your financial advisor can help coordinate their services. For example, if your business is involved with your estate plan, you will have legal, tax and investment considerations to deal with — so you'll want these various professionals working together toward your ultimate objectives.

• Executing your strategy — Whether a quarterback hands off the football or throws a pass, he is attempting to follow his team's game plan, or strategy. And your financial advisor, as your quarterback, will help you execute the right game strategy to work toward your own objectives. For starters, your financial advisor may ask questions such as these: Do you have a retirement plan in place? If so, is it appropriate for your needs? Do you have the right types and amounts of business insurance? Have you considered business succession strategies? Once your financial advisor knows the answers to these questions, he or she can then help you implement your overall strategy through the use of suitable products and services.

• Adjusting your "plays" — When a quarterback sees something he doesn't like, such as a last-minute change in the opposing team's defense, he may call an "audible" to adjust his team's designed play. Similarly, if your financial advisor identifies obstacles to your success, he or she may recommend changes to your "plays" — the individual actions that make up your overall financial strategy. To illustrate: After reviewing the progress you're making toward the retirement lifestyle you seek, your financial advisor may determine that your retirement plan — such as an owner-only 401(k), SEP IRA or SIMPLE IRA — is underfunded, contains a high percentage of conservative investments or may need potential growth opportunities. Consequently, your financial advisor may help you decide it's time to consider adjusting your contribution level and investment mix.

A Super Bowl team needs a good quarterback — and so does your business. Consider putting one in action soon.

WHAT'S THE WORD? is the title of the 56th annual dance concert of West Virginia University's division of theatre and dance, opening tonight, Feb. 3, at the Creative Arts Center in Morgantown, W.Va. This is the first formal concert presented by the university's new dance director, Yoav Kaddar. There will be three performances in the Lyell B. Clay Concert Theatre: tonight and Friday, Feb. 4, at 7:30 p.m., and Saturday, Feb. 5, at 2 p.m. The program will present a blend of the written word and movement, as works of poetry and other writing will be used as a foundation for the dance pieces. For example, "Quiet Heart," choreographed by dance faculty member Renee Nicholson, was inspired by and includes the poem of the same title by WVU English professor James Harms. It features the songs "Eulogy for Evolution," "The Last Bird," and Movement for String Orchestra by Philip Glass. This is one of several pieces in the same vein. Tickets may be purchased by calling 304-293-7469 or visiting the WVU Box Office at the Mountainlair or the Creative Arts Center. They are also available at www.ticketmaster.com. Tickets are reserved seating: $20 for adults, $18 for senior citizens and WVU faculty and staff, and $15 for WVU students with ID. For more information, persons may visit theatre.wvu.edu.

OTT Slates Auditions For Comedy Farce

Our Town Theatre has announced an audition call for The Walworth Farce, a comedy by Edna Walsh. The play will be directed by Richard Hill, and production dates are March 30 and 31, and April 1, 2, and 3.

Auditions will be held at Our Town Theatre, 121 Center Street, Oakland, on Friday, Feb. 11, from 7 to 9 p.m.; Saturday, Feb. 12, 1 to 3 p.m.; and Sunday, Feb. 13, 1 to 3 p.m. Special appointments for auditions can be made by calling 301-334-5640, and speaking with Jane Avery, artistic director of OTT.

The cast calls for three males: one male, 40-60 years old, and two males 20 to 35; and one female, 18-30.

An English or Cockney accent for the female would be helpful, but is not mandatory, Hill said.

Hill gave a synopsis of the play:

"An Irishman named Dinny lives in a grim council flat on London's Walworth Road with his two 20-something sons, Sean and Blake," Hill said. "Throughout the play, they re-enact a home-made drama routine in a surreal and dynamic series of scenes. The boys run from one room to the next; they hide in wardrobes and pop out on cue; they dress in drag and juggle ladies' wigs and voices to play several parts at once."

Bingo Locale Change Noted By SHS Boosters

The Southern Garrett Band Boosters organization has announced a change in location for the group's weekly bingo games. The games have been held at the Deer Park fire hall for several years, and are now being moved to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad hall in Mountain Lake Park. The first games at the new location will take place this Friday, Feb. 4, weather permitting.

The boosters extended gratitude to the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department for being a willing host for the weekly fundraiser, and to the Southern squad for offering the new site.

"The only reason we are changing location is because our attendance has dropped dramatically over the past year, and players and volunteers have expressed the wish to have a more centrally located site," said a booster spokesperson. "We have nothing but good things to say for our friends at Deer Park, who have been gracious to us for the past several years."

The games are hosted by the boosters as the organization's main fundraiser. The funds are used to support both the marching and concert bands at Southern High School.

Wild Mustang Roams Grantsville

by D. Clatterbuck, Garrett County Humane Society investigator

North of the National Road in Grantsville the "Wild West" seemed to have returned in all its glory: A wild sorrel mustang, with full mane extended behind him, was running free on several farms.

Apparently, local farmers "took a shine to him," fed him, and indulgently let him graze on their properties. When late fall came to an end, the farmers became concerned about the harsh winter that was quickly approaching. As a group, they decided to contact the Garrett County Humane Society because they knew the GCHS could provide the mustang with shelter, food, veterinary and blacksmith services, and other staples required by equine care, and find him a good home.

Now that he is safe, finding a "forever home" for the lovable gelding will be the most important.

His name is Cowboy, and he is 6 years old. He was born in Rock Creek, Nev. When his territory there caught fire, he was relocated and entered into the Bureau of Land Management Wild Horse and Burro Program. Through this program, he was adopted by an area resident and brought to Garrett County.

Cowboy is being sponsored by a group of realtors from Railey Realty. They have paid for all his needs, including transportation, board, and care.

The GCHS is a volunteer organization supported exclusively through fundraisers and donations. If you would like to volunteer or donate to the Garrett County Humane Society, call 301-334-4470.

Local Winged Wildlife Tallied During CBC

The 111th Audubon Christmas Bird Count, an effort that utilizes volunteers throughout the Americas to collect bird data, took place recently. It was the 40th such bird count conducted in Garrett County, which has participated in the event since 1950.

Unlike last year's CBC, which was hampered by blizzard conditions, this year's bird watching was considered by the Audubon Society to be a success. Thanks to temperatures that ranged between 15 and 26 degrees Fahrenheit, minimal winds, and snow that measured between two to eight inches deep throughout the area, many birds were sited.

During the specified count day, the bird watchers found 58 species of birds. Four other species were seen during the count period. The Garrett County average of species noted for the CBC is 58.

Thirteen field observers logged in 321 miles by car and 12 miles on foot, as they searched their assigned territories for birds. In the field, the group spent 19.5 hours on foot and 35 hours by car for a total of 54.5 hours in the field. The participants included Caroline and Neal Blizzard, Kevin Dodge, Courtney Englar, Aaron Holochwost, Alan and Kyle Klotz, Mikey and Jo Anna Lutmerding, Bill and Fran Pope, Connie Skipper, and Becky Wilson.

Three stationary watchers, Barbara Skipper, Mike Speranzella, and Ashley Rodeheaver, spent seven hours counting birds at their bird feeders.

With Deep Creek Lake 99 per cent frozen, the waterfowl species count suffered, as the frozen waters prompt the birds to migrate. The waterfowl that were found were spotted in moving water such as the Youghiogheny River and a few unfrozen inlets of Deep Creek Lake. Twelve species of waterfowl (20% of all species found in the area) were counted.

The most unusual bird located during the count was a sandhill crane discovered by Fran Pope. Sandhill cranes stand about 4 feet tall with a wing span of 6.5 to 7 feet. They are not known to breed in Maryland, but are seen occasionally during their migrations.

There are several documented records of the bird in Garrett County since 1989, but this was the first sandhill crane to ever be spotted on a Christmas Bird Count in the county.

Other notable birds were tundra swans seen flying by the Lutmerdings. Eastern bluebirds, which have been seen only four times in the 40 bird counts held in Garrett County, were seen by Dodge and Holochwost.

Two adult bald eagles were discovered by the Klotzes as they flew over the Youghiogheny River in Hoyes. The Lutmerdings found the only gadwall, hooded mergansers, ruffed grouse, barred owl, American robin, and purple finch.

A record 16 red-bellied woodpeckers were spotted, the highest number ever tallied.

According to the Audubon Society, the data collected help scientists better understand how birds and the environment are faring throughout North America.

Lakers Fall On The Road To Rockville, Potomac; Rebound Against Dundalk

In a classic tale of missed and made free-throw shots, the Garrett College men's basketball team fell at Rockville, 88-75, Saturday evening. In Monday's matchup away at Potomac State, the Lakers lost by a single basket, 77-75, with 17 seconds to play. As host to Dundalk last night, Garrett gained double-figure scoring from four of its players to win, 81-54.

In Saturday's battle with the Knights, the Laker's late rally was stopped by a missed free throw, which unfortunately for them was followed by Rockville taking advantage of its opportunities from the line.

Garrett was led by Rodney Clark's game-high 25 points. Frank Holloway added 15 and Jordan Gipson, 10. The Dubuche brothers, Joe and Theo, each finished with nine points.

For the Knights, four players scored in double figures. Ennis Whatley had 18, Zack Ogunfolu hit for 17, Bobby Bazelais scored 15, and Rauof Osman accounted for 12 points.

Down eight with four minutes to go, Holloway missed a free throw and Rockville answered with six-straight points.

"We shot too early and didn't try to control the tempo," said Garrett head coach Dennis Gibson.

Rockville led at the half, 45-34.

Garrett sank seven three-pointers led by Clark's three. Rockville finished with five, with Ogunfolu hitting three of them.

Clark, Holloway, and Stem each had five of Garrett's 29 rebounds.

Rockville finished 23 of 28 at the line while Garrett was 12 for 17.

In a tight road game with Potomac State, the Lakers lost in a heartbreaker as Darrell Paterson hit a go-ahead bucket with only seconds left in regulation. Garrett got off several shots in the 17 seconds that remained, but were unable to connect.

Joe Dubuche missed a three in the corner on the ensuing break but Vladi Vukovic managed to snare the rebound and the Lakers called timeout. On the ensuing inbound play, the Lakers missed an open 10 footer and five put backs, that would have tied the game.

The win was a bit of vengeance for Potomac State, who fell in the previous meeting of the two teams, 108-85.

Joe Dubuche made four three-point goals and led all scorers with 24 points for Garrett, which led 34-26 at halftime.

Garrett played without starters Callum Jenkins, Kory Gibson, and Frank Holloway.

Jordan Gipson added 12 points and 10 boards. Vukovic also hit the boards with 11 to go along with seven points. Jeff Stem led with five assists. Rodney Clark had 11 points, and Theo Dubuche, 10.

The short-handed Lakers led for the first 25 minutes of the game, but Potomac State managed to pull ahead on the strength of Patterson's second half effort.

Carlton Johnson led the Catamounts with 22 points, seven rebounds, and four assists, while Patterson finished with 17 points, five rebounds, and four assists. Simeon Denny hit four three-point goals and had 17 points, and Mo Newby added nine points and 10 rebounds.

"It was a tough loss for us, we are having trouble with injuries, but I thought we had the game won when Clark went to the line," noted Coach Gibson.

Clark missed the front end of the one-on-one and Theo Dubuche the follow-up shot from a rebound, which set up Potomac State's game winning play.

"We could have and should have won this game, but it is very hard to teach composure and maturity in game-winning situations; players make plays."

In their home game last night against Dundalk, the Lakers received big production from Theo Dubuche, who scored 16 points, and hit three of Garrett's eight three-pointers.

Teammate Holloway added 13 points, Joe Dubuche had 12 points and four steals, and Jordan Gipson, 12 points and eight rebounds. Clark had eight points, and Jeff Stem seven points and four assists.

Dundalk tried to spread its offense and score off dribble penetration, but the Lakers countered with a zone trap defense. Stem and Stephen Mackay led the defense and helped force an up-tempo style that led to easy buckets on the transition.

Garrett was up 38-24 at halftime and kept a comfortable double-figure lead throughout the second half.

"It was a good win for us, after coming off two tough losses," said Coach Gibson.

The Lakers host Prince George's on Saturday at 5 p.m on Sophomore Night.

NHS And SHS Part Of Four-Way Bocce Tourney Tie

Northern and Southern high schools are among the four area teams tied atop the final standing Saturday afternoon at Mountain Ridge as area high school athletics got its first look at its newest sport when the Miners hosted the first Unified Sports Indoor Bocce Tournament.

All of the public high schools in both Allegany and Garrett counties took part in the area's inaugural tournament, while the Miners had two teams, a red and black squad.

The Mountain Ridge black team, and Fort Hill, Northern, and Southern teams all finished with three wins to tie for first.

Unified Sports is a registered program of Special Olympics that pairs athletes with special needs together with partners without intellectual disabilities. Under the guidelines of Unified Sports, a team of eight players, as used in the tournament, would consist of four athletes and four partners.

Bocce is a sport played between two teams of eight players, with each team being separated into groups of four. One group lines up on one end of the court while the other group lines up across from the first.

Each frame begins when one small ball, the pallino, is tossed onto the playing field. In Saturday's tournament, the playing field consisted of the area from half court to the foul line on the opposite end of the court.

Eight larger balls (bocce) are then tossed with the aim of coming as close as possible to the pallino.

The team that sets the pallino tosses the bocce until one lands in play. The opposing team then throws its bocce until it gets a ball closer to the pallino, or runs out of balls.

A throw can be used to score points, move a bocce from either team, or move the pallino.

The team with the closest ball to the pallino after every four throws earns a point, with one team being able to score as many as four points each frame. The points for each frame are added together until one team reaches 16 points.

All of the teams who played in the tournament will play again on Saturday, Feb. 12, at Northern High School.

Fox's Pizza topped Taylor-Made, 69-54, with Mike Browning and Bryson Paugh leading the winners with 21 and 20 points, respectively. Jason Brenneman accounted for Taylor Made's team-high 20 points scored.

SHS JROTC ASSISTS LOCAL BOY SCOUTS — Braving cold and deep snow, cadets from Southern High School's JROTC class assisted local Boy Scouts during the Scouts' annual Klondike Derby held at New Germany State Park. During the event, cadets built a one-rope bridge and showed Scouts how to cross it. The Scouts also received instruction on making Swiss seats and were then given an opportunity to cross the 55 foot one-rope bridge. The exercise is meant to improve teamwork and communications skills. In the above photo are the 13 cadets and their instructor. In the front row, from left to right, are retired Lt. Col. Ralph Sheaffer, Kristina Hall, Trevor Bosse, and Carl Cosner. In the back row, from left to right, are: Nathan Ford, Johnathan Potts, Robert Locke, Jesse Paugh, Ryan Schrier, J.R. Huskies Take Three Straight; Beat Frankfort, BW, and SHS

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team was tested late in the fourth quarter while hosting rival Frankfort Friday night, but held on to win, 68-59. The Huskies then went on to completely dominate their Monday competition, Bishop Walsh, by a margin of 80-43. In last night's match-up, Northern beat Southern at the free-throw line and won the cross-county rivalry game, 57-45.

While hosting Frankfort, the Huskies fell behind early, 14-4, but rallied to pull within two by the end of the first quarter, and take the lead by halftime.

Kaitlynn Fratz scored over 30 points for the second straight game by making 10 field goals and going 9-for-13 from the foul line. She totaled 32 points against the Falcons. She also led the team with seven rebounds and had four assists.

Terra McKenzie scored 18 points, and Kiersten Butler had her best performance of the year, according to Northern coach Steve Fratz.

"Kiersten had an outstanding game on defense for us, and although she only scored seven points, all seven of them were important."

Butler also had six steals and four assists.

Frankfort was led by Maddie Shambaugh, who nailed four three-pointers on her way to 25 total points, and Savannah Hose, who had 16 points.

The Falcons outrebounded the Huskies, 35-20, but committed 20 turnovers to Northern's seven.

After trailing 17-15 at he end of the first quarter, Northern was able to take a 33-29 lead by the end of the second. The score was 49-43 by the end of the third.

Airica Paugh had 10 points in Northern's 36-35 win in the jayvee game. Stephanie Cornachia had 13 points for Frankfort.

There were no offensive hang-ups for the Huskies in Monday's match with Bishop Walsh. The Northern squad came out blazing in the first quarter, sinking 12-of-15 field goal attempts and taking an early 30-9 lead.

The Huskies hit 10 three-pointers on the night, with McKenzie accounting for five and Fratz hitting three on her way to a game-high 26 points scored. She also tallied 6 assists.

McKenzie scored 23 points, while Morgan Brosnihan had 11 and Allison Yommer collected 10 rebounds.

Bishop Walsh was led by Ashley Turnbull with 17 points and Abbie Mathews with 13.

In last night's action in Oakland, Fratz knocked down 13 of her 16 free-throw shots on her way to 22 total points.

While Fratz was held to just four field goals, she got herself to the line and capitalized on the opportunities. Teammate McKenzie finished with 15 points and Butler added three three-pointers for nine points total.

The Huskies led 11-10 after one quarter and 30-21 at the half. Southern cut the Northern lead to six by the end of the third before the Huskies took control of the fourth.

For the Rams, Hannah Horne led in scoring with 13 points, while Mandy Sweitzer added nine.

Raeslee Weimer scored 10 points and Alicia Roth added nine as the Rams took the jayvee contest 32-26. Kirsten Rayner scored seven points for Northern.

The Huskies will host Preston on Monday.

Garrett Stumbles At Rockville, Potomac; Topple Dundalk With Last Second Shot

The Garrett College women's basketball team began this week's play with a loss to Rockville on Saturday, in spite of a stellar performance from Alice Abiya. The Lakers were then downed in their Monday night game by Potomac State, 92-36. In last night's match up with Dundalk, Tiara Allen-Washington nailed her first points of the game with less than a second left in regulation, winning the game, 46-45.

In the match-up with Montgomery Rockville on Saturday, Garrett's leading scorer, Abiya, recorded a double-double with 19 points and 15 rebounds. This individual effort was enough to keep the Lakers competitive in the first half, but things came apart for Garrett College after the break.

"We had trouble with the new girl, Faye Dunston," explained Garrett head coach Joanna Pennell.

"She's strong and plays a good inside to outside game. The whole team was on fire during the first half, but if we could have played the same way in the first half that we did in the second, it would have been a different story."

Tanisha Williams scored a game-high 27 points on nine field goals and 6-of-8 shooting from the foul line for the Lakers, while Jalesa Johnson added nine points.

Taira Poole scored 20 points for Rockville as five Knights finished with more than 10 points. Dunston scored 17, Alexandra Silva added 16, and both Yasmine Harris and Porcha Davis finished with 15.

At Potomac State, Garrett had difficulty producing offensively. The game saw the Lakers fall by a margin of 56 points.

Williams led the Lakers with 12 points scored. Johnson had 10, and Alyssa Rounds accounted for 5.

At halftime, Garrett trailed 49-16. The Catamounts were hot from behind the three-point line, sinking 10 from long range.

In last night's home game against Dundalk, Allen-Washington put up an uncontested lay-up to edge the Lions by a point. The shot came after Lion Adora Bryant hit her sixth three-pointer to give Dundalk a 45-44 lead with 10 seconds to go.

With the pressure on, the Lakers set up a play for the final shot and Johnson was able to find a wide open Allen-Washington for the game winner.

Abiya led Garrett with 20 points and 20 rebounds. Johnson added six points and 11 rebounds, Williams had seven rebounds, six points, for steals and three assists.

Bryant's 18 points led the Lions, whose top scorer, Cassie Anderson, was limited by the Lakers to only seven points scored.

The win snaps a five-game losing streak for Garrett, which hosts a make-up game tonight against Westmoreland at 7 p.m.

Garrett College Sophomore Night Set For Saturday

The Garrett College basketball team is set to host Sophomore Night this Saturday. The Lakers will play Prince George's, and tip-off is slated for 5 p.m.

The Garrett sophomore players will be Jeff Stem, Kory Gibson, Rodney Clark, Vladimir Vukovic, Jordan Gipson, Joe Dubuche, and Theo Dubuche.

Because Gibson is a former Northern High School player and Stem played for Southern High School, any fan wearing the school colors of either school will receive free admission.

Laker coach Dennis Gibson states, however, that it is likely an unfortunate injury will keep Gibson from playing.

Southern High Wrestling Results

The Southern High School wrestling team claimed three recent victories, topping Williamsport, 37-33, Keyser, 47-21, and Fort Hill, 49-17. A more detailed account of the matches will follow.

The Rams are set to wrestle Northern tonight at 7 p.m.

Looking for something?

It seems that we all are. In this day and age if we have enough money it seems that we can buy just about anything that we might be looking for.

However there is one thing that seems to elude most of us....and that is peace.

So many lives are full of chaos and peace is hard to find.

The Bible tells us that peace must be pursued like a valuable treasure.

Join us this weekend and allow Jesus to bring some peace into your life!

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Last week was the 25th anniversary of the space shuttle Challenger blowing up with our school teacher in space on board. I remember this well because I scolded the students at GCC who were watching cartoons on the student center television instead of the important breaking news.

I can identify with our president, since the State of the Union came on so late. He spent two long hard years dealing with massive inherited programs, and no massive problems can suddenly get fixed. And I heard one person say that the American people want to see their president appear happy.

Americans saw that about a month ago in Tucson when he had a simple message, "Yes, America did get hit with a tragedy, and just like Congresswoman Giffords, America will recover. But it will not be easy. We need to have a new normal. It is not the end of the American Dream. In some way, we will survive."

He used to hear lots of cheers and many supportive voices. That was easy when he was climbing the ladder of success. I know that myself. Like me, he did not hear that often enough. And all he hears now is that he must cut budget spending without recognizing what it means to our country or my family and myself.

My financial situation is not a crisis, but just an uncomfortable short-falling last month due to some spending that was absolutely necessary for the future, like the $400 to buy groceries for my daughters at college for the spring semester, and given Garrett County's climate, I did buy too much heating oil, and that involved big bills.

I am thinking about a line from an old Simon and Garfunkel song, "The Boxer." A boxer stands alone bearing every scar and injury he suffered. He says he is leaving, but he still stands alone, even as he says he is "going home where the New York City winters aren't bleeding me... going home."

But home for me is a place where the winters do still bleed me. And there is nowhere I can run to, nowhere that someone like my parents are waiting for me with open arms to greet me, comfort me, and help me.

But even this winter will end, and spring will come. And then the cost of oil will not bleed me.

America will get out of Bush's two wars which are bleeding our financial and other kinds of resources. Of course, there is no such thing as soon enough, because that thing sucked out all the money from the treasury, not as what the Republicans called "the entitlements." That is supposed to be a separate fund which my generation paid into every week of our long working lives. But Bush "borrowed" money from it. Did he even plan to pay it back? When and how? And will I get any payback for the 20 years that I worked desperately hard to bring in enough to provide the basic essentials for the Sussman household?

I do not completely blame my husband. He worked hard, too, but he used his talent for the highest of woodworking skills for the developers of an expensive house, and they did not adequately compensate him. It's easy to promise a big bonus to someone who is working 24/7, but it is just as easy to not deliver on that promise. Promises are made to be broken, regardless of who suffers. And in this case, it was me and my children.

But I invested in my own education, not with money but with work. I worked full time while I was in graduate school. And I gave back ten-fold to the college the money that they invested in me. Ask any former student where they got the best education possible, and it was from me. That does not mean that I could fix a few students who never engaged in their primary education. It is not the job of the professor of English at a community college to teach knowledge about standard English. Our job was teaching critical thinking, analysis skills, and the ability to write well enough so they could succeed in a university or even graduate school.

The weather forecast is not very promising, since it calls for some pretty major snowfall in the upper Appalachian Mountains. But that might mean not quite so frigid temperatures. And it will go east and north. But who knows how much snow will fall tonight in Bittinger and the rest of Garrett County? That will mean that I will be cut off because of too much snow in my lane. And that means more loneliness for me. It is already unbearable.

I've been thinking about the benefits of gardening. When a parent works alongside his or her children, it is an excellent chance to engage in conversation with them. And the work is pleasant and satisfying. When you are weeding a patch, you can see the result of your labor. Then when the garden starts producing real food, it is so wonderful to run out to your garden and gather greens for a fresh salad, and select a vegetable for your side dish for that evening's dinner. Plus, if you forgo using deadly chemicals for pesticide or weed control, that is a significant health benefit, because those kinds of chemicals lead anyone who eats them in their daily diets on the road to cancer.

Unless we are willing to invest in education and infrastructure, our economy will not grow. So it is not just cutting spending that is necessary to spur growth in our economy. We must also invest, and that means increasing our revenues. And we must move toward a renewable energy supply, not continue on the road of usage of carbon-based fuel, which leads to the death of our home planet. But that would take major hard work, more investing, and sometimes sacrifices.

America never looks backward. Let's face it. The race to put a man on the moon was not without spending. But it also created many new industries, employed thousands of people, and gave us some of the proudest parts of our lives.

I am very relieved listening to our Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, because what she said about the crisis in Egypt is pretty much the same thing that I wish I could tell the president immediately. Although I sent a detailed e-mail, who knows whether it will reach his eyes. Maybe it doesn't make any sense that a disabled woman in Bittinger would have any important advice for President Obama. But I do, from my own experience in a youth-based protest movement against the Vietnam war. Then California Governor Ronald Reagan promised, "I will quiet these campuses, even if it takes a bloodbath!" And President Nixon called in the National Guard to combat protestors at Kent State.

Well, the result was the opposite of what Nixon and Reagan desired. It only doubled the resolve to be heard. And by the way, a whole bunch of college graduates were furious at the Republican Party, and many of us turned into passionate supporters of the Democratic Party.

Thousands of University of Maryland students participated in shutting down Route 1, and that did get attention from our national government, because Route 1 was a major route for D.C. commuters going back into the suburbs. And we got plenty of media coverage, too.

And the general population of American was only lagging a little behind us, and soon all of America started demanding that they get our troops out of Vietnam, especially when the most powerful media figure, Walter Cronkite, pronounced, "The Vietnam conflict is unchangeable by military activities."

And then President Johnson admitted that we and Cronkite were right. Especially since some of the in-power Republicans showed such contempt for our most basic civil rights embodied in the First Amendment. Because the four who died in Ohio weren't wide-eyed radicals. They were ordinary mainstream college students and their families' bright hope. They actually killed peaceful protestors, and it had gone way too far, as any other American with a bit of common sense realized.

It is odd that Bittinger is the birthplace of two passionate advocates for peace and social justice across the world. Besides me, there is my former student Terry Beitzel, now a professor in the program for peace and justice at James Madison University in Virginia. I need to talk to him right away, because Bittinger is a bit of a lonely place for people like me. Terry's mother Naomi will help me to get him to understand what I am talking about, even if she comes from a very different social background than I did.

I went into new territory for me by ordering a movie from DirectTV. I waited for months to see the movie Secretariat about the great race horse of the 1970s. He is one of the greatest American race horses in history. Like Man o' War, Secretariat was a bright chestnut like my own beloved Little Joe. I guess I missed the beginning, because he was already getting ready to run in the third leg of the Triple Crown, the Belmont Stakes.

He won the first two legs, the Kentucky Derby and then the Preakness. Not many horse were able to win the first two races. But several did. The Belmont is the longest, so it takes rare stamina to win it. The Derby and Preakness require pure speed, and Secretariat broke the speed records in both. And that's how he started the Belmont. Many people said he was too fast to go a mile and a half. But he just opened a bigger and bigger lead over his main rival Sham, who was considered the best race horse in big distance races.

When they got to the homestretch, Secretariat opened up a massive lead. Many watchers said he looked like a living machine. And the ending margin was huge. Almost unbelievable.

What I saw so far was only the preview. The entire movie is starting any minute now.

At least it's almost time for the Super Bowl!

Circus Tickets Are Available Through Reading Promotion

Maryland Public Libraries, including Ruth Enlow, are participating in a reading promotion with the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus that gives children the opportunity to win tickets to an upcoming performance.

To be eligible to win tickets, children check out and read three books over the six-week promotional window – between Feb. 7 and March 18 – and record the titles on a reading log available at all branches of the Ruth Enlow Library.

This reading log must be returned to the library's circulation desk, complete with a parent's signature, by Friday, March 18. At this time, each branch will randomly select and notify one winner, who will receive a family four-pack of tickets for the April 1 performance at 1st Mariner Arena in Baltimore.

In addition to the contest, $5 off discount coupons are available at each Ruth Enlow Library branch for anyone interested in purchasing tickets to the circus, which is performing from March 30 to April 10 at 1st Mariner Arena.

For more information, persons may contact their local branches or Keela Pfaff at 301-334-3996, ext. 115, or keela@relib.net.

Native Plant Mtg. To Feature "Saving Biodiversity" DVD

The Western Mountains Chapter of the Maryland Native Plant Society will hold its regular meeting at the Appalachian Laboratory in Frostburg on Tuesday, Feb. 15, at 7 p.m.

A DVD featuring Doug Tallamy, professor of entomology and wildlife ecology at the University of Delaware, will be shown. The DVD shows Tallamy's presentation titled "Saving Biodiversity Through Native Plants."

The program will begin immediately following a brief business meeting. The public is welcome to attend.

"If you have never heard Doug Tallamy speak about the importance of native plants in the landscape (or even if you have), this is a DVD worth viewing," said a spokesperson. "He does cutting-edge research in the mid-Atlantic on the ways insects interact with plants and how such interactions determine biodiversity."

Tallamy is also the author of Bringing Nature Home. His presentation provides arguments as to why the choices people make in their gardens and backyards profoundly impact biodiversity.

"With humor, as well as beautiful images of birds, insects, and plants of the mid-Atlantic, Dr. Tallamy will capture your attention and inspire you to 'go native,'" the spokesperson said.

The directions to the Appalachian Laboratory are as follows: From I-68 take exit 33 (Braddock Rd. and Midlothian Rd. exit). Follow Braddock Rd. approximately .2 mile to the entrance of the lab, located on the left side of the road (301 Braddock Rd.). There is parking in front of the building.

The Maryland Native Plant Society uses education, research, and community service to increase awareness and appreciation of native plants and their habitats leading to their conservation and restoration. Membership is open to all who are interested in Maryland's native plants and their habitats.

Preserving Maryland's natural heritage, increasing knowledge about native plants, and helping to further the society's mission are the goals. MNPS sponsors monthly meetings, workshops, field trips, and an annual fall conference. For more information, one may visit www.mdflora.org.

The Western Mountains Chapter has formed to expand the efforts of MNPS on the Allegheny Plateau and Ridge and Valley physiographic provinces of the central Appalachians. Residents of western Maryland, nearby Pennsylvania, and West Virginia, and anyone else interested in learning more about and conserving the native plants of this region are invited to join.

For more information, persons may contact Liz McDowell, chapter coordinator, at 301-895-3686 or boyerandmcdowell@earthlink.net.

The dean's list requires students to earn a grade point average of 3.5–3.9 in 12 or more semester hours.

Locals Named To Dean's List At St. Mary's

Three local students were recently awarded dean's list academic honors for the fall 2010 semester at St. Mary's College of Maryland. Jana Rebecca Fronczek, Friendsville, Jessica Korrine Harvey, Accident, and Andrew Thomas Mowbray, Oakland, were all honored.

Dean's list honors are awarded to full-time students at St. Mary's who earn a semester grade-point average of 3.5 or better on 12 or more graded credits.

"I am pleased to see students at St. Mary's College of Maryland meeting the demanding requirements for placement on the dean's list," said president Joe Urgo. "Ours is among the most rigorous liberal arts programs nationally, and this achievement demonstrates true commitment to academic success."

More than 2,000 students attend St. Mary's College of Maryland, which was designated the Maryland state honors college in 1992.

NEITHER SNOW NOR SLEET nor anything else will stay the jogger from his appointed task, as anyone who knows a dedicated runner can attest. The weather in Garrett County has been raw and brutal, but runners must do what runners must do. Mike Neel of Swanton is pictured above in his bright coat, jogging along Fort Hill Road on Saturday, Jan. 30. His neighbor Ed Sipes snapped the picture. All residents of the Mountaintop must find ways to press on in the face of harsh winters, perhaps deciding that when life hands out ice, make slushies.

This event is a fund raiser to help the Scouts pay their expenses for the 2011 camping season.

THE OLD-TIME STRING BAND JOE-PIE-WEED will provide the musical entertainment for the fourth annual Cabin Fever Fundraiser, slated for Saturday, March 26, from 4 to 7 p.m. at New Germany State Park. The event will include homemade soups, breads, and desserts, plus door prizes. See story. Pictured are Jason Twigg with fiddle, Fritz Kessler with guitar, and John Brode with banjo.

Annual Cabin Fever Fundraiser To Be Held On March 26

The fourth annual Cabin Fever Fundraiser to benefit Friends of New Germany and Savage River Watershed Association will be held from 4 to 7 p.m. on Saturday, March 26, at New Germany State Park.

The entrance fee covers an evening of homemade soups, breads, and desserts, plus door prizes and live music by Joe-Pye-Weed. There will also be a 50-50 raffle and a silent auction, where individuals can bid on a variety of fine items and services.

New this year will be a "treasure trove" table filled with previously owned items available for a donation on a first-come basis.

"Remember, we can only accept cash or checks, so leave your credit card at home," noted a spokesperson.

Joe-Pye-Weed is a three piece old-time string band consisting of John Brode, Fritz Kessler, and Jason Twigg. These local musicians play classic fiddle tunes, breakdowns, slow listening pieces, and waltzes. Their repertoire consists of songs from the turn of the 20th century and earlier, centering on fiddle and claw-hammer banjo duets, with the guitar added for more of a driving rhythm.

Brode started playing claw-hammer banjo in 1998 and cites Bob Carlin, Brad Leftwich, and Reed Martin as being his major influences. Brode is also an avid shape-note singer.

After starting with classical piano, Kessler switched to bluegrass banjo at age 14, and is now also versatile on the guitar and mandolin. Kessler's influences are Norman Blake, the Blue Sky Boys, and Steve Huber.

After meeting Brode in 1999, Twigg put guitar playing aside to learn the fiddle. He credits Buddy Thomas, Tommy Jarrell, and Rhys Jones as major influences on his playing style.

Admission at the door is $10 for adults and $5 for children age 6 to 12.

"But if you buy your tickets in advance at Beachy's Pharmacy in Grantsville or Red Ridge Auto in Frostburg, you pay a discount price of $8 and $4, respectively," the spokesperson said.

The public is welcome to attend the fundraiser, which will be held at the New Germany Lake House and Rec Hall. In case of severe weather, the event will be held on Sunday, March 27, from noon to 3 p.m.

For more information, persons may contact the Savage River Watershed Association at 301-689-7156 or srwadirector@gmail.com or Friends of New Germany at newgermanyfriends@yahoo.com.

Friends of New Germany is a non-profit organization of local and statewide persons interested in enhancing and preserving the beauty and quality of the recreational resources of New Germany State Park.

Savage River Watershed Association is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed, by assisting interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach.

Discovery Cent. Staff Planning Mexico Trip

The staff of the Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center is now preparing for a trip to Mexico to see the monarch butterfly migration, according to Caroline Blizzard, director of the center. Blizzard is inviting local students/schools to send along small items for the butterfly classroom in Mexico.

Randee Craig, principal and teacher at Swan Meadow School, is also going on the trip.

"It is our hope to connect the classroom in the overwintering areas in Sierra Macheros to Swan Meadow via Skype," Blizzard said. "We will also be video taping so we can share the experience with you all when we return."

Blizzard said the Discovery Center's Facebook page will be updated with information, and the staff is hoping to establish a blog so that students and other interested persons can follow them on their journey.

"We don't have a lot of room and can't carry much with us," Blizzard said, "but if there is something that students would like to send to the classroom, we'd be happy to take it along."

Craig's class at Swan Meadow is making a quilt square and writing letters for the butterfly classroom in Mexico.

The group is planning to leave on Feb. 15. Persons who wish to send items along are asked to get them to the center by Feb. 13 at the latest. If necessary, Blizzard said she can come pick up items as well.

Blizzard noted that the group will also be taking clothing to leave in one of the harder-hit flood areas in Sierra Chincua. They do not need clothing donations, however.

For more information, persons may call the center at 301-387-7067, or visit the web site, www.dnr.state.md.us/publiclands/western/deepcreeklake, or the center's Facebook page.

WIND CHILL FACTORS

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. Everybody knows that "wind chill" means that when the wind is blowing, it feels a lot colder than the actual temperature. But how do they come up with the numbers?

A. Wind chill is a quantitative, numerical way of expressing the fact that heat is transferred away from your skin at a certain rate. In engineering, the rate of heat transfer from any surface to the surrounding air is the product of two factors: the thermal gradient times the thermal conductivity.

The thermal gradient is easy to figure. Suppose your internal body temperature is 98.6 F = 37 C. The temperature of your skin might be closer to 75 F = 24 C, which is typical of an indoor room temperature. If the outdoor temperature on a cold day is 19 F, the thermal gradient is 56 F.

The thermal conductivity of air is much more complicated, because it depends on how fast the air is moving, and that is the factor that gives rise to a wind-chill effect. There is a thin boundary layer of air alongside your skin, which acts as an insulator. As the heat leaves your body, it travels across that boundary layer to reach the nearby ambient air. If the air is perfectly still and you're not moving either, the molecules of air diffuse back and forth across the boundary layer, gradually carrying heat away. Your body can keep up with that, keeping your skin temperature the same.

But if there is a strong wind blowing, that boundary layer gets a whole lot thinner, and heat moves across it faster. The thermal conductivity becomes a much larger number. It's harder for your internal body to circulate warm blood to your skin fast enough to maintain the normal skin temperature, and you start to get cold. Keep this up long enough and the amount of heat carried away is very great, so your skin temperature drops. With the skin temperature closer to the ambient temperature, the thermal gradient is not as large, and the total heat transfer decreases.

The National Weather Service has published a wind-chill table (www.nws.noaa.gov/om/windchill/index.shtml) that results from numerical calculations about the behavior of moving air and the thermal gradient. If the temperature is 30 F, the gradient to your skin temperature (suppose 75 F) is 45 degrees. At 5 mph wind, it feels like it is about 5 degrees cooler, because the boundary layer is shrinking. At 10 mph, the faster-moving air (twice as fast) makes the boundary layer even thinner, and heat is carried away faster, so it feels about 9 degrees cooler. That's a serious wind-chill effect. At 25 mph, the boundary layer has gotten very thin, and in 30 F weather, the effective temperature drops by 14 degrees, so it feels like it's 16 F. Mercifully, it doesn't get a whole lot worse at higher wind speeds, because the boundary layer is so thin that heat can't be transferred away much faster, no matter what. With a wind speed of 35 mph, the effective temperature drops to 14 F; at 50 mph, the effective temperature becomes 12 F.

When it's very cold in the first place, the thermal gradient is larger. If the outdoor temperature is 5 F, and your skin is still trying to hold 75 F, the gradient is 70 degrees. That gradient is considerably greater than when the outdoor temperature was 30 F (70/45 = 1.55). Sure enough, the amount of heat transferred away goes up by the same proportions: At 5 F, a wind speed of 10 mph carries away heat as though it were 15 degrees cooler, making it feel like –10 F; and a 25 mph wind lowers the effective temperature by 22 degrees, making it feel like –17 F. Compare that to the 25 mph case when it's 30 F outside: This time the cooling effect is 22 degrees instead of 14 degrees, over 50% worse, because of the greater thermal gradient.

Still higher wind speeds don't make it a whole lot worse, because there is not much of a boundary layer left to take away. With 5 F as the outdoor temperature, and a 40 mph wind, the effective temperature is –22 F.

The calculations for thermal gradient and thermal conductivity keep going, but the accuracy of the heat-transfer model is not all that great at extremely low temperatures and high wind speeds. The table contains some truly scary numbers, like –95 F when it's actually –45 F outside with a 50 mph wind. That's a mighty rare combination, and if anyone has actually experienced that, they probably weren't thinking about numerical values at the time. Most Americans never even experience a single occasion of –60 F wind chill in their entire lives.

The reason for wearing multiple thin layers of clothing in very cold weather is to create a series of air boundary layers, each one of which sees only a small thermal gradient, and all the inner boundary layers are not moving, so they have no wind-chill effect. It is the exposed skin that suffers most, typically on your face.

Inside the body, the brain gets to call all the shots and tells the heart where to pump warm blood to. So if your head is exposed to the outdoor air, the blood will be directed to your head and face, and the blood supply to your fingers and toes will be diminished. An early warning sign is numbness in your toes. Wearing a good insulating hat is your first line of defense.

Frostbite occurs when the body can't deliver heat to the extremities fast enough and the temperature of fingers or toes drops to such a low value that the tissue dies. Amputation is sometimes necessary in severe cases.

Dr. Sheahen lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

Dean's List Story Clarification Noted

An article published two weeks ago reported that Kaitlin McDade, a biology major, had been named to the 2010 dean's list at Davis and Elkins College. Her grade point average was noted at a 3.6, but that was incorrect. McDade earned a 4.0 in her first semester at the college.

McDade is the daughter of Lisa McDade, Oakland, and a 2010 graduate of Southern High School.

2011-12 COURSE SELECTION OFFERED ONLINE

Parents and students are asked to select courses for the 2011-2012 school year using Southern High School's online portal, Power School. Freshmen, with their parents and counselors, have already selected courses online this month during evening sessions offered at the high school. Sophomores and juniors will have the opportunity to select courses online from Feb. 3 to 11. A copy of each student's career pathway with course recommendations for next year and a course selection sheet will be sent home with all students. Students and parents are asked to fill out this selection sheet for use as a guide before making course selections on Power School. Access and registration on Power School requires a parent's username and password.

Parents and students are asked to sign the completed course selection sheet and return it to the Guidance Office. If families do not have Internet access, run into problems completing the online course selection, or prefer to complete the course selection with the aid of the student's guidance counselor, they have the option to receive assistance from a guidance counselor during regular school hours on the dates of Feb. 7-11. Individuals are asked to call 301-334-1660 in order to reserve a time slot. Guidance counselors are also offering an open lab on Feb. 7-9 from 4 to 7 p.m.

Should school be canceled because of inclement weather, make-up days will be held the following week. Guidance counselors will meet with students who do not select courses by the Feb. 11 deadline. A parent who has lost a password may visit the Main Office to obtain this information, though a valid form of identification is required for its release.

ECONOMICS FOR LEADERS SUMMER PROGRAM

Attention, juniors. The Foundation for Teaching Economics is holding an Economics for Leaders (EFL) summer program. EFL teaches young leaders how to integrate economics into the process of decision-making through a hands-on, experiential environment. Economics professors lead classes that introduce participants to "the economic way of thinking," while building understanding and skill sets in leadership. Interested students may apply online at fte.org/student-programs by March 4 if interested. More information is available in the Guidance Office.

JROTC STUDENTS MAY EARN COLLEGE CREDIT

Students enrolled in JROTC may be eligible for college elective courses through the University of Colorado, Colorado Springs, or Adams State College. These courses are electives and do cost the student to enroll; however, the cost is significantly lower than if they were to enroll by other means. Those interested in more details about these programs may contact the JROTC department at Southern High School.

IMPORTANT FAFSA DATES

Students may receive help filing the FAFSA in the computer lab (Room 1193) at the high school: Thursday, Feb. 10, at 3:30 p.m., Monday, Feb. 14, at 7 p.m., and Wednesday, Feb. 23, at 3:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

To download a PDA form, go to http://cardinal.ga.k12.md.us/Schools/SH. Orders and payments are due to Maria Zumpano by Apr. 15. When faced with a distasteful situation there is often no choice but to take a deep breath and swallow hard. It takes a lot of strength to meet life's challenges. We can do so with hope and faith if we have God's wisdom to guide us. "Be strong and take heart, all you who hope in the Lord." (Psalm 31.24) Grow in strength as you worship each week and be prepared for whatever comes your way.

Mind Your Conversations

While we usually think of conversation as a spoken interchange between two or more people, it is important to realize that conversation is virtually everywhere. Thinking is, in essence, an internal conversation. Reading a book or a magazine article is an extended conversation with an author. Television is likewise a sort of conversation, but one where we can click the remote to change conversation partners without fear of offending anyone. Our waking life is one big conversation, and even our dream life is a kind of conversation where our subconscious mind seems to send messages to our conscious selves. We should tend these conversations, and "mind" them carefully. Take care to converse with yourself in a kindly and edifying way; your thoughts become habits of mind. Mind your conversations with friends and family; your character and reputation are built largely on your words and whether they match your deeds. Exercise discretion over the "conversations" you have with the media; don't be a passive recipient of anything and everything that comes your way but make an effort to fill your mind with worthwhile material. Finally, consider that prayer is a conversation with God and that we should not only speak but also listen to what God has to say to us.

Mind your speech a little lest you should mar your fortunes.

William Shakespeare

'Proof' that Delany's series is still coming

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: I'm wondering when the series "Body of Proof" with Dana Delany is going to start airing on ABC. It was listed on the fall schedule, but I haven't seen anything on it since. –Natalie Carter, Clearfield, Pa.

A: It's set to begin March 29 ... and apparently, it already will have debuted in such countries as Italy and Spain by then, having been in production since last summer (when it still was aimed to be a fall-season starter). ABC pushed the show's premiere back to be able to give it a prime spot, which it considers the closing hour of the Tuesday lineup to be.

Q: I would like to know why CBS changed its "Early Show" hosts. –Larry Doiron, Poplar Bluff, Mo.

A: The simple answer is that the network wants to make another try to shake up its ratings, in a race where it perpetually has been in third place against "Today" on NBC and "Good Morning America" on ABC. Harry Smith – who certainly was a good soldier for CBS in that battle – expressed regret that he had been unable to "move the needle" ratingswise for his network. (He's now the principal substitute anchor for "CBS Evening News" and "Face the Nation.")

A grass-roots campaign was mounted to keep Smith, Maggie Rodriguez and weatherman Dave Price on the dawn patrol, but the deal already was done to retain Erica Hill and have her joined by Jeff Glor, Chris Wragge – who previously had been her partner on the Saturday "Early Show" – and former "Good Morning America" weekend forecaster Marysol Castro.

Q: My wife and I are avid fans of "Wheel of Fortune."

Dana Delany

We have noticed the absence of Charlie O'Donnell from the show, but he is still mentioned in the credits. Where is he? Will he be returning? –John and Sandra Conley, Elk Grove Village, Ill.

A: The longtime announcer for the syndicated game show, O'Donnell died of heart failure on Nov. 1 at age 78. Because of pretaping, some "Wheel" episodes that featured his voice aired after his death. At this writing, guest announcers were being used, with no decision yet on a permanent replacement.

Q: I checked ABC Family's Website, and it says "The Secret Life of the American Teenager" is "coming soon," but it doesn't say when it will actually be back. When is the date it will actually be on? –Todd Ziebarrth, Stevensville, Mich.

A: March 28 is the exact date the series will begin its fourth season, with Shailene Woodley and Molly Ringwald still among its stars.
